DROPS PROWLER FROM ROOF

When a Negro prowler attempted to enter her home early yesterday, Mrs. Nellie Jennings, 32, above, wife of Motorcycle Patrolman Arthur T. Jennings, of 900 Montooth street, opened a window overlooking the porch roof and fired a revolver point blank at the man. He dropped over the edge of the roof. Mrs. Jennings believes her bullet took effect, although no trace of the man could be found.

BARES DEATH PLOT

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

COURTHOUSE, CINCINNATI, Dec. 1.—A flustered and nervous farm boy, Orin Weber, hesitantly took the witness stand at the Remus murder trial today and in a faltering voice related details of the alleged perfidy of the slain Mrs. Imogene Holmes Remus.

"She had four guns and wanted to 'get' Mr. Remus," he quakingly declared.

That was one of the things he told George Remus, the defendant, and what he told Remus "drove him into a rage."

Weber knew of certain incidents because he is the brother of Bernice Weber, bosom friend of Ruth Remus, the slain woman's daughter.

HE TOLD REMUS

"I told Mr. Remus," the witness said, "that Mrs. Remus bought Franklin L. Dodge a Packard car; of Dodge having the initials changed on Mr. Remus' silverware and of Mrs. Remus going to New York to sell Remus' whisky certificates and failing, taking them to Dodge at Lansing, Mich."

These things he told Remus in Chicago after the latter had been released from the penitentiary at Atlanta. The witness now lives in Chi-

KILLERS AVENGE HER

Pittsburgh's Hill district vendettists, who take life seriously and frequently, have slain a second man said to have been implicated in the kidnaping of Julia Vanditti, 14, or 917 Bedford avenue, a month ago.

Dante Di Michele, alias James Dandy, whose mutilated body was found near New Castle Sunday, is said to have been an accessory to the girl's abduction and to have paid with his life for complicity in the act. His identity was established by fingerprints.

The state police fingerprint record from which the identification was made was taken at the time De Michele and Leo Marafita were arrested at Pittston in connection with the abduction of the girl after she had been freed by her kidnapers.

The body was found in Lawrence county near the Pennsylvania-Ohio state line, and was taken to the New Castle morgue. Finger prints of the man were made by Private E. T. Denton, of Troop D, at Butler, and sent to headquarters for identification.

James Muitta, of Gilmore way, who was shot and killed last Friday night at Congress street and Fifth avenue, during a gun fight, also was implicated in the abduction of the Vanditti girl, according to the girl's mother. Muitta and DeMichele were friends, she said.

The girl is being detained by Juvenile Court. Marafita, who was held for court charged with kidnaping, will be on trial Wednesday, December 7. DeMichele was held as a material witness.

SAYS BEACH CONFESSED MURDER

By International News Service.

COURTHOUSE, MAYS LANDING, N. J., Dec. 1.—Willis Beach, 50-year-old alleged illicit lover of Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, and jointly accused with her of murdering her husband, confessed to Samuel Bark, in Baltimore, shortly after the slaying, that he had fired the fatal shot, Bark testified today.

In Bark's testimony at the opening of the fourth day's session this morning the state had played its ace.

For three days dozens of witnesses have marched off and on the stand amidst a maze of questioning designed to pin the murder on Mrs. Lilliendahl and Beach by a net of circumstantial evidence, but not until Bark's appearance on the stand

Rock Slide Menaces Traffic

Several hundred tons of rock, loosened by earth slides above East Ohio street, in the vicinity of Walker's Bridge, may crash down into East Ohio street any minute, blocking the North Side thoroughfare and possibly the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks.

City policemen have been stationed at both ends of the danger zone to direct traffic. Starting sometime during the night, several tons of loose earth and stone slid down across the sidewalk and half-way across the street.

The street has been cleared to the edge of the city-bound car track and workmen are engaged in removing other stone and earth about ready to slip.

BOMB INJURES DEPUTY SHERIFF, WRECKS HOME

INDIANA, Pa., Dec. 1.—An Indiana county deputy sheriff was seriously injured, a mine official's residence wrecked and 12 other residences damaged in an explosion of dynamite that had been placed under a house in Starford, a mining village near here, at 5 o'clock this morning.

The injured officer is Regis McKnight, 25, of Indiana, a deputy sheriff employed by Sheriff John M. Malcolm. He received the full force of the explosion and was taken to the Indiana Hospital with severe wounds over the entire body. Hospital attaches regard his condition as favorable.

BOMBERS ESCAPE

AIDING NEEDY IS NOBLEST DUTY—KLINE

"The Sun-Telegraph has undertaken one of the noblest of missions," said Mayor Charles H. Kline, in a formal statement issued today, "in seeking to discover and then planning to relieve Pittsburgh's 'Twenty Neediest Cases' at this blessed Christmastide.

"It should require no strong appeal to cause every man, woman and child to spontaneously enlist in a movement destined to bring sunshine and happiness into those homes where distress now rides the throne.

"I would not call it charity in the freely accepted meaning of that term. It should be but the reaction of every human being who has a genuine belief in the spirit of Christmas and the gospel of eternal love brought to us by the Babe of Bethlehem.

$1,500,000 LOSS BARED IN STATE HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT

LAME PUT ON PINCHOT REGIME

HARRISBURG, Dec. 1.—Loss of $1,500,000 during a our-year period in the operation f the State Highway Department was shown in an audit ade by Main & Co., of Pittsurgh and Harrisburg, a sumiary of the examination given ut at the governor's office toay revealed. The audit reealed that the loss was susained because in the Pinchot dministration the department id not keep up with modern usiness methods as a result of he growth of the department.

The audit covers 340 pages. Books the department for the fiscal biennium, ending May 31, were examined and the examination in many ases covers a four-year period, the overnor's office said.

Secretary of Highways James L. tuart immediately upon receipt of he audit began a study of the document. Heads of bureaus where losses were discovered probably will be alled upon to explain the discrepanies, it was indicated. Further reorganization in the personnel of the epartment may be made by Mr. tuart after he has had an opportunity to examine the auditors' report.

In the analysis of the department's ooks a loss of $500,000 was shown hrough failure to collect all that was due the state on account of road building. This loss was sustained when counties, boroughs and townhips failed to pay their full share o the state. This loss covers the years 1924, 1925 and 1926. "This amount," the auditors' report says, "should not be lost and if prompt action is taken the state can still collect."

Amounts never entered on the books of the department against counties and townships in the construction of joint road projects resulted in a loss to the state of $239,818, the audit shows. Most of this sum can be collected, the auditors say.

Another item of loss amounting to $165,176 resulted from the department's failing to put on its books sums actually due for road construction which local authorities were bound to and had agreed to pay.

before his father married the interesting girl whom he first saw washing clothes in a brook as he rode past with his warriors.

BUT all that doesn't change the fact that marriage is better than lack of marriage. Marriage will not go out of fashion. It will persist until men become worthy of an institution at present too good for many of them.

WHILE introducing his new car to the world Henry Ford also introduces a new kind of school which he maintains near his famous wayside inn. He says the main object of the school is "TO TEACH THINKING."

That is the only education worth while, and the kind of education most generally neglected, especially in the big universities.

They teach NOT THINKING.

The value of what you eat depends on what you digest. The alue of what you read depends n what you think. Ford's eduational system mixes teaching e hands with teaching the mind. Our public schools should try that and look into the Ford method.

WALL STREET tape, the little piece of white paper that runs through the ticker, was 20 minutes behind yesterday, could ot keep up with the extraordiary speculation.

Stocks sailed up again, Steel, General Motors, etc. Three million shares were bought by somebody who evidently believes the time for that "necessary slump" has not yet come.

James Speyer's statement, that prosperity is our normal condition, just as health is the normal condition of a healthy man, as long as he abstains from foolishness, is the best description of this fortunate land.

SUDBURY, in good Massachusetts, and its town council mean it when they demand President Coolidge for a second elective term. In fact, they go further, voting 6 to 1 to double his salary and make him President for life. Irving A. Priest, Boston banker, head of Sudbury's town committee, says the real Uncle Sam has come to life in President Coolidge, who is "thin, sharp featured, grim, deliberate, cool, firm, patient, sagacious, tolerant, kind, Christian."

MR. COOLIDGE is all these things and some others, but he agrees with George Washington that the people don't want any President for life, not even if the Angel Gabriel came down and offered to take the job.

A MONUMENT to Theodore Roosevelt will be erected above the Culebra cut overlooking the Panama Canal. Roosevelt deserves the honor; the monument should be a fine one.

All his interesting talk, advising women to have 19 children, etc., will be forgotten. But the act that he put through the Panama Canal will NOT be forgotten. In that [illegible] fered his country great se[illegible] message to Congress, could not be shorter. Madame De Sevigne wrote to her daughter, "If I had had more time I should have written you a shorter letter." Considering the field covered the President's message will be found shorter than most men could have made it. His "I do not choose" proves ability to say much in a few words.

STRANGE COURT HELD -:- IN TUBERCULAR -:- WARD AT MAYVIEW

PERIPATETIC PENNSYLVANIA JUSTICE

Justice went a-walking yesterday when Judge S. E. Shull, Monroe county judge, assisting in Common Pleas Court, moved his entire court to a ward in a tubercular cottage at Mayview. There the plaintiff, Frank Karlonziak, 86, of 3018 Spruce way, a patient, presented his case. He is shown propped in bed as the trial goes on. The huge Negro at his right is the defendant, John H. Hutchinson, alias John Hudson, accused of being one of two men who beat him unconscious during a robbery two years ago. Judge Shull is shown sitting at the small table to the right, with his stenographer, Karl E. Kirsch, taking testimony.

"IT'S A LONG WAY TO WALK"

Said Judge Shull, right, to Assistant District Attorney John F. Hagerty, center, and B. M. Barney Cohen, defense counsel, as they plod up the road to the tubercular cottage. The entire court, judge, attorneys, attendants and jurors, made the trip to Mayview in a county bus.

which reached a crest last night, covering streets with several feet of water.

The stream was practically within banks late today after giving Bradford its worst flood scare in years. Cellars in part of the business section were flooded.

The First Methodist Episcopal Church was preferred to families made homeless by the rising waters.

WARREN, Pa., Dec. 1. — Cold weather, it was thought today, would check the rise of the Allegheny River which has reached the 12-foot stage here.

The river today had reached the highest stage since 1917, when the borough and county experienced a disastrous flood. Lowland along the river is inundated.

The crest of a new rise in the Allegheny River will carry local streams to a near-flood stage tomorrow morning, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman predicted this afternoon.

A stage of between 24 and 25 feet is indicated. The latter is the flood mark. At noon today the Point gauge showed 21 feet and rising slowly.

The second rise, caused by rains over the Allegheny watershed, will inundate tracks and the ground floor of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad warehouse, North Side, but will cause virtually no damage, the forecaster said.

A sharp rise in the upper Allegheny is being offset by the falling Monongahela, and it is difficult, the forecaster said, to predict the probable effect of rainfall to the north. Cold weather also will check the rise.

Reports from Olean, N. Y., showed 2.38 inches of rain; Warren, Pa., 1.7 inches, and Franklin, 1.87 inches.

At the new government dam at Schenley the water had risen to a stage of 26.6 feet, 1.2 feet higher than it was two weeks ago, when several acres of river bank were washed away with three houses and the back fill at the abutment. Inspectors at the dam said they had the situation well in hand and did not expect the rising waters to cause any more damage. The washout behind the abutment has been filled in with stone and slag.

ENJOIN CLARKS IN OMAR OIL LAND SALE

A temporary restraining order was signed today by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson enjoining N. F. Clark, of Pittsburgh, former president of the Omar Oil and Gas Company, and his son, Arthur Clark, of Wichita Falls, Tex., from making any sale or assignment of 480 acres of land in Pottawatomie. The action was brought in an equity suit by the Omar Oil and Gas Company, in which the concern seeks an accounting of certain transactions in stock and property during the period N. F. Clark was president of the company. He served in that capacity continuously from June, 1916, to July 12, 1927.

The bill of complaint sets forth that Clark on December 4, 1926, assigned to his son the undivided half interest of six leases on the 480 acres, without any consideration, and it further avers that Clark received a salary of $234,333.33 as president, to which he was not legally entitled.

NEW FORD PRICES

The truck with cab and body will cost from $595 to $610.

Gone forever is the Flivver—it has rattled on to oblivion. And now the world welcomes the new Ford—the sprightly cricket of motorcars.

A peep behind the scenes at Henry Ford's latest automobile today is a treat to be envied; to see it in action gives you a real thrill, but to ride in the new car—well, pass the story along to your grandchildren.

Past the whitewashed windows in the Ford branch factory in Baum boulevard, through its curtained doors, up its guarded stairways and into a sort of holy of holies of engineers, salesmen and mechanics—and the long-heralded vehicle may be found. Here a few newspapermen went yesterday and were given a demonstration of the vaunted machine, which it has been declared, is to revolutionize modern transportation.

The exhibit of six models of new Fords is not an overwhelming surprise. Information as to its lines and mechanical specifications have leaked out from various sources, but the performance of the machine reveals power, acceleration and ease in handling which had not been anticipated by the most hopeful boosters of Ford output for 1928. It gets away like a greyhound, its motor purring a soothing hum, and there is the minimum of vibration. At 20 miles an hour it stops in 15 feet.

It has been called a "baby Lincoln," and be it known that Ford's high-priced car does not have its dignity offended by the comparison. It looks as good as anything on the road and will not be left behind in speed. It has put the "Ford" jokes on the shelf and erects an everlasting tombstone to the "Lizzie."

Tomorrow and Saturday it will be on view in Motor Square Garden where everybody in Pittsburgh and the suburbs may see it. Manager John L. Hernon, of the Garden, explained that no admission would be charged.

Charter Sought Here For Welfare Fund

Not more than $5,000,000 annually can be collected as sources of income other than real estate, according to formal application made in Common Pleas Court today by Attorney W. S. Moorhead, of the law firm of Moorhead & Knox, for a charter for the Welfare Fund of Pittsburgh.

The purpose of the formation of the proposed corporation is a pooling of interests in financing the maintenance of social agencies, co-ordinating their services, securing the general support of co-ordinated social agencies by the residents of Allegheny county, and rendering more effective the work of charitable institutions.

The applicants for the charter include a Protestant minister, a Catholic priest and a Jewish rabbi, the directing heads of the Associated Charities, the Federation of Social Agencies, Jewish Philanthropies, Catholic Charities and other charitable institutions, and men and women prominent in public life, business and professional callings.

The individual signers of the application for the charter include the following:

William B. Schiller, formerly president of the National Tube Company; Mrs. William Frew, director of Public Health Nursing Association; G. G. Coolidge, president of Associated Charities; Louis J. Affelder, president Irene Kaufmann Settlement; Dr. L. B. Bernstein, executive director Federation of Jewish Philanthropies; Dr. E. N. While patroling the vicinity this morning the officer noticed a ball of fire rolling under the front porch of the house and in the darkness was able to see two men running down the village street. Believing that an attempt had been made to fire the house, the officer gave chase and discharged his revolver at the fugitives. The men eluded their pursuer and McKnight returned to extinguish what he thought was a blazing torch. As he crawled under the front porch the dynamite exploded, seriously injuring the officer and wrecking the residence.

BRAKEMAN GIVES CLUE TO VOGEL

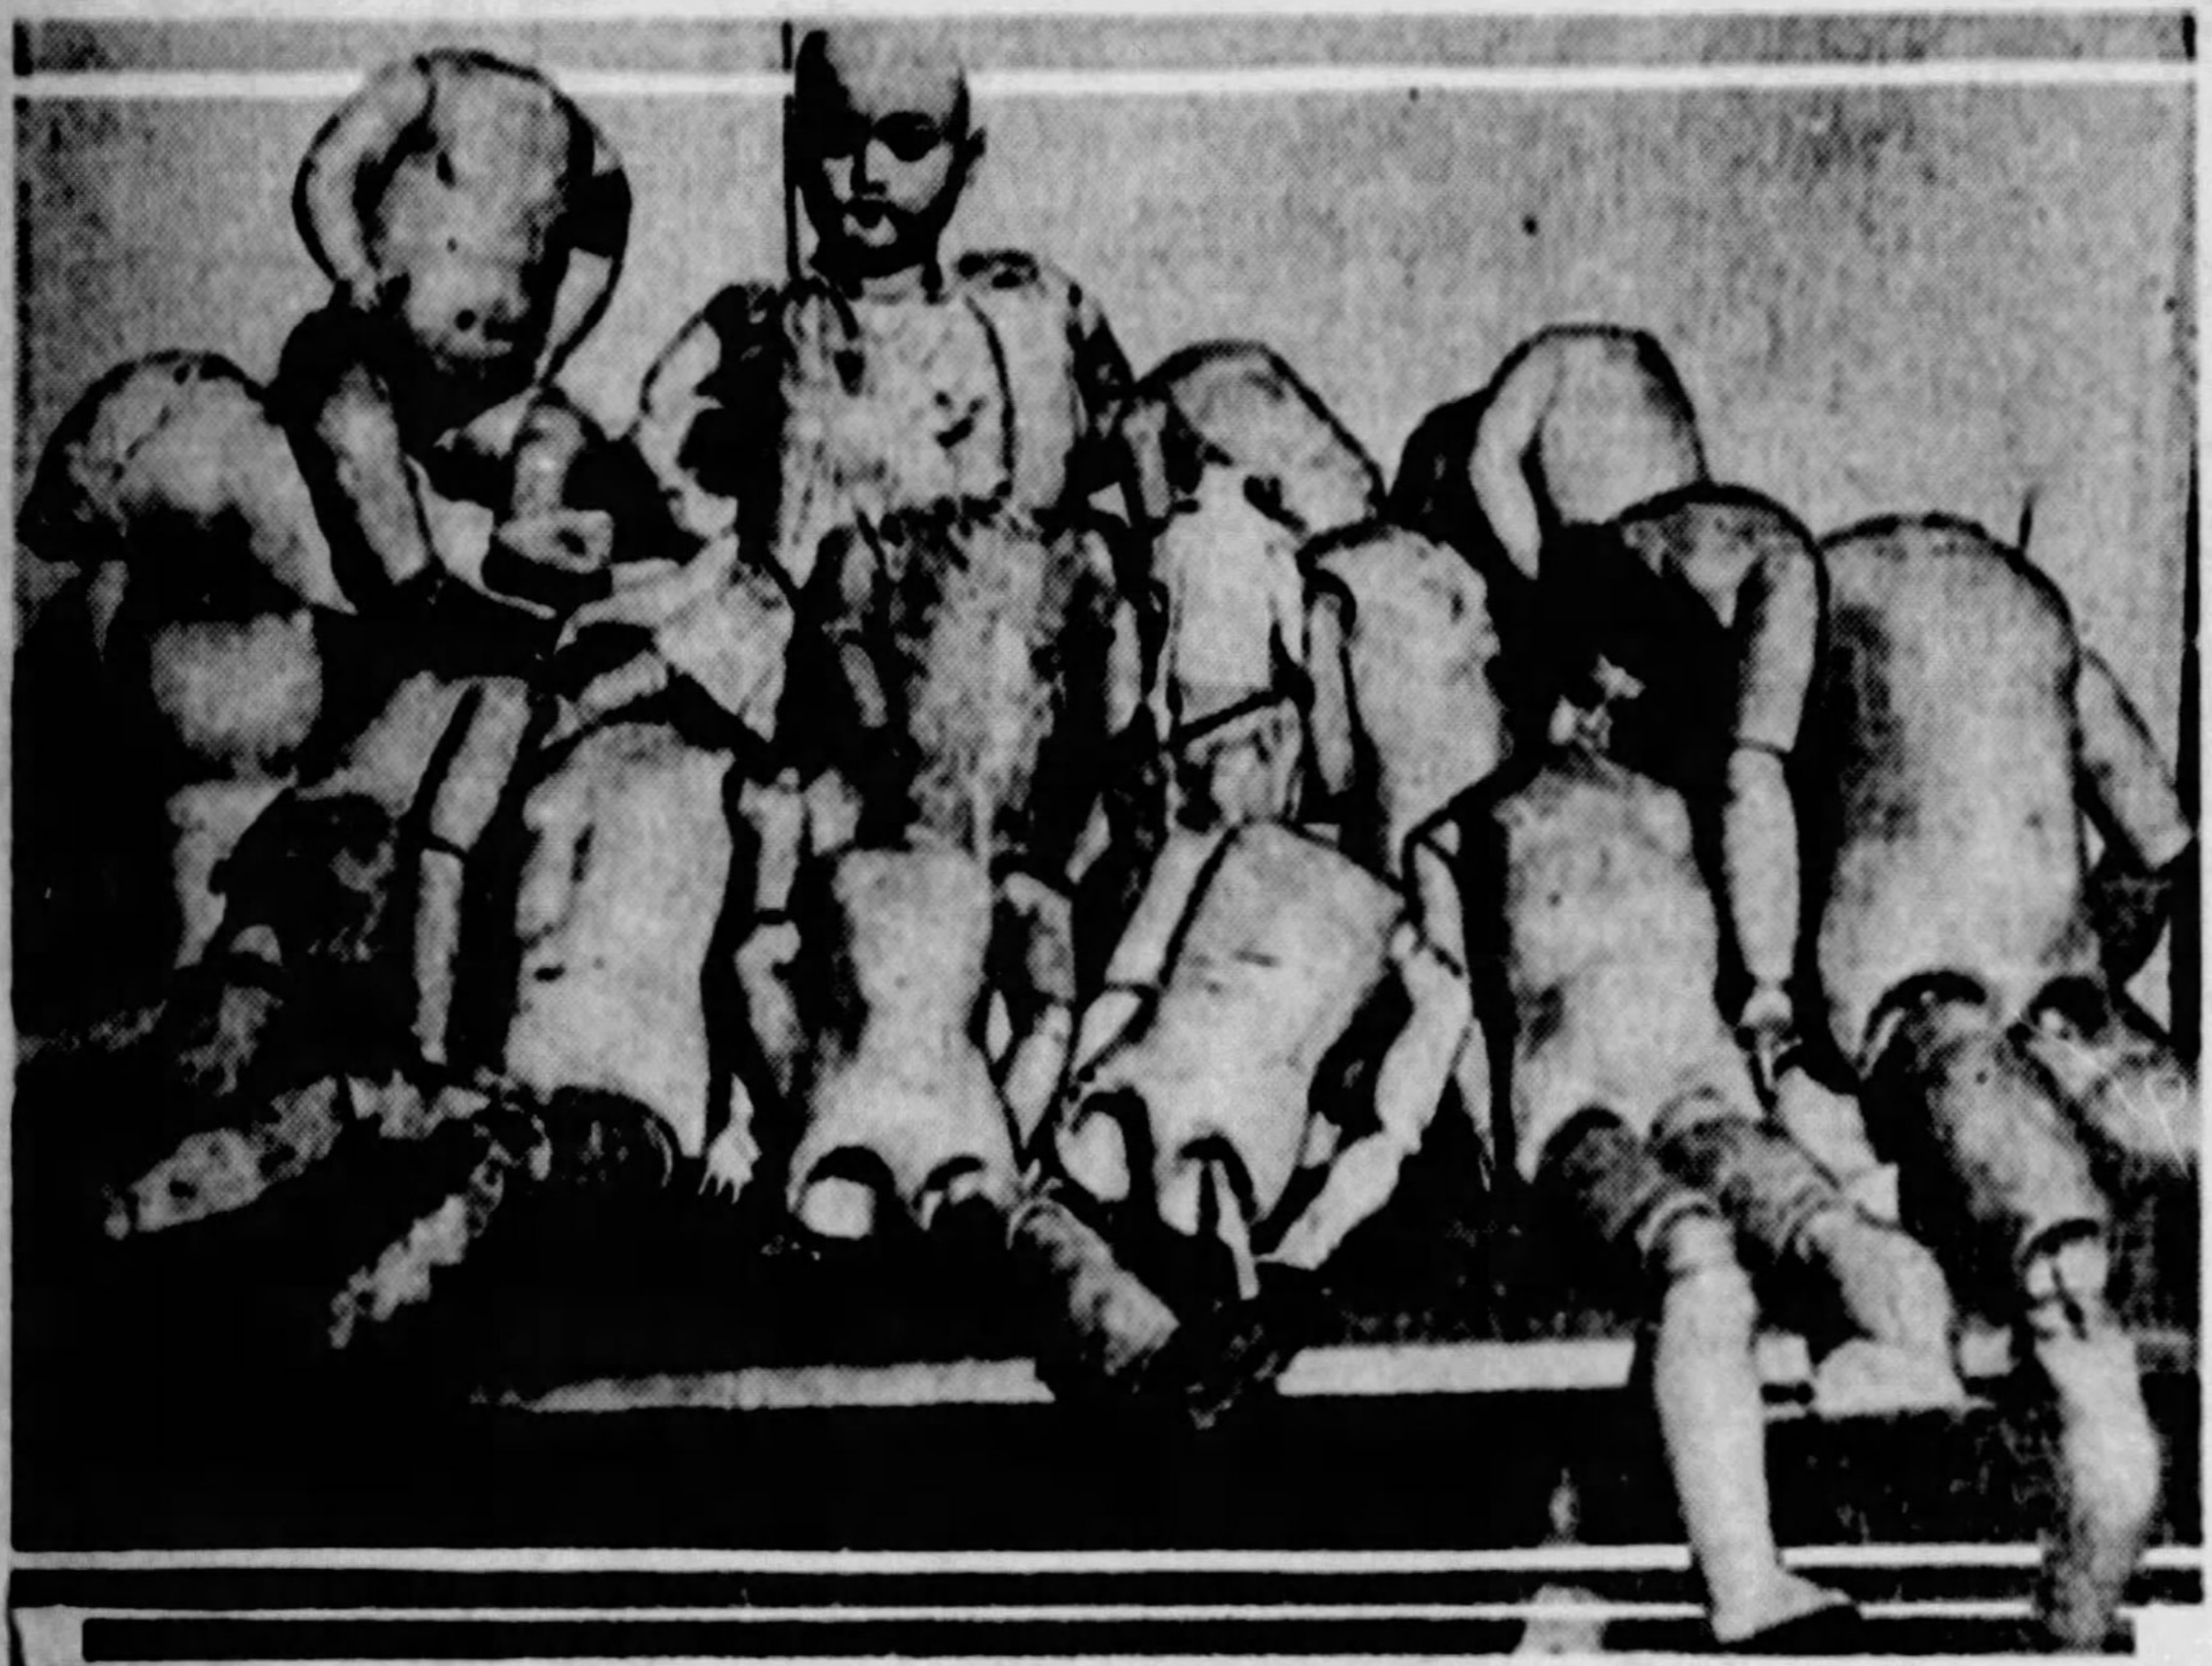
Belief that George Vogel, of Avalon, Pittsburgh chain store owner, missing since November 13, still is alive was revived late today.

A. R. Bonin, of 701 West Twenty-sixth street, Erie, Pa., brakeman on the Pennsylvania Railroad, told Charles Vogel, brother of the missing man, and City Detective Michael Feeny that last Friday a man strongly resembling George Vogel had boarded his train at the Pennsylvania Station here, accompanied by a woman. Bonin said efforts of the pair to escape notice first attracted his attention.

The next morning, Bonin says, he saw a picture of George Vogel in The Sun-Telegraph and noted the resemblance to the man he had seen on the train the day before. His description of the man to Charles Vogel tallied with that of the missing merchant with the exception of the clothing the latter wore when last seen here.

The woman was described by Bonin as having been about 25 and dressed in a gray sports suit. Both kept their faces averted, Bonin said. They left the train between New Castle and Erie.

Relatives of the missing man had come to believe him dead, because he did not appear for the funeral of his favorite son Tuesday.



THESE WILL CHEER SOME YOUNGSTER

Funeral of Woods on Saturday

Stunned by his sudden death in his Sewickley home last night, hundreds of Pittsburghers planned today to attend the funeral of Edward A. Woods, president of the Edward A. Woods Insurance Company and treasurer of the Pittsburgh Chapter, American Red Cross, which will be held at 2:30 p. m. Saturday in the First Presbyterian Church, Sewickley.

Mr. Woods was ordered by physicians to remain in his home, Academy and Woodland avenues, Sewickley, for a rest a week ago. Yesterday he became acutely ill from what is believed to have been a combination of appendicitis and heart disease. He died at 10:30 p. m.

Mr. Woods was recognized as one of the leading insurance men in the country. He was chairman of the home service section and of the disaster relief committee of the local Red Cross, was one of the founders of the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh, and had been president of the league since its organization. He was a lifelong resident of Pittsburgh, a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Woods. His father was a former chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh.

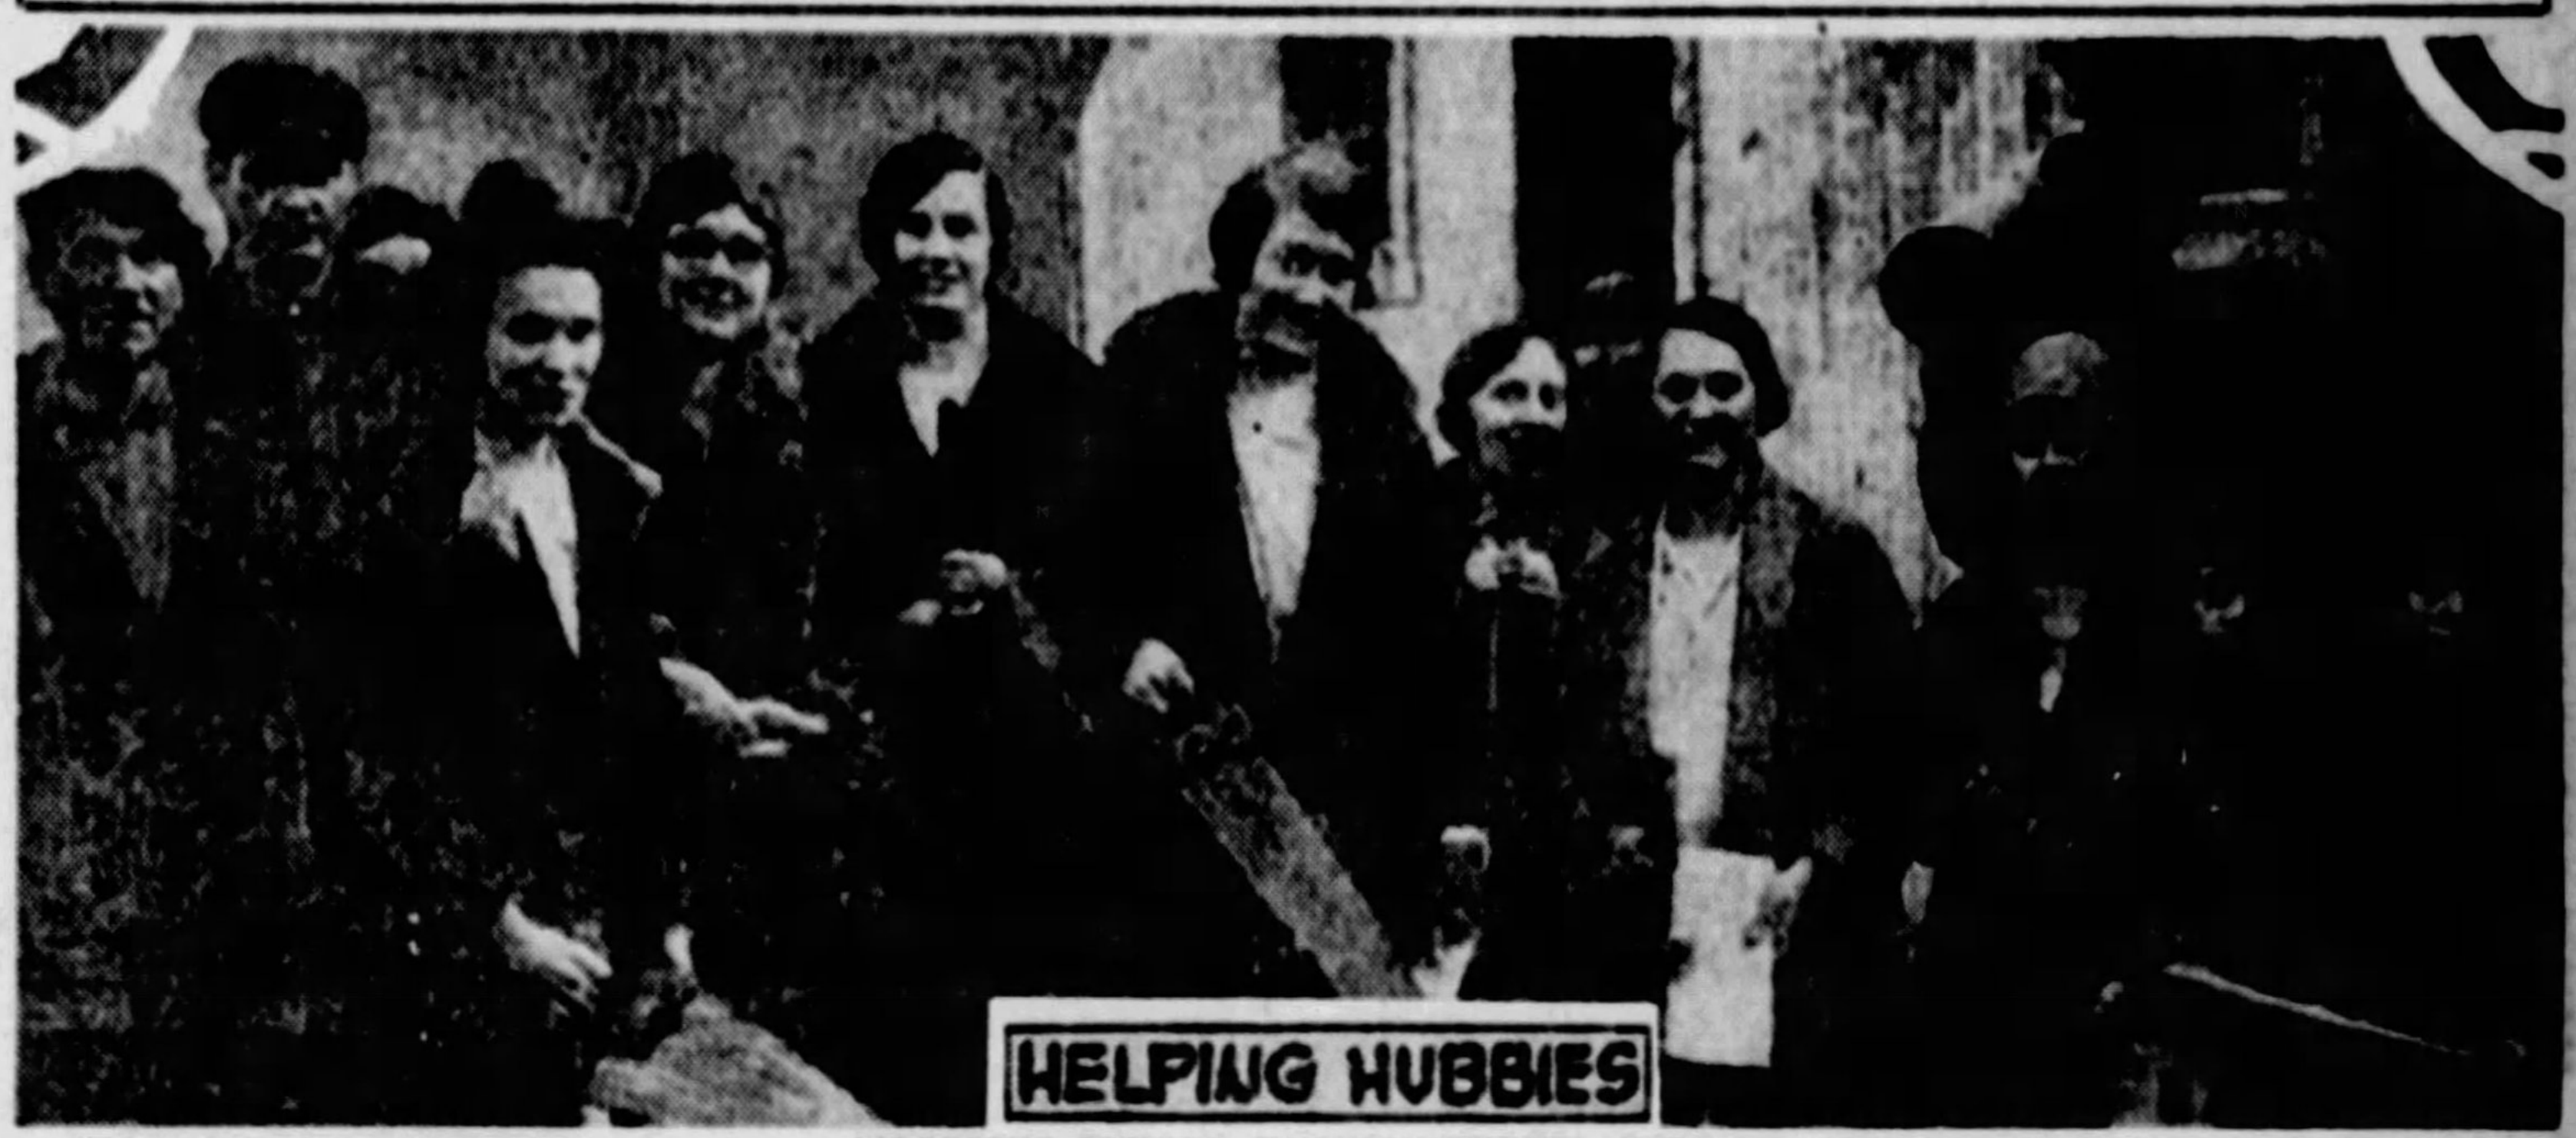
He was graduated from the Western University of Pennsylvania in 1883, and in 1917 was awarded a master of arts degree from the University of Pittsburgh and a similar degree from Princeton two years later.

He was a former president and later a trustee of the National Association of Life Underwriters. He was a member and former president of the Pittsburgh Life Underwriters' Association and also a member of the Altoona, Erie, Harrisburg and Youngstown life underwriters' associations, and the association of Canada. He was instrumental in establishing the bureau of salesmanship research and school of life insurance salesmanship of Carnegie Institute of Technology, and later at the University of Pittsburgh. He was a member of the committee to study, investigate and revise insurance laws of the state from 1917 to 1921.

Mr. Woods was a director of the Mercy Hospital, a member of the board of the Sewickley Valley Hospital, director of the Union Savings Bank, a member of the Sons of the American Revolution and honorary president of the Alliance Francaise. He was a member of the Duquesne and University clubs, Pittsburgh Athletic Association, Edgeworth and Montour Heights Country clubs, the Princeton Club of Pittsburgh, the New York and Nassau Quadrangle Club and the Presbyterian Church. He also was president of the Lake Placid Camp and Trail Club.

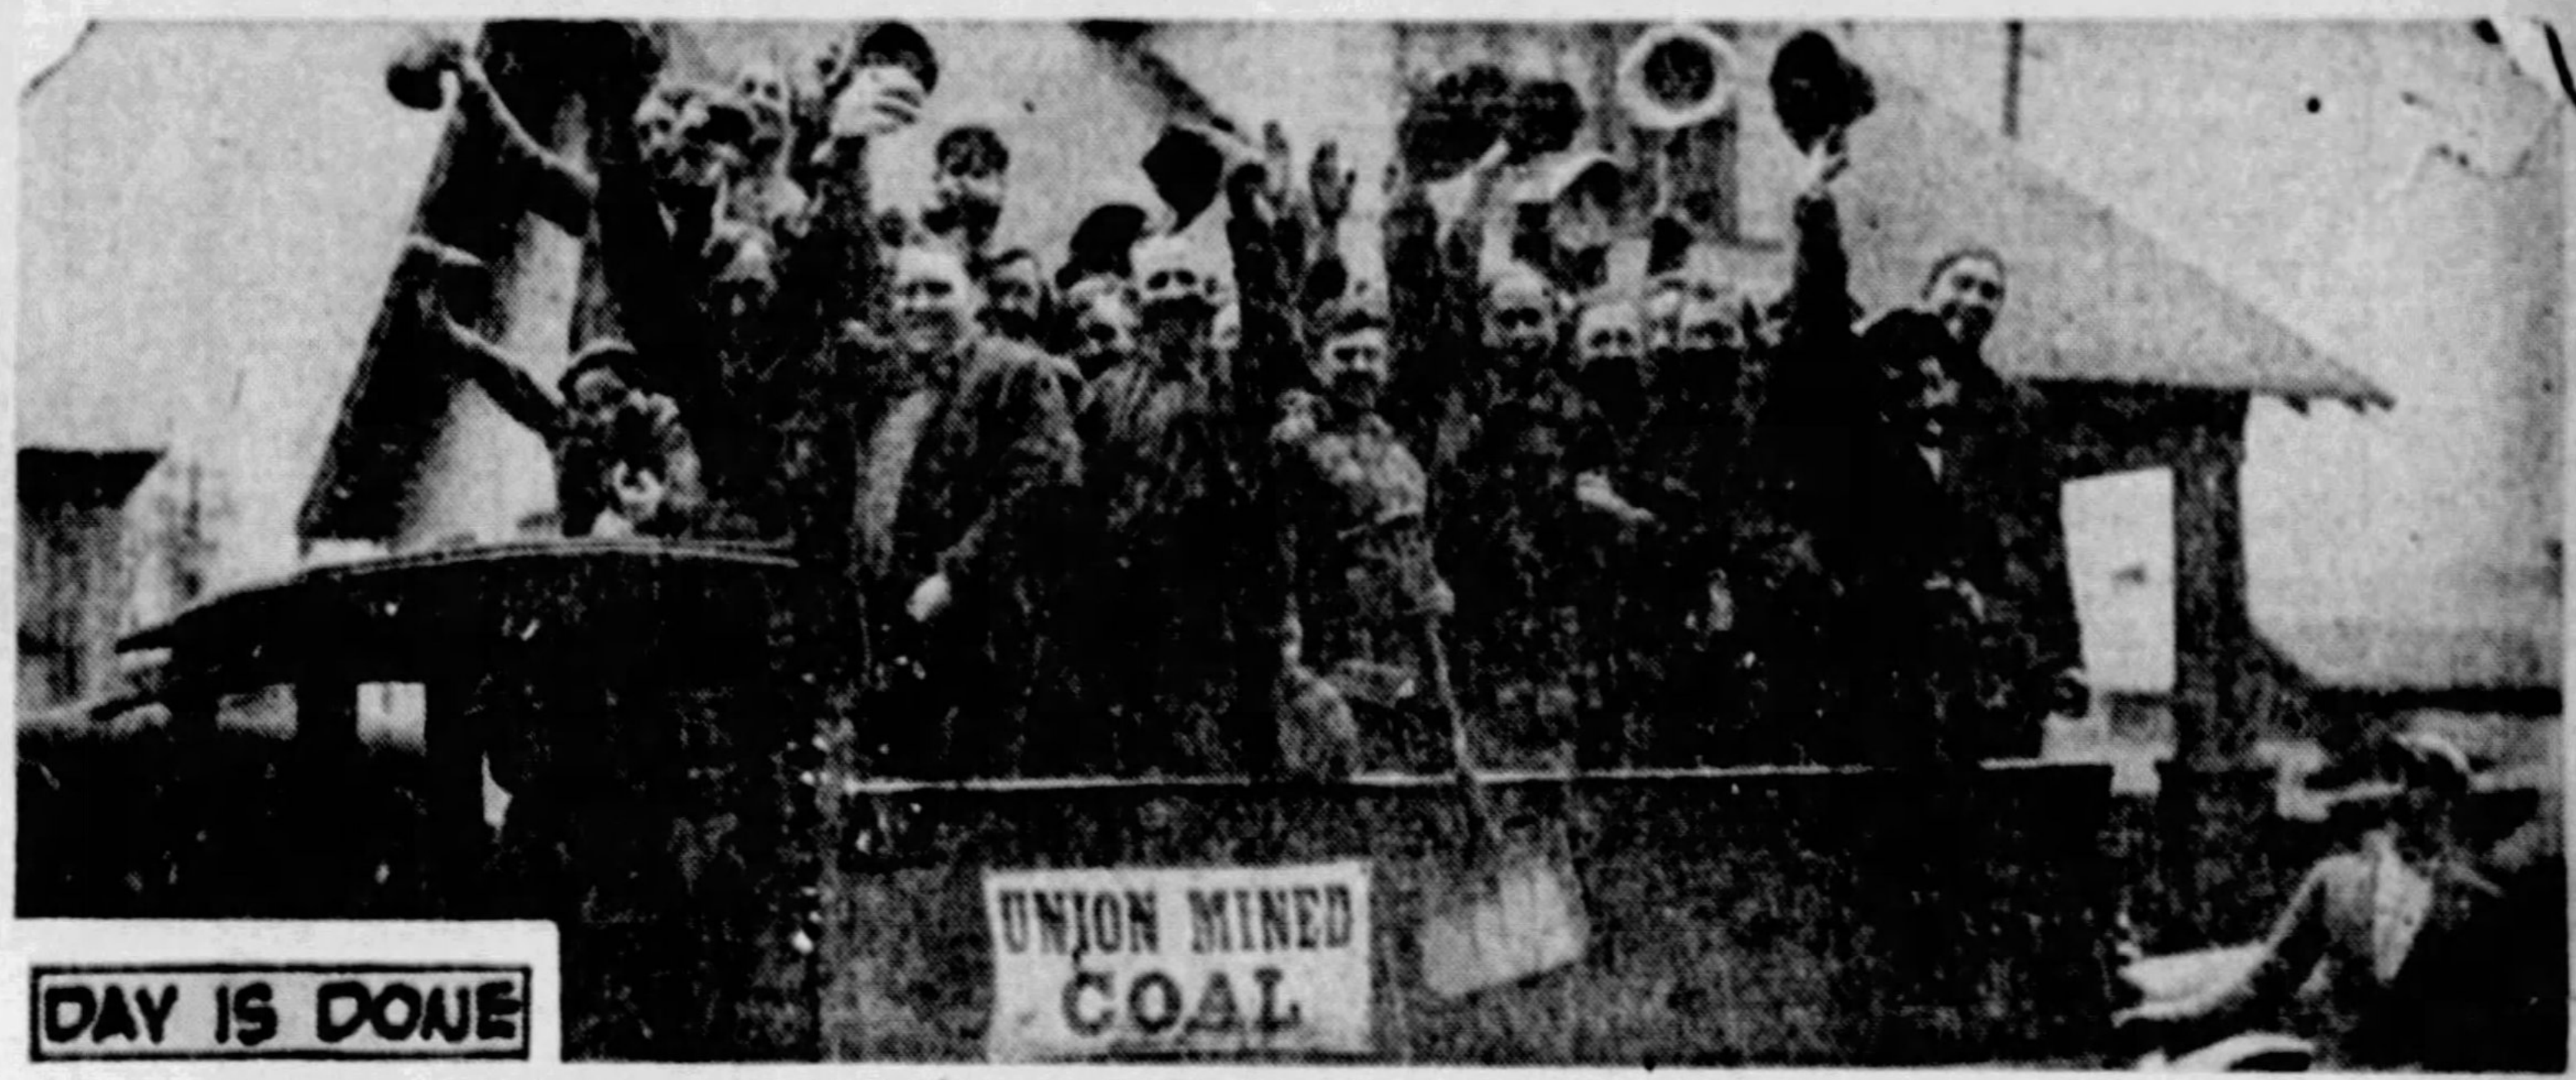
He was the author of "Life Underwriting as a Career." He leaves his widow, Mrs. Gertrude M. Macrum Woods; a son, Edward A. Woods, Jr., of Sewickley; a daughter, Mrs. A. C. Robertson III, of Cleveland; his mother, Mrs. Ellen C. Woods, of Sewickley, and a brother, Charles A. Woods, also of Sewickley.

HARMARVILLE MINERS RACE WINTER COLD



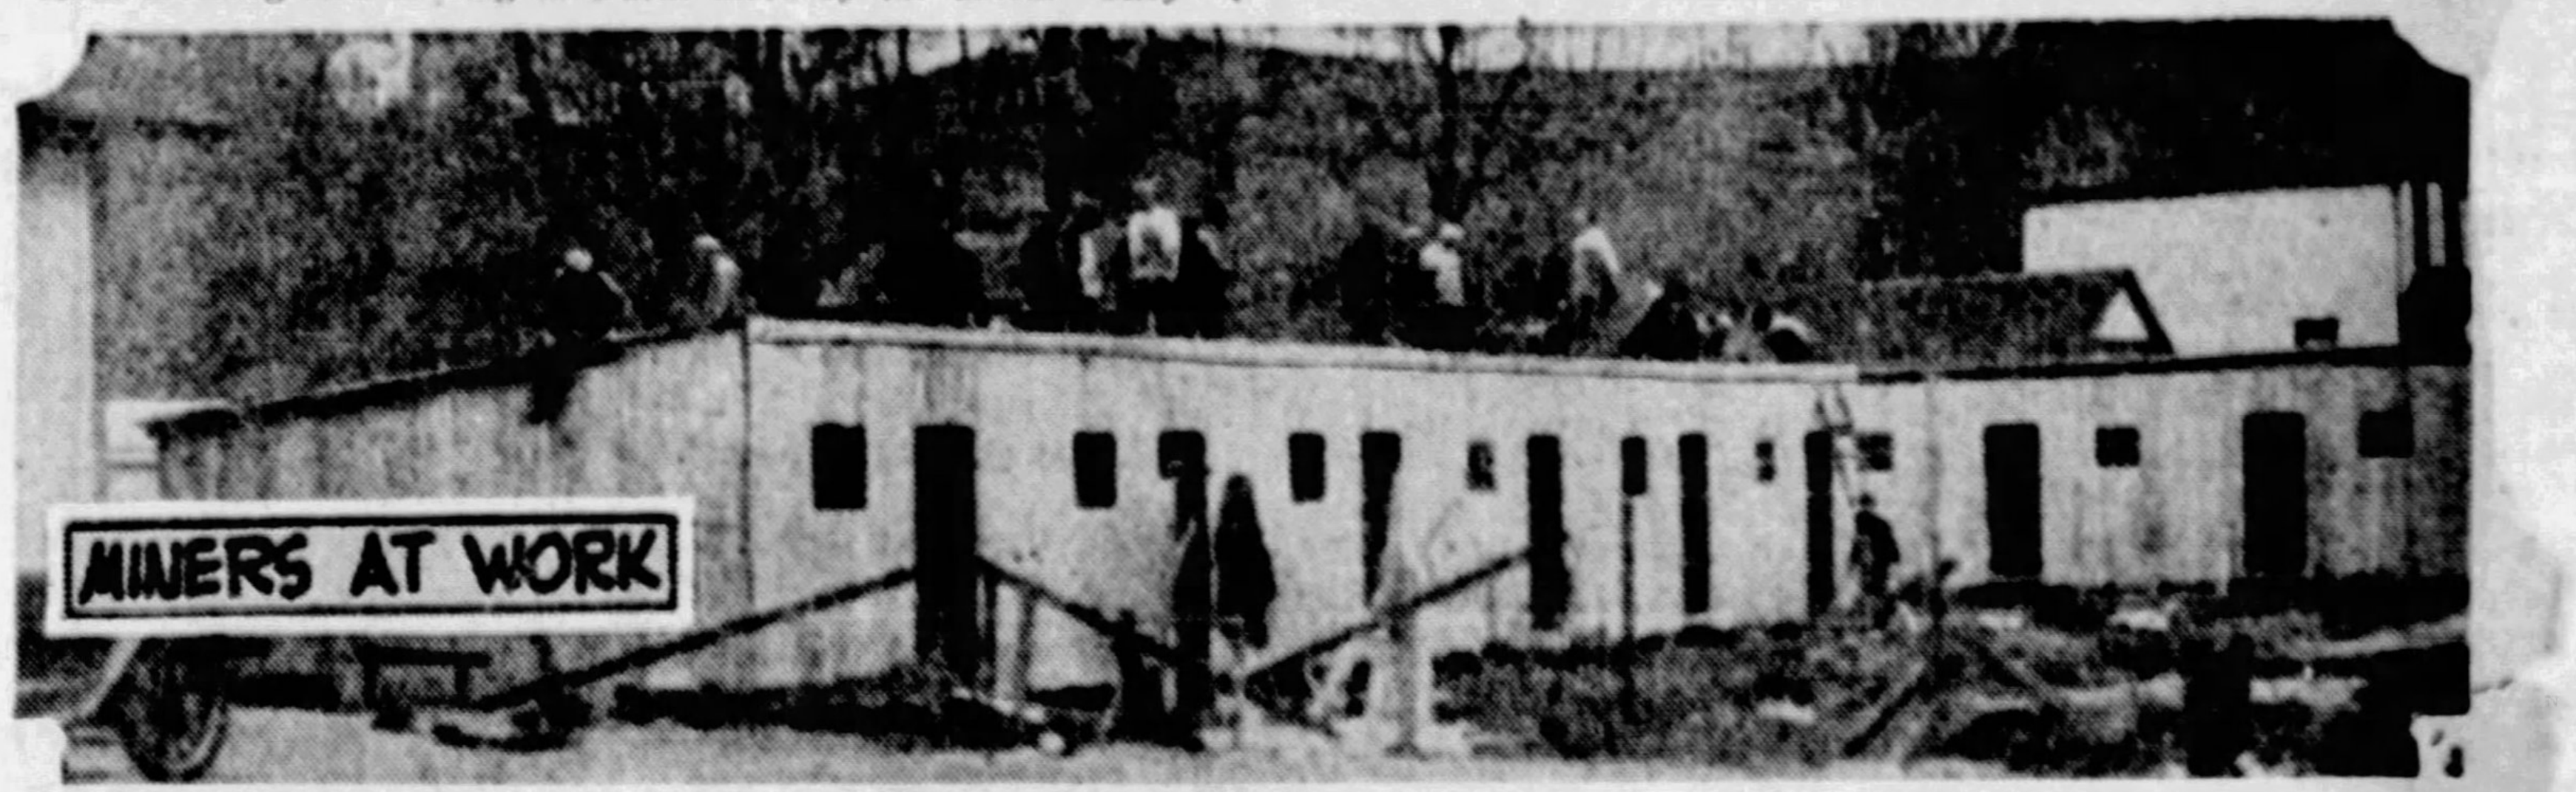
WOMEN TURN CARPENTERS, TOO

Miners of the Harmarville district, forced to move from company houses by the recent eviction decision, are working at top speed to complete barracks, the material for which is being supplied by their union. Above are women who are helping their husbands in the race to beat Old Man Winter's chilling winds.



UNION HIRES LABOR TRANSPORT TRUCKS

The barracks are being built at Acmetonia, about two miles from the miners' present homes. The men are taken back and forth morning and evening in trucks hired by the union. They started work Sunday morning and expect to have the barracks finished by the end of the week.



42 ROOMS FOR 98 FAMILIES

The barracks where 98 families will make their homes during the coming winter months will contain 42 rooms. In some families there are as many as 13 persons and the housing is entirely inadequate. At least 250 rooms are needed, union officials declare.

ToyMissionAsksDolls Be Sent in Early

Among the hundreds of broken dolls received at the headquarters of the Toy Mission in the Old South School Building, Ross and Diamond streets, are many that will have to be discarded because no portion of them can be salvaged. All the dolls that came with a perfect head, body, arm or leg, no matter how much mutilated otherwise, are gladly received and are used in making over and re-stringing new dolls from the various parts.

"Persons sending dolls are urged to examine them," said George L. Bond, manager of the Mission, when receiving the report of many gifts of toys from the Sun-Tele Auxiliary. "Dolls with a broken head and body, twisted arms and crushed legs cannot be used. Likewise, we do not use dolls that are not clean. The object of these gifts to the poor children of the city is to teach them appreciation of the beautiful and to inculcate habits f cleanliness, and we cannot do his if dolls are soiled."

In order that all dolls may be pre-nted in new dresses, the Mission ires to receive them as soon as ssible in order that the dresses y be provided. All gifts of books, lls or toys left at the Sun-Tele xiliary Stations will be sent to the Mission promptly.

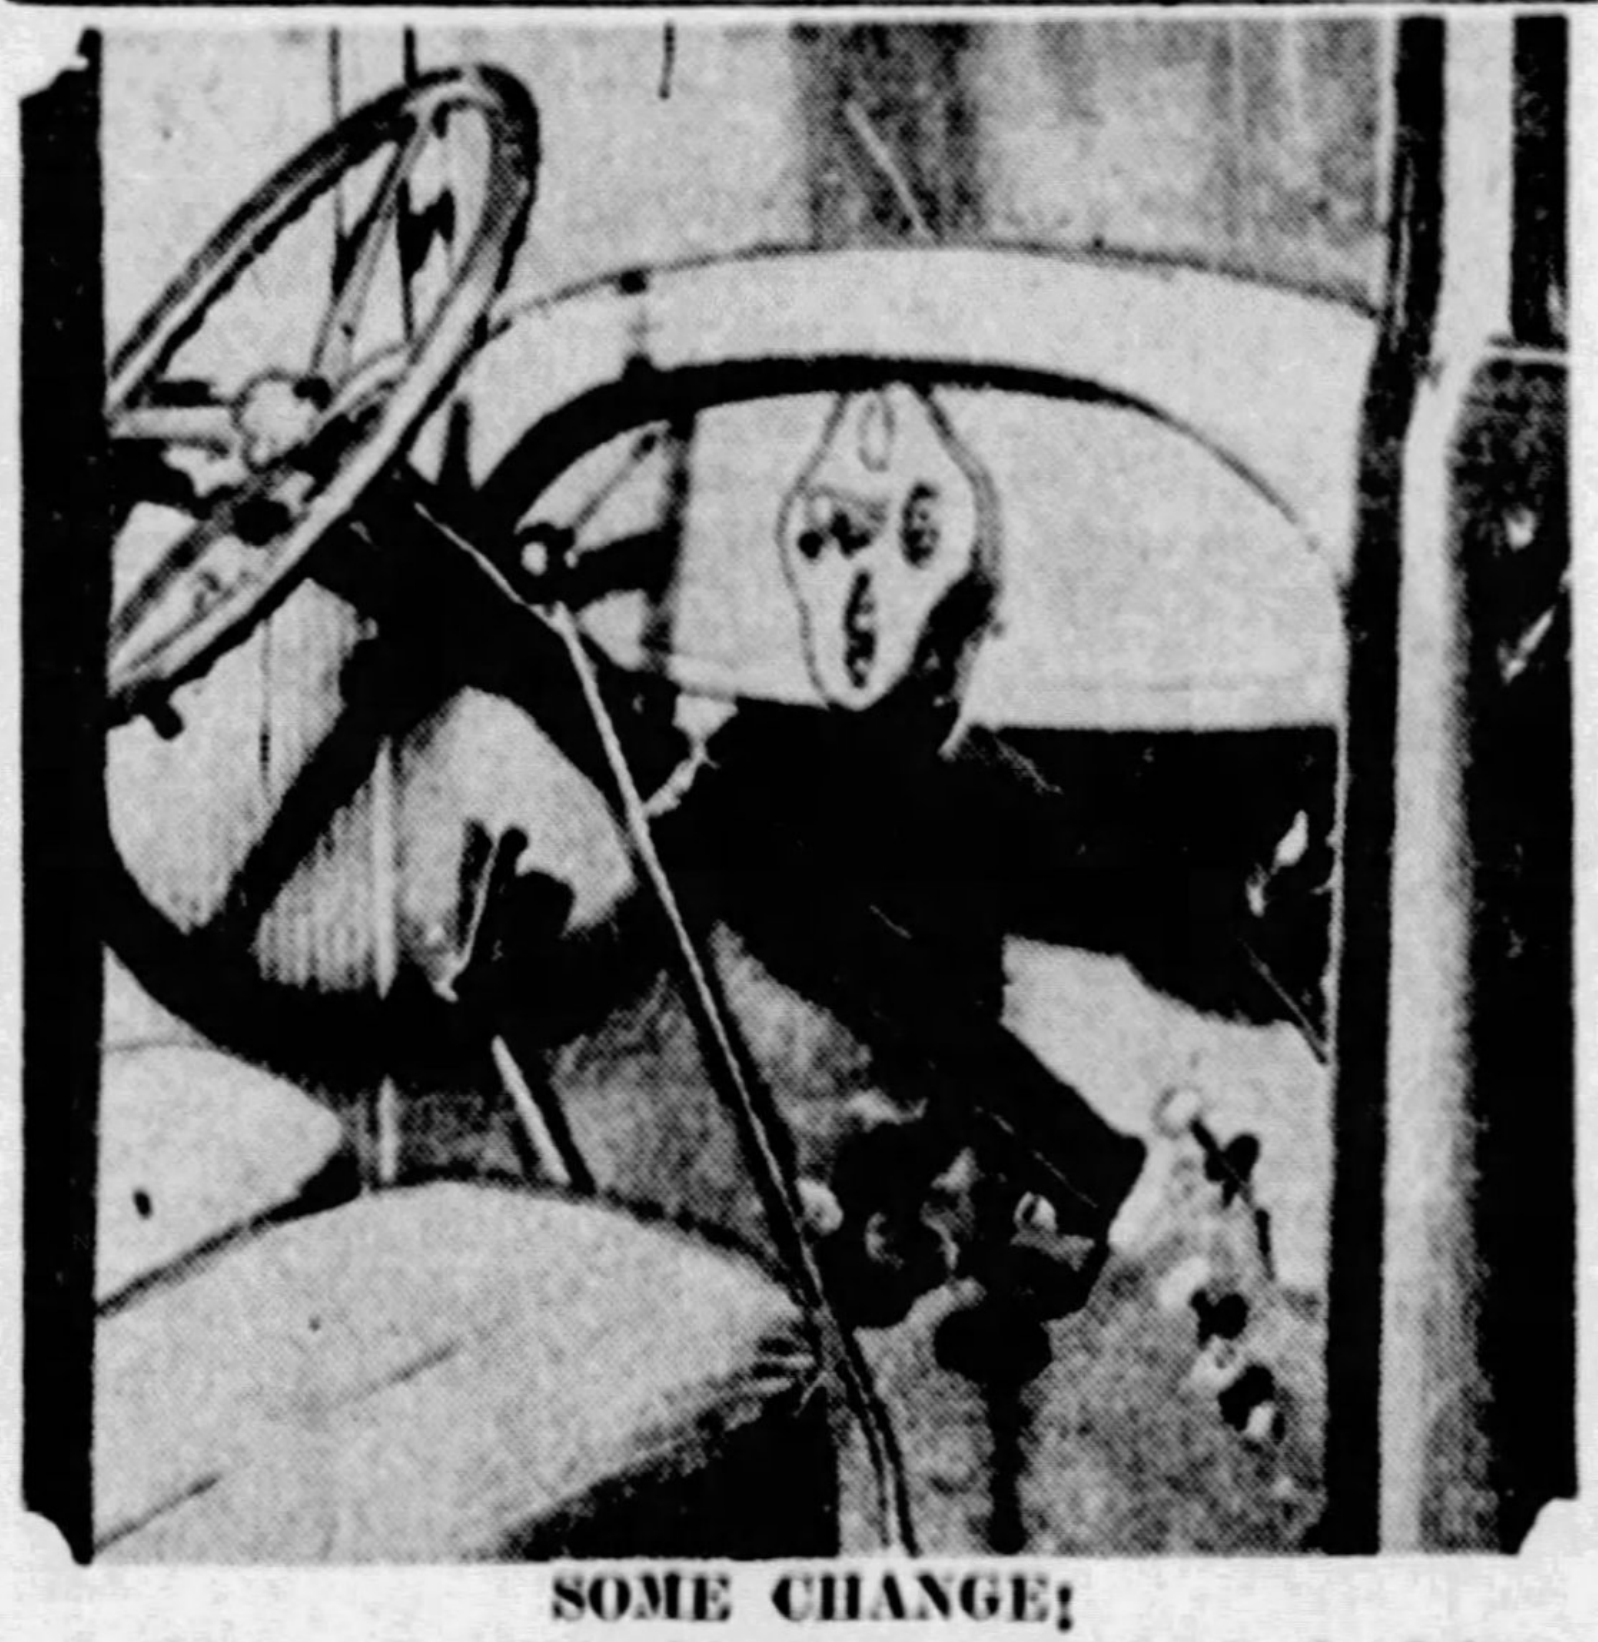
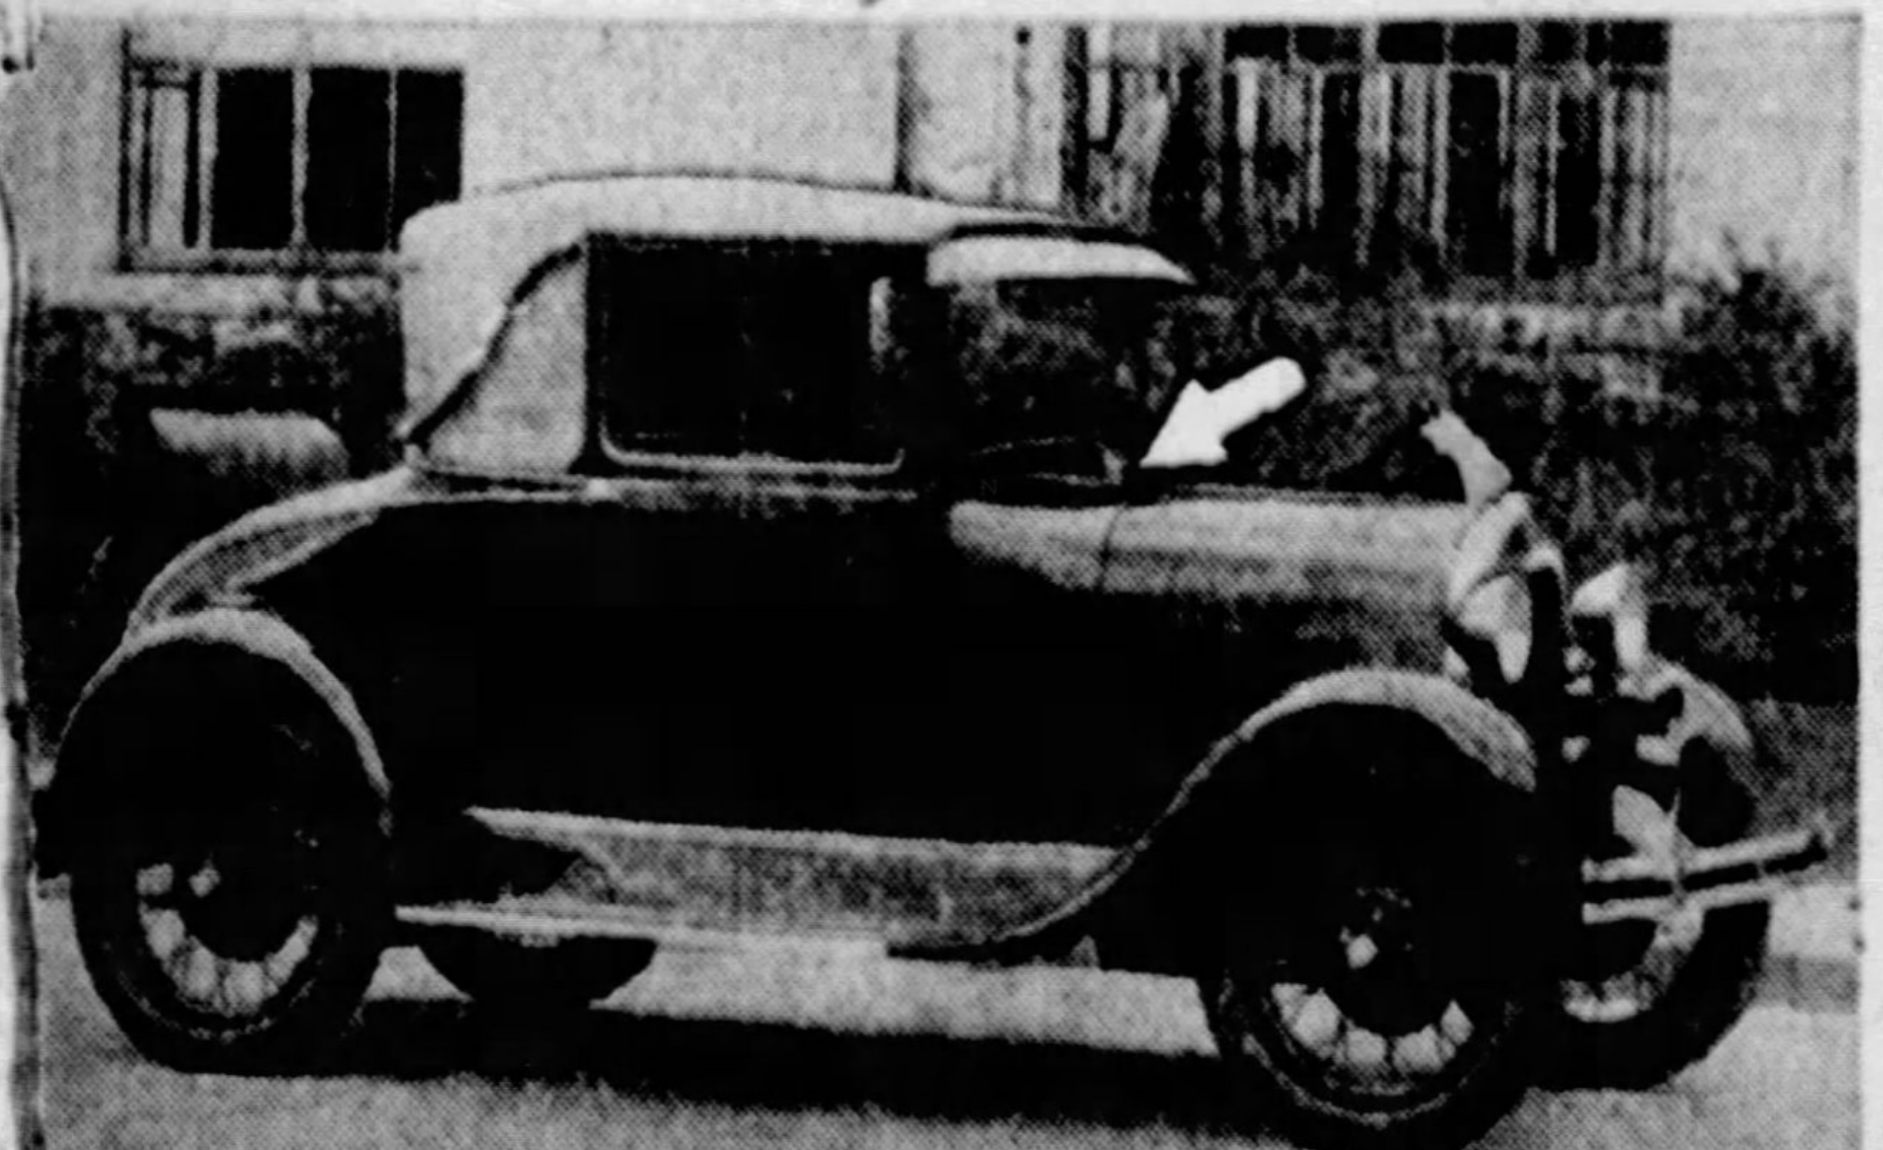
HERE IT IS, FOLKS! FORD'S NEW CAR



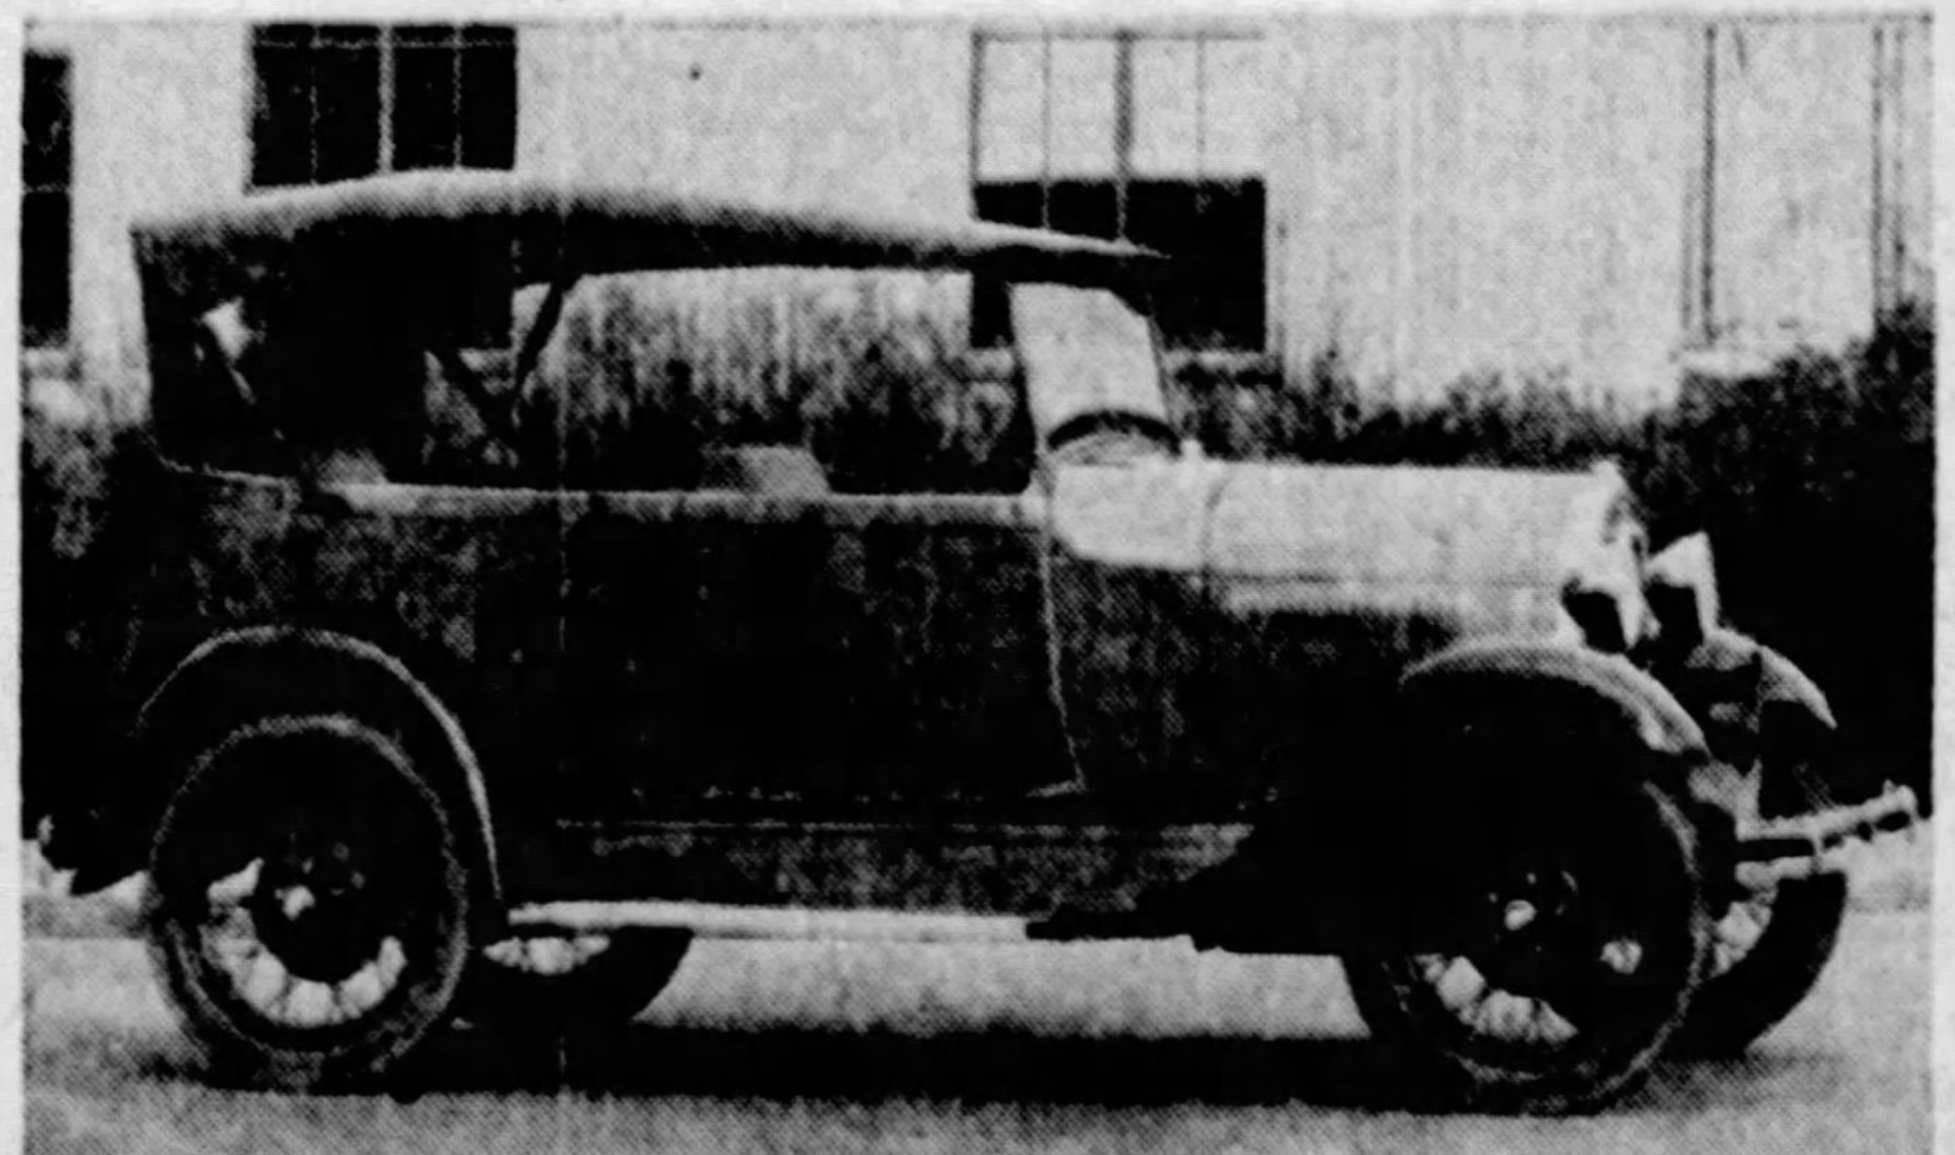
SOME CHANGE!

Here's a view of the driver's seat on a new Ford. Quite a change from the old drive-with-your-feet arrangement.



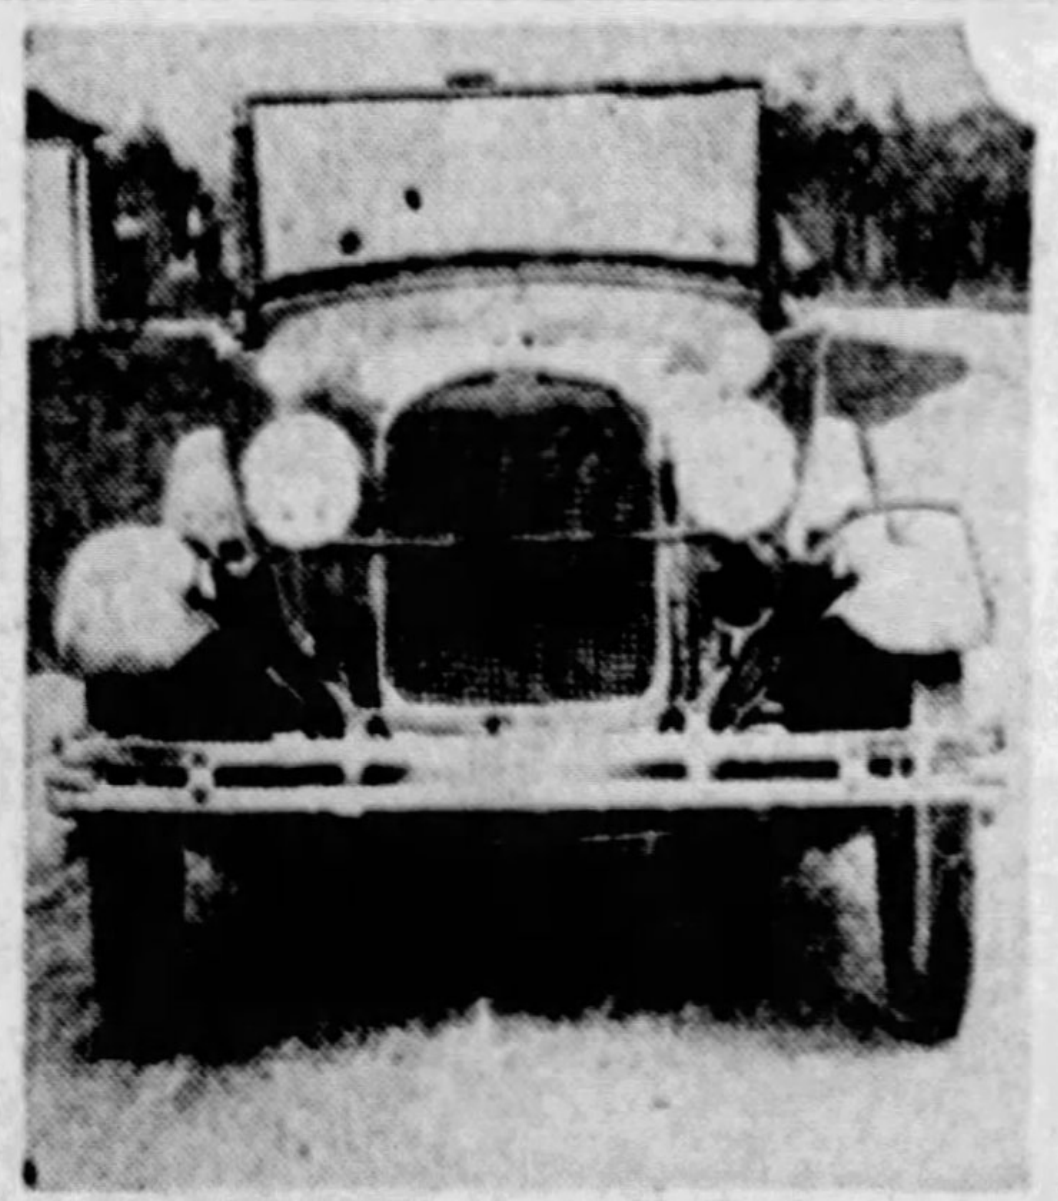
SPORT COUPE

Complete with four wheel brakes, ding gear shift and shock absorb-s, Henry Ford's new car appears before the public tomorrow. Arrow shows gasoline tank cap projecting through hood.



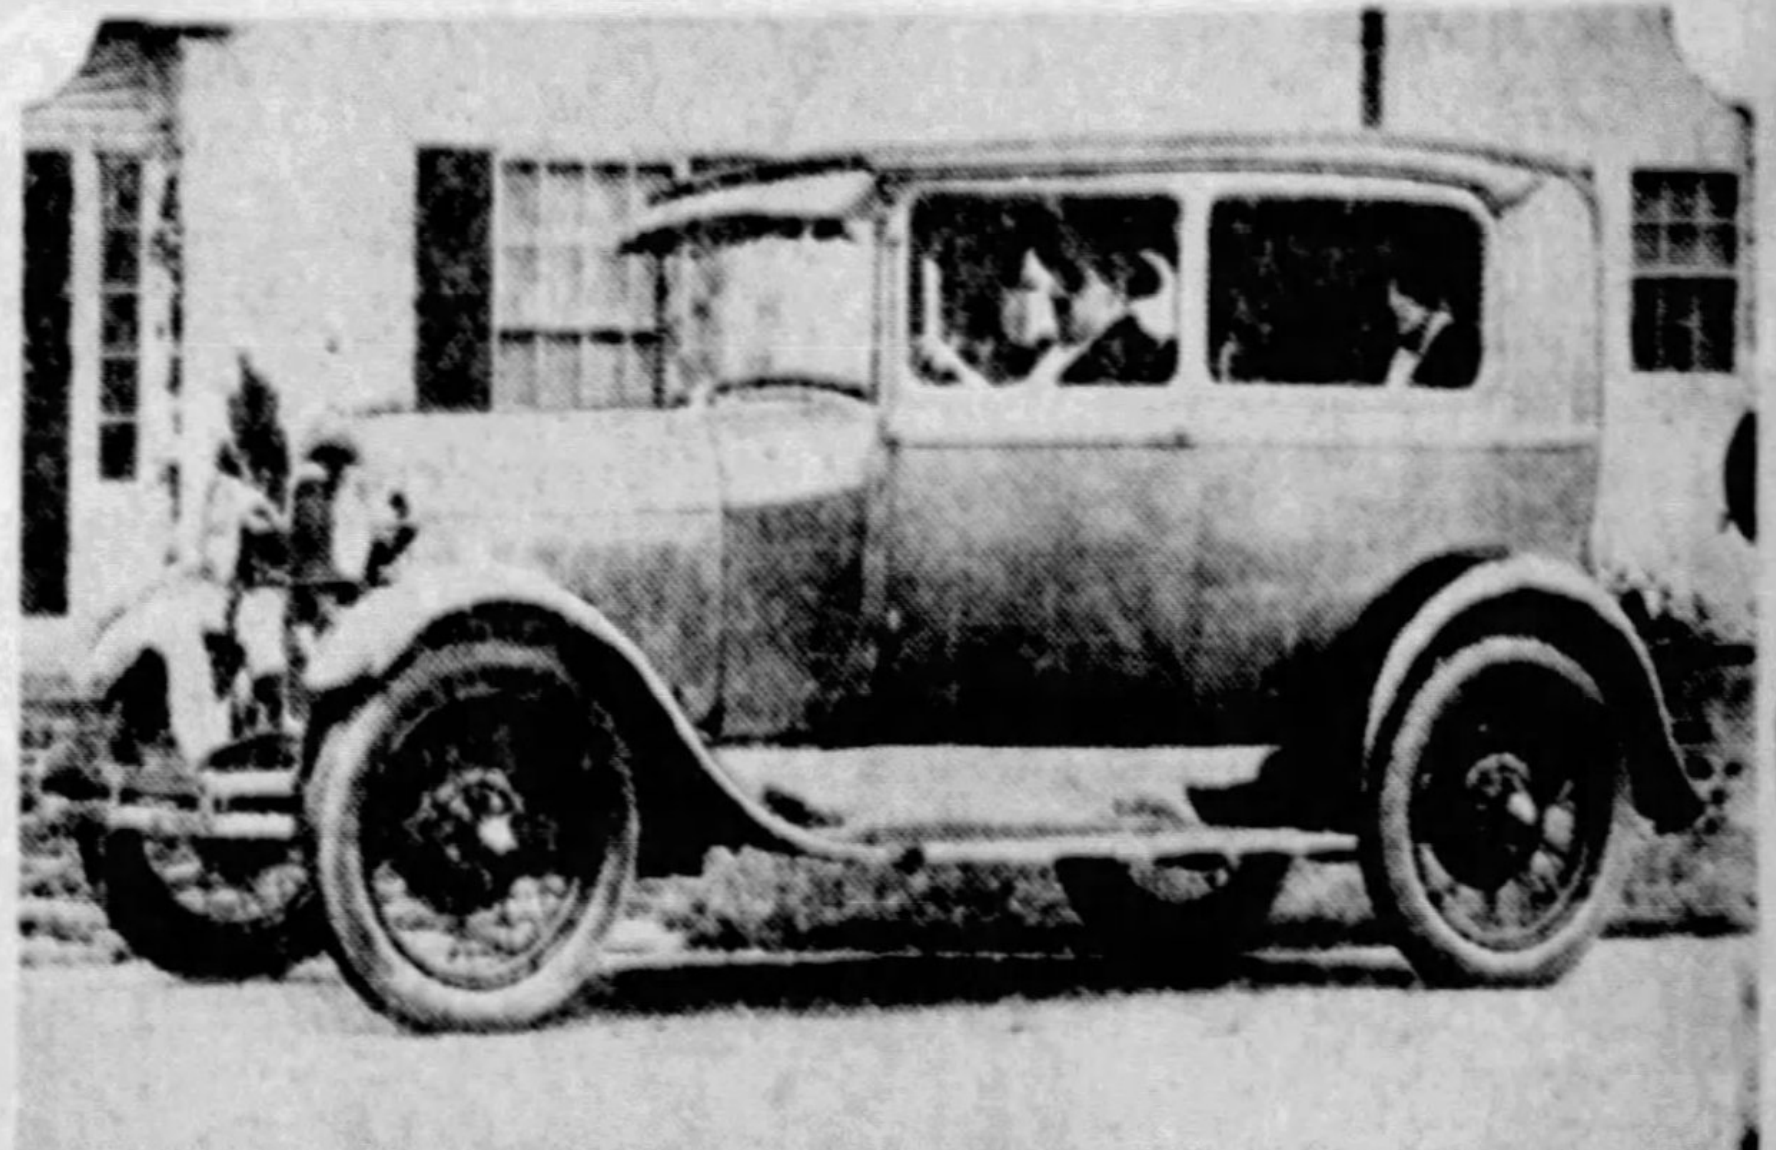
TOURING CAR

Lines have been radically changed in the new car, which Ford expects to revolutionize the automobile industry. The touring car, as it was called under the old Model T regime is now a "phaeton."



LINCOLN-LIKE HOOD

Viewed from the front, this new type Ford roadster looks much like its big brother, the Lincoln.



TUDOR SEDAN

The tudor sedan, one of the most popular of the old types, is hardly recognizable in its new dress. Smoother lines and a variety of colors for the body finish have metamorphosed the car.

MYSTERY GIRL PUZZLE TO POLICE

By Universal Service.

BOSTON, Dec. 1.—Unable to tell who she is, but able to discuss with intelligence philosophy and music, a pretty girl of 17 gave police tonight a mystery which detectives of two cities are seeking to solve.

A victim of amnesia the "mystery girl" is being cared for at the Chardon Street Home. She had her first lucid moment as to her identity last night. She said:

"I think I may be Ethel Block and that my home was on Broadway in New York City. But I don't know; I am not sure of anything about myself. It's all a blank."

Expensively dressed, she carried a gray leather purse containing only eight cents and two tickets to the Boulevard Theater, Jackson Heights, N. Y., when found.

CONVICT DRIVER WHO FAILED TO AID INJURED

A jury put teeth in a law compelling motorists to stop and assist persons injured in accidents today when it convicted Earl A. Seitz, 801 Butler street, Etna, of a misdemeanor.

Seitz's car collided with another near Dorseyville last May 4, resulting in the death of Kaylor H. Snyder and the injury of several others. Seitz was acquitted of charges of involuntary manslaughter and aggravated assault and battery, because of the crash, but the jury found him guilty of not aiding the injured.

SHE'S FLAPPER ON STAGE, MOTHER OF 3 AT HOME

ETHEL NUTTER

The mother of three children and 32 years of age, Ethel Nutter, of Erie, supports her family by appearing daily as the flapper cornetist of a girls' traveling orchestra, now booked in "big time" vaudeville.

GIGANTIC COAL MERGER HERE DISCUSSED

Representatives of a score or more independent coal companies met with S. A. Taylor in the latter's office yesterday to discuss the proposed consolidation of 20 or 30 companies into one concern, but no definite action was taken, it was reported.

Preliminaries were discussed, but beyond suggestions in the sounding out of those invited to participate in a consolidation, the meeting adjourned to convene again soon. One report was that the capital would be fixed at $50,000,000.

Companies represented are said to have included the Hillman Coal and Coke Company, Bertha Consumers Coal Company, Fort Pitt Coal Company, Valley Camp Coal Company, McClane Mining Company, Carnegie Coal Company and numerous others.

Mr. Taylor was deluged with telephone calls regarding the talk of a merger, but beyond saying there was only a discussion, would make no statement.

J. H. Hillman, Jr., chairman of the Hillman Coal and Coke Company, today denied that his company was to head or was in any way associated with a proposed merger.

When you open a package of "Favorite" its fragrance is a promise of flavor—fulfilled in the cup! Fresh from our roasters—to sealed packages—to your home. The flavor hasn't a chance to escape.

Fresh Goose for a Change! Fancy Fatted Ohio Stock, lb. 38c

There's something in the juiciness and flavor of a goose that "touches the spot." Rather a rich diet to follow regularly, but occasionally it's a treat. Young, tender and weigh between 8 and 12 pounds.

Nuts!—Honey!—Butter! Make Pecan Rolls Delicious, ea. 38c

Rich coffee roll dough filled with and covered with fresh Pecans. Dipped in pure strained honey, flavored with California Orange Blossoms which the bees visited while making it. Six generous portions in each roll.

Brick Cheese, lb. 35c

For sandwiches or to serve with crackers—it slices nicely and has a delicious flavor.

Ask for a sample of Liederkranz Cheese and a cookbook.

Potato Salad An Old Favorite! Made Without Onions at McCann's pt. 25c

Crisp Celery, sliced Pennsylvania Potatoes, and McCann's flavory Salad Dressing combine to make this old-fashioned "standby." The original salad—the daddy of all other later concoctions!

Florida Oranges, doz. 39c

WITNESS SAYS BEACH CONFESSED

DEFENSE PROTESTS

Over defense protests the witness was permitted to describe Beach's story of the killing after declaring that Beach had wanted him to "get some money for Mr. Phillips." (Mr. Phillips subsequently was named a member of the defense counsel.)

Justice Campbell, the trial judge, interrupted the questioning to ask: "Did Beach say anything about where the shooting took place?"

Bark answered: "Thompson said to Beach, 'It looks from what the paper said it was an awful lonesome place,' and Beach said 'Yes, we had to do something so we could make a getaway.'

"Beach said when he drove up to this lonely place the old man started raising hell and he shot him, and as he walked off he (Beach) hollered back, 'Yo, hee,' and Mrs. Lilliendahl gave the alarm."

Bark's testimony was a terrific blow by the state. His statements completely contradicted Mrs. Lilliendahl's story that two Negro thugs killed her husband at the lonely spot.

By DAMON RUNYON.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

MAYS LANDING, N. J., Dec. 1.—Now for the dirt, folks! Draw closer, please.

There suddenly bobbed up yesterday in our little murder trial over here in quiet old Mays Landing, a big grim, and grimy man, with a large voice, telling snappy stories on the widow Lilliendahl and her alleged boy friend, the 55-year-old Willis Beach. I do wish you could see Willis!

This man came babbling of how—listen now!—of how he once caught these parties petting in the woods.

STUMBLED

I pause uncertainly at the threshold of detail, because I do not wish to find myself in jail, but the big idea is that the man stumbled over the Widow Lilliendahl and the small Romeo of the henroost, one dark night in the woods.

He struck a match and lighted a cigar and in the flare he caught the gleam of the Widow Lilliendahl's protruding front teeth shining out of the darkness like tombstones in a wheat field, as one inferred from his description, and recognized Willis Beach's tall forehead and gray hair and long nose.

"I drawed up my car and backed off, and told him to keep his distance," said the man, who was Herbert S. Lloyd of South Vineland, a steam engineer by present occupation, but at that time doing "horse work," as he said—meaning plowing and such like.

WASN'T FIRST TIME

"Did you think he was a marauder?" inquired old Robert McCarter, who is chief of the squad of lawyers defending Mrs. Lilliendahl, and the poultry producer against the charge that they killed the aged husband of the woman.

"Waal, I been caught in them things a-fore, and I wan't takin' no chances," said Lloyd.

"I believe you said Mrs. Lilliendahl's knee was exposed?" said McCarter, harking back to the droll story Lloyd told on direct examination. "What do you mean?"

"Waal," replied the witness, thoughtfully, "they wear 'em so short now you can't tell just when wimmen's dresses is up."

The crack knocked us for a row of appletrees. The little court house fairly teetered, and the bailiffs hammered for order between their own hee-haws.

The five lady jurors giggled discreetly, and smoothed down their own dresses, and even the Widow Lilliendahl wrinkled the corners of her mouth in a slight smile.

Lloyd had been out in the woods gathering oak leaves and pine boughs to bed down his cows. He called 'em "caows." He also said "Daewn." He is a big, rough-hewn man, who wore shiny dark clothes and a sweater, and spoke very slowly.

He literally stumbled over the couple, he said, and Beach jumped up and cried:

"I don't want to hear anything about this—if I do it won't be well for you."

Lloyd knew the dead Dr. Lilliendahl, but he never told the doctor about those goings-on in the Sylvan dell. He saw the couple together on several occasions thereafter. When old McCarter asked him if he was sure of their identity, or sure on any of his other points, his reply would be: "I'm satisfied in my own mind."

AIDING NEEDY NOBLE--KLINE

TWO-FOLD BLESSING

"I cannot imagine that anyone will have a truly happy and really contented Christmas who, hearing of this opportunity, passes it by. But I can visualize those who, having heard, answer the call. It seems to me that a peace equal to that which passeth all understanding will surround their couch as they enter the portals of slumberland on Christmas eve.

"Let these cases be presented to the people. They are the short and simple annals of the poor, but more eloquent in their own behalf than the most brilliant literary gem. They will stir Pittsburgh's soul. True to her character, saturated with loving kindness and good will, her men and women will so act that Pittsburgh's 'Twenty Neediest Cases' will be transformed into Pittsburgh's 'Twenty Merriest Christmases.'"

The Twenty Neediest Cases have been reported by the Associated Charities, the Catholic Charities of the Diocese of Pittsburgh, the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, the Salvation Army and the Volunteers of America. Contributions should be made payable to the "Twenty Neediest Case Fund" and sent to The Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., or, if preferred, to one of the societies named.

All of the 20 cases were described in The Sunday Sun-Telegraph. One case will be described each day. Here is Case No. 4:

This is a case of trouble coming in bunches. Mr. A was in a train wreck and after recuperating from that was in an automobile accident. Now he is flat on his back. Their constant doctor bills and hospital bills have brought the family to the place where they found it necessary to ask aid. There are four children ranging in age from 6 weeks to 8 years. (Reported by the Salvation Army.)

Case No. 5 will be described tomorrow.

THREATENS HER WITH SLEDGE

Her life having been threatened many times by her husband, who avowed he would use a sledge hammer on her, Rosa Geist, 2816 California avenue, proprietress of a store, wants a divorce from John J. Geist. She told Judge Thomas J. Ford that Geist kept the hammer handy, not only threatening her but also some of her friends. She claims Geist made his own whisky and drank to excess.

DRAVO COMPANY PLANS SHIPYARD IN DELAWARE

A shipbuilding and assembling plant in Wilmington, Del., with a frontage of 878 feet on the Christiana River, is to be erected by the Dravo Contracting Company of Pittsburgh, it was announced yesterday by company officials. The new plant, which will be devoted to building steel barges and floating equipment, will be in a position to make seaboard deliveries at New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

The Quick Magic of Calcium!

Do you want a beautiful complexion this week? A skin that fairly sparkles? And color that is all your own? Then give your system just a little calcium!

Calcium clears away every impurity that keeps the skin sallow or dull. It keeps pores purged, and the cuticle clean. You'll feel and see the difference from the very first day you take a tiny, sugar-coated Stuart calcium wafer!

A five-day test will prove to you very conclusively the system's need for calcium, and the decided benefit from these little wafers. Your druggist has them—the test size for pocket is 10c. Or the family size, 60c.

The Complete Jewelry Shop

When one contemplates gifts, one naturally thinks of jewelry—and of the Horne Jewelry Shop with its complete and interesting assortments.

Its showing reflects months of careful preparation...of selections made in the jewelry centers overseas, of choices made in our best American sources...of authentic style, highest quality standards and good taste.

FINE JEWELRY..rings, bracelets, necklaces..set with precious or semi-precious stones. Sterling worth and perfect taste for the "particular" gift.

SIMULATED JEWELRY . . . effective simulations of precious stones and metals to please the woman who must have the "latest."

NOVELTY JEWELRY...smaller articles in wide variety. Suggestions for the gift that must not cost too much.

HANDBAGS...replicas of the season's successes, in leathers, silks and other materials for daytime; scintillating creations for evening.

LEATHER GOODS...smoking, dressing table, or traveling accessories are but a few of the suggestions offered your gift list.

SILVERWARE...in plated ware or sterling. Old Sheffield Plate and Old English Silver of the George III period are included.

CLOCKS...gifts for the home. In varied styles to meet varied tastes...boudoir, mantel chime or modernistic French are but a few suggestions here.

WATCHES...a wide selection of dependable timekeepers, in dress or sports styles; for men, women, or children.

Gifts to Compliment a Woman

Fine Toiletries

A shop that caters to loveliness all the year 'round...a logical place to seek gifts of distinction that will be sure to flatter the most discriminating.

Here are assembled rare perfumes...delicate cosmetics to caress fine skins . . . accessories to the most luxurious baths...appointments for charming dressing tables—perfumizers, perfume droppers, powder bowls, make-up boxes, as well as comb and brush sets...perfume-burning lamps ...incense...smart vanities.

The contributions of scores of famous creators—Caron, Gabilla, D'Orsay, Ybry, Houbigant, Guerlain, Chanel, Raymond, Isabey, Lerys, Lelong, Corday.

Hosiery and Gloves

Can Well Be Given Together

Two adjacent departments make such shopping easy.

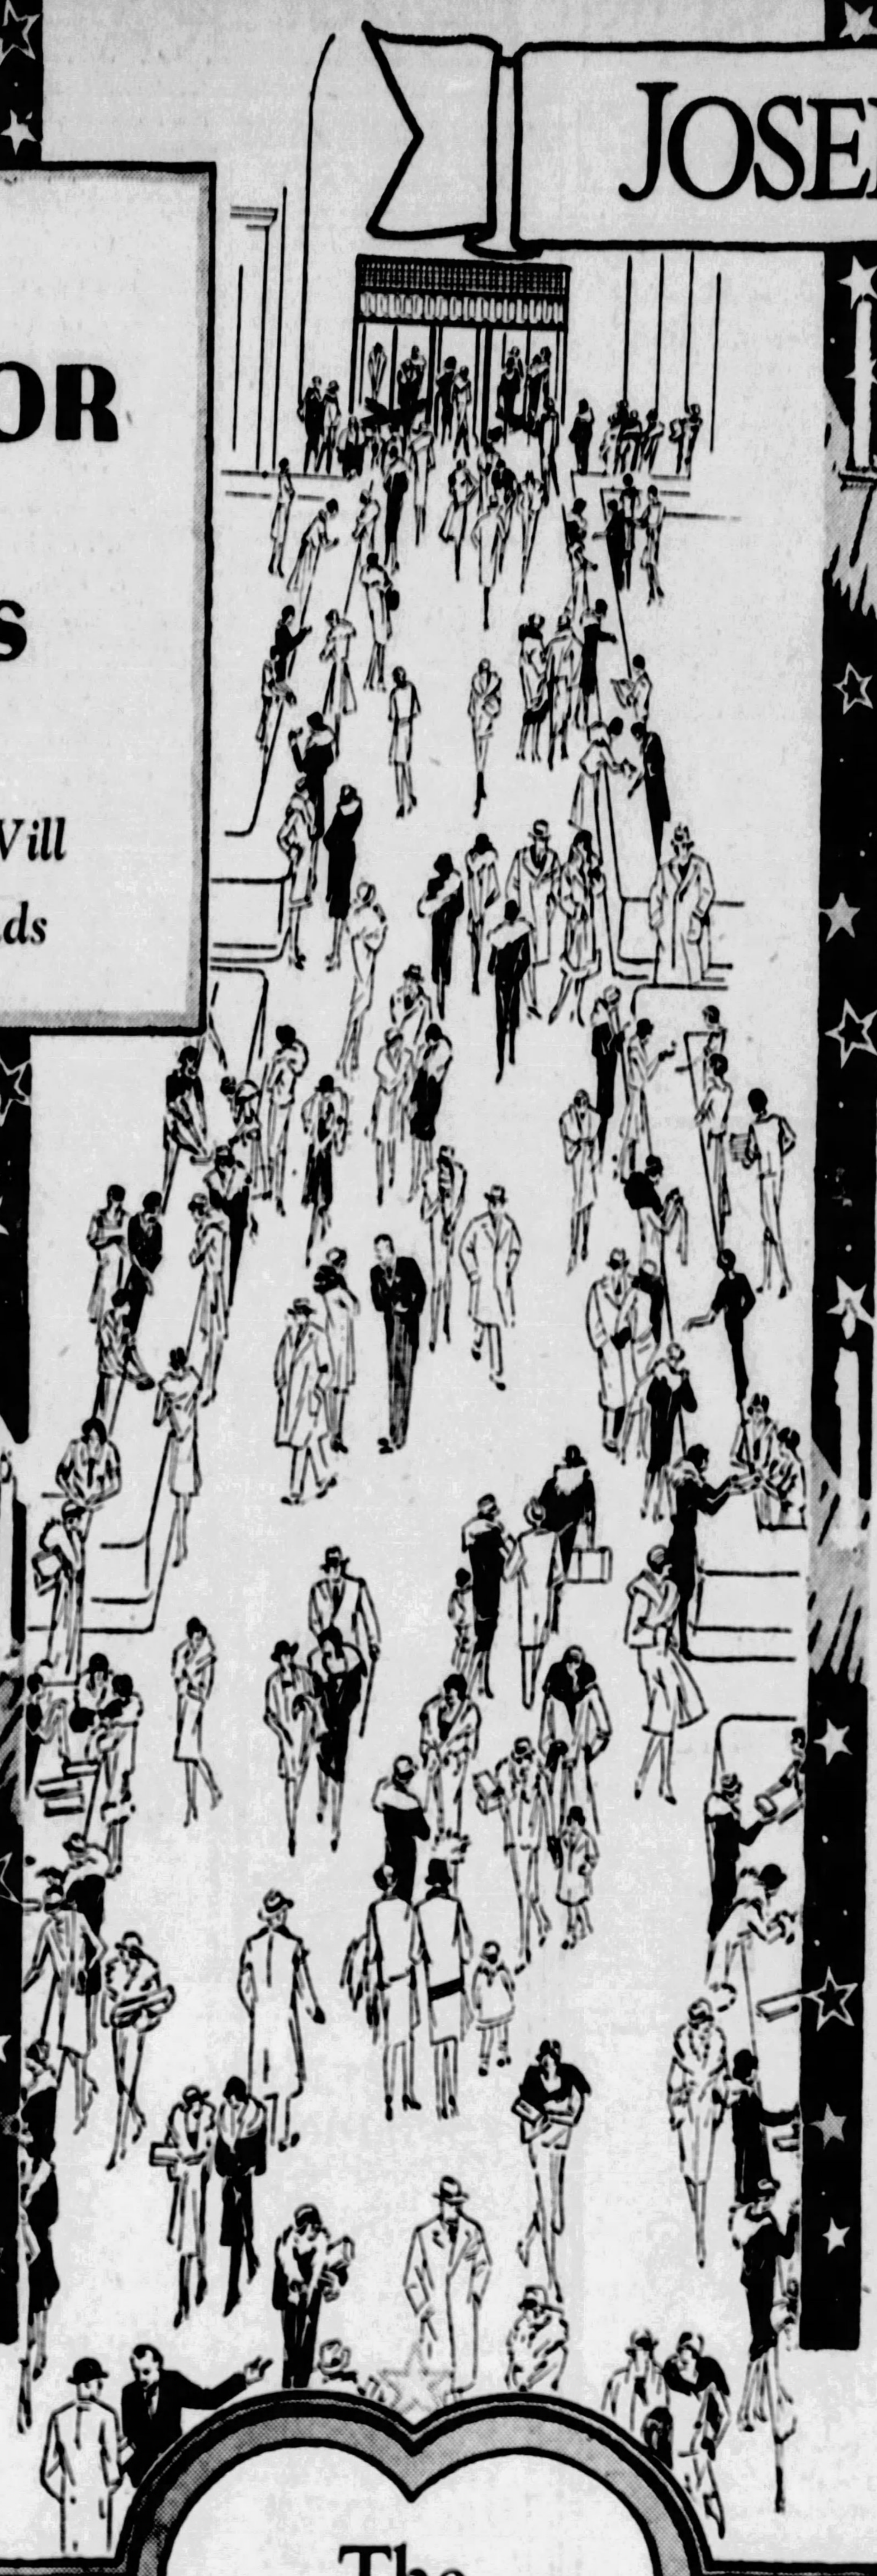
Glove and Hosiery Ensemble Gifts—an interesting idea. Give the two together to harmonize, in color—or in spirit. As, for example, white kid gloves with a pair of lace evening hose; a pair of pigskins in the same box with some sporting English stockings.

The Glove Wardrobe—An innovation that suggests a gift of more generosity than is possible in the giving of a single pair. Fancy three-pair combinations such as this: a pair of new antelopes for dress; suedes, hand-stitched in black for tailored times; and pigskins for sports. Or perhaps a pair of white doeskins for afternoon; washable mocha slip-ons for shopping; fur-lined horse-hides for driving.

The Hosiery Wardrobe can be carried out in the same manner. Consider how interesting might be a box that contained a pair of fish-net for evening, a pair of sheer chiffons for afternoon, and service-weights for morning. Or, again, openwork lace clocks for dress, silk-and-wools for tailored occasions, and gaily patterned imported wools for winter sports.

The Silk Shop Presents Many Gift Suggestions

An unusual gift—a length of one of the smart new silks, attractively boxed. At Horne's you will find silks of all kinds in great variety, and you may be sure of their style-rightness and their excellent quality. See the new "Americana" series of prints; the "Talk-O'-Town" prints; the American Indian group. These are among the most interesting of a wide variety of spring novelties.



The Christmas Book Store

INCREASED to almost twice its usual size . . . in charge of well-trained people who can lend intelligent assistance in making selections . . . a huge stock, classified by subjects to facilitate choices further.

Children's Books occupy almost half the entire space, in an adjoining section. Fine Bindings also have an extensive showing.

Book Information Service will be glad to assist you in searching for first editions, rare, old out-of-print volumes, etc.

IN THE MEN'S STORE

A Presentation of

Men's Neckwear

$1.00 and $1.50

Of especial interest to those who buy in quantities for Christmas giving.

Selections are at their best now, in these lines...hundreds of attractive ties, in diagonal striped and figured patterns...in a variety of color combinations, are shown.

At the first price: poplins, taffetas, crepes and other good-wearing fabrics.

At the second price: imported and domestic mogadors, taffetas and reps.

A Greatly Enlarged Section of

HANDKERCHIEFS

A new location, a new arrangement, in triple the amount of space, a display that includes an astonishing number of unusual gift suggestions—this is the Christmas Handkerchief Department at Horne's.

In the well-lighted corner of the store extending from the entrance on Penn Avenue to the first entrance on Stanwix Street, with attractive counter and table displays, gift seekers are provided with the maximum of comfort and pleasure in making their choices.

A wide selection for Men, Women, and Children, chosen especially for this occasion in far-off Ireland, France, Switzerland, Belgium, Italy, Germany, England, and Austria. All that might be expected in distinctive Handkerchief gifts is here.

Rhinestone Ornaments

Flowers and butterflies, graceful as can be, and scintillating with rhinestones and colored brilliants. $1.00 to $5.00.

(Trimming Department)

Ribbons

For Package Tying

An essential part of your gift. We have an unusual selection, many of which are exclusive with Joseph Horne Co. Including satin, gauze, metal, and combinations of these. Prices range from 90c for a spool of 50 yards to $3.35 for 10 yards.

Novelties

Ribbon novelties such as garters, sachets, decorated powder puffs, lingerie pins, flower-covered, make dainty and inexpensive gifts.

Boudoir Dolls

Party and boudoir dolls come beautifully dressed at $10.00 to $65.00. Or ready to dress from $2.50 to $5.00.

Great Variety in Neckwear

Scarfs of Surah silk, hand-painted or hand-blocked crepe de chine for the more tailored; feathery chiffon, double width, for the daintily feminine. $1.95 to $10.95.

Evening Shawls, almost a formal necessity this season, in crepe de chine or metal cloth combinations. $12.95 to $65.00.

Collar and Cuff Sets are appreciated remembrances, $1.00 to $3.95.

Notions of Gift-Charm

A distinctive assemblage of small gifts presented in a fascinating variety.

For women who sew there are fitted work baskets, sewing rolls, needle cases, cunning animal pincushions, tape measures in many guises, emeries, scissor sets in leather cases, and thimbles.

For the guest room, or for her own bedroom, there are enameled hat stands, coat hangers, and shoe trees, fancy shoe horns, and attractive garment bags, shoe wardrobes and hat boxes of matching ticking.

Gift Umbrellas

For men or women—umbrellas that belie their sturdy practicality by their unusual attractiveness.

Many take to handles for decoration and show rare carved birds or animals. Others have iridescent tips and handles to match. Still others are gold or silver tipped. One cunning handle shows a pelican encased in a clear amber handle.

An unusually interesting assortment—and with a price range that will prove satisfactory to any gift-seeker.

The Linen Shop

Replete With Gift Selections

Pittsburgh's "largest and best stocked Linen Department" takes on an especial significance in this season of gift selecting. There are selections in linens of every kind from the modern colored damasks to the most elaborate of luncheon cloths, all of the high quality for which Horne linens have always been known.

Table Linens from the finest of hand-woven damasks from Ireland to the pretty and informal luncheon and breakfast nook sets with colored designs.

Towels offer a wide variety, including Spanish hand-embroidered linen ones, the Italian fringed linen towels, hand-embroidered towels, and gift sets of Turkish towels and wash cloths to match.

Decorative Linens include elaborate and beautiful luncheon cloths and sets, lovely Tuscany laces to be made into sets, bridge sets and scarfs.

Bed Linens offer hemstitched sheets and pillow cases, or very fine embroidered sets.

The Stationery Section

A department with many interesting possibilities for the Christmas shopper...brimming over with fascinating novelties, many of them imported...some of them amusing trifles, others really fine gifts...all with enough usefulness to make them very welcome. There are too many to describe, but you are invited to see how much originality and ingenuity has gone into the fashioning of such things as these:

EAGER PUBLIC GRABS SUN-TELEGRAPH COMICS BOOK

Rush Order for 5,000 More Given Printer

A new order for 5,000 additional "All the Funny Folks," master comics book, was sent to the printers this morning.

For yesterday, instead of hundreds of coupons and 69-cent money orders coming into the Sun-Telegraph or its various dealers, the number became thousands.

Dealers who had barely placed the books on exhibition in their windows a few days ago, reported that they were sold out and demanded more copies.

The reasons were in the attractiveness of the book, its value—only 69 cents—its 112 pages and 500 full color illustrations. But people who saw it realized that above all else, it furnished the ideal Christmas gift for the children, their's and their relatives' and friends'.

Between its green cloth covers are the stories and pictures of all the Hearst comic characters. Drawn and created by the leading comic caricaturists in the land. Barney Google and Sparky, Jiggs and Maggie and Dinty, Tillie, Mae, Jerry, Able—all these everyday friends of the children of Western Pennsylvania are in it.

A partial list of dealers who are handling the books follows. If they cannot supply you, send in the coupon in the advertisement, elsewhere in this paper, attach the prescribed money in small denomination stamps, money order or check, and send these to "All the Funny Folks" department, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

MUST PAY OLD FINES OR BE SENT TO JAIL

WELLSVILLE, O., Dec. 1—"Pay up or go to jail." This ultimatum was issued by Mayor W. L. Fogo as he launched a campaign for the collection of all back fines on the city books. The mayor, who acts as police judge, sent Samuel Guidana, delinquent on a $20 fine, to jail and collected $30 from three other persons in the first day of his "cleanup." Fogo says he will start the new year with a clean slate.

VOTE MACHINES WOULD SAVE $92,825, WOMEN SAY

End Ballot Cost Too, League Points Out

Voting machines would reduce the cost of holding elections in Pittsburgh $92,825 a year, it was declared today by the League of Women Voters, whose officers asserted that there would be an additional saving through the elimination of much of the printing expense for paper ballots. It would cost Pittsburgh $550,000 to install voting machines, they said, but they would more than pay for themselves within six years. The manufacturers of the devices have offered to let the city pay for them in installments out of the savings effected through their adoption.

The league, of which Mrs. J. O. Miller, of Pittsburgh, is state chairman, has estimated, in detailed compilations, that voting machines would save Philadelphia $187,930 a year in election expenses; would save Scranton $12,220 a year; Harrisburg, $4,270 a year; Erie, $3,510, and Galeton borough, Potter county, $110. Galeton is a community with only two voting districts and is cited as showing that it would be profitable for small towns to make the change.

Pennsylvanians will be called upon next year to vote on a proposed amendment to the Constitution authorizing the Legislature to grant the right to any community to use voting machines on petition of the community.

MACHINES PRAISED.

In regard to this matter Mrs. Miller said today:

"Voting machines have already been used in several other states, notably New York, so their advantages and disadvantages are fully known. However, the voters may expect that the politicians who are opposed to a rapid and accurate count of the vote in their districts will do everything possible to ground the issue.

"Today in corporations where financial and statistical computations must be made, every possible labor-saving device is installed and it is recognized that many of these devices are much more accurate than human agencies. In many of our large municipalities from 200 to 300 candidates appear on the primary ballot, and even if the election board is absolutely honest, serious errors may be made in keeping a tally where so many candidates are involved. This would be entirely obviated by the voting machine.

"In addition, the returns would come in promptly, and there would be no excuse for districts like the First, Second and Third of Pittsburgh holding out their returns for 75 hours, or even five days, as I understand has happened."

LEAGUE CITES SAVING.

Here is the League of Women Voters' estimate of the savings that voting machines would make possible for the taxpayers of Pittsburgh:

Present annual cost per district for the conduct of elections:

One judge (primary and election)	$ 35
Two inspectors (primary and election)	40
Two clerks (primary and election)	40
One constable (primary and election)	10
Rent (primary and election)	40
Four registration days (four registrars at $10 per day)	160
Annual expense per district	$325

There are 689 election districts in Pittsburgh at the present time with an average of less than 250 voters per district. In all cities where voting machines are in use it is possible to consolidate districts so as to provide an average of 600 voters to a district. On this basis more than half of the number of districts in Pittsburgh could be eliminated, but due to geographical handicaps and the inconveniences to the voters that might result it is deemed advisable to eliminate only 229 districts, or about one-third of the total number.

The elimination of 229 districts with an average annual expense of $325 would amount to	$ 74,425
In all districts where voting machines are used the services of the two clerks can be dispensed with, which, for the remaining 460 districts would amount to	18,400
Annual saving through the use of voting machines	$ 92,825
The purchase price of 500 machines, providing one for each of the 460 districts of election and 40 in reserve for congested polling places, would amount to	550,000
In six years the annual saving of $92,825 would amount to	556,950
Or more than the purchase price of the machines, after which there would be a direct annual saving to the taxpayers of	92,825

(The above estimate does not include a considerable saving by reason of the elimination of a large portion of the printing expense for paper ballots and other election supplies, but it can be conservatively stated that these items will more than offset interest, insurance and depreciation charges.)

CLAIRTON SPAN READY SOON

With the Monongahela River span already closed and the steel work to be finished about the first of the year, the new Glassport-Clairton Bridge will be ready for service by spring of 1928, county engineers said. The span will afford one of the most important traffic relief facilities ever projected for the Monongala Valley. It will cost $1,468,000. The bridge is 2,220.5 feet long and carries a 21-foot roadway with two eight-foot sidewalks. The channel span is 400 feet in length and the structure is of the deck cantilever type with plate girder approaches.

The new bridge connects at the Glassport end with the county's main highway from Glassport to Elizabeth. On the Clairton side, the span connects with State street, the main thoroughfare from Dravosburg through Clairton to West Elizabeth.

DR. MARCY TO ADDRESS SEAL SALE CHAIRMEN

Dr. C. Howard Marcy, medical superintendent of the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh, will address the chairman of the various booths for the annual sale of Tuberculosis Christmas Seals, at a meeting to be held in the Woman's City Club rooms on the club floor of the William Penn Hotel at 2:30 p. m. today.

EX-MAYOR SUES 5 FOR SLANDER

MARTINS FERRY, O., Dec. 1.—Five local men were named defendants yesterday in suits for $15,000 each by Charles Coleman, ex-mayor, who was defeated when he ran for that office last month. Four of the men are charged with having accused him of being drunk and a fifth said he was an atheist, Coleman avers.

ARBITRATION TO SETTLE CLAIM AGAINST CITY

A board of arbitrators will be necessary to determine whether the H. D. Patterson Company, road contractors, now in bankruptcy, is entitled to collect $45,000 in extras from the county. The company was awarded a contract by the county commissioners for the improvement of Bower Hill road extension for $62,000. Before the work was completed the company went into bankruptcy and the Bank of Pittsburgh, N. A. was appointed receiver.

In order to pay off creditors of the company, a petition was made to the commissioners to pay the receiver the contract price of $62,000 in addition to the $45,000 for extras. The county commissioners authorized the payment of the $62,000, but refused to pay the extra amount.

County Solicitor W. Meher Dithrich was ordered to arrange a meeting with the receiver and select a board of arbitrators to settle the question as to whether the company was entitled to the $45,000.

SCOUT LEADERS DINE ON BEEF

Scout leaders' dinners, mostly on the beefsteak order, are taking place throughout the county during the current week. Leaders of the West End district, including Crafton, Ingram and Carnegie, gathered last night in the cabin of Troop 2, near the Thornburg Bridge. Plans for the winter district program were discussed following the dinner. Field Executive Lloyd L. Thomas was in charge.

Scout leaders of the North Side district will hold their first meeting tonight in the First Church Community House, Union avenue, North Side. Other important Scout gatherings this week included a meeting of the Sto-Rox scouting committee and a meeting of the central district examining board in the Schenley High School.

COUNTY WAGES FIGHT TO GET DEPOSITS

The skeleton of the defunct Carnegie Trust rattled again yesterday when the question of retrieving $200,000 of county funds on deposit there when it collapsed was discussed by the County Commissioners. The American Security Company was security on the bonds of Country Treasurer Samuel D. Foster and Delinquent Tax Collector Walter J. Christy to cover the amount deposited.

The County Commissioners, as well as County Treasurer Foster, attempted to collect payment of the bonds, but the security company refused to pay. The county has in its possession $340,000 worth of Carnegie Coal Company bonds, which it will turn over to the security company if it in turn releases the $200,000 held as security for Treasurer Foster and Delinquent Tax Collector Christy. The security company refuses to agree to this.

County Solicitor W. Heber Dithrich was instructed by the Commissioners to arrange a meeting with Christy and Foster to decide what further steps might be taken to have the bond money returned to the county treasury.

HUSBAND SPENT HER MONEY

After Jean E. Liebih, Oakland avenue, had spent nearly all of her $1,000 savings in helping to keep her husband, Edward J. Liebih, she left him, she told Judge John A. Evans in asking a divorce. She said Liebih drank to excess, blackened her eye, collected money owed to her and spent it for drink, and once when she was very ill, refused to take care of her.

AUTO THEFT SUSPECTS, HUNGRY, GIVE SELVES UP

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 1.—Hunger drove two alleged auto thieves into the hands of the police when they attempted to sell two tires of a stolen car to buy food. They gave their names as Harry Aaron, 22, and Leonard Aaron, 21, Cleveland. The stolen car is listed in the name of H. S. Mundy, 7265 Mt. Vernon street, Pittsburgh.

Piles Disappear Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is stagnation of blood circulation in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt found the remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in hundreds of cases with a marvelous record of success, such a wonderful record that HEM-ROID is now sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from May Drug Co. today. It has given quick and lasting relief to thousands and must do the same for you or money back.

THREE KILLED IN DEER HUNTING ACCIDENTS

FOURTH NIMROD SERIOUSLY WOUNDED

By International News Service.

JERSEY SHORE, Pa., Dec. 1.—The first day of the deer hunting season in Pennsylvania took a toll of three lives and resulted in the serious injury of another hunter in this county alone today.

Less than an hour after the season opened Howard M. Thompson, 31, automobile dealer, was killed by a stray bullet while hunting with friends in the Pine Creek region.

An hour later Maynard Griswold, of near here, was shot and fatally wounded. Griswold, driver of a school bus, went into the woods after taking children to school, and shortly afterwards was found with a bullet in the stomach; he died in a hospital.

Edward Myers, of near here, was run down by a party of hunters in an automobile and was killed. G. E. Lawnsberry, Williamsport, driver, surrendered to authorities and was released on his own recognizance pending an investigation.

M. D. Zinck, Jersey Shore, suffered a painful wound in the arm, the victim of a stray bullet while hunting.

ARMY OF 15,000 OUT

DUBOIS, Pa., Dec. 1.—An army of 15,000 hunters from all parts of the country today invaded the woods and mountains of Clearfield, Elk and Cameron counties in quest of deer.

Stretching eastward for 40 miles from DuBois is a million-acre wild tract that is reputed to be the finest deer hunting area in America. More than 700 permanent camps, some of them luxurious lodges, are scattered over this vast hunters' paradise.

Heavy rains over the week-end had turned the mountain roads into quagmires, but wind and sunshine of the last few days dried up the mud and the horde of the chase moved easily toward haunts of the fleet animals.

Since early Sunday there has been an almost unbroken string of motor cars passing through DuBois, the gateway to the great deer hunting grounds. These have come from Pittsburgh and other points west and south and even north. Many brought along ample food supplies for the 15-day period allowed for hunting deer.

Game officials report that bucks of legal size were never more plentiful and that they have enough shelter in the second growth timber to test the hunter's skill in bagging them. Last year about 2,100 bucks were killed in this deer country. Game wardens believe the kill this year will reach 2,500.

AGED WOMAN FALLS NEAR HOME IN CRAFTON

Stricken by apoplexy en route home yesterday, Kate Caulfield, 76, of South Linden avenue, Crafton, died in Hawthorne street, near her home.

EXTEND APPEAL FOR PALESTINE ONE WEEK

Continuance of the $150,000 campaign of the United Palestine Appeal in the Pittsburgh region for another week was announced yesterday at headquarters of the organization. The movement was launched November 27 and was to have ended Sunday.

Observance of the Thanksgiving holiday and the inclement weather during the last few days curtailed the work of the army of men and women solicitors and caused officials to extend the drive until December 11, it was explained.

Additional reports on the progress of the campaign will be made Sunday night at a rally of the workers in the Y. M. & Y. W. H. A., Bellefield avenue. The speakers will be Benjamin Lencher and Abe Cohen of Uniontown, Pa., who recently returned to the states following an extended tour of the Jewish homeland. Motion pictures showing scenes in Palestine will be exhibited.

DAVISON HEADS FLOOD GROUP

At a meeting of the Flood Commission of Pittsburgh yesterday, George S. Davison was elected president to succeed the late A. J. Kelly, Jr. The balance of the organization remains unchanged. It was decided that the commission will participate actively in the discussion before Congress on the question of the adoption of a national and comprehensive plan for flood control embracing the Monongahela and Allegheny Rivers and their tributaries.

It is stated that the Pittsburgh project is farther along than any sectional project in the country, owing to the fact that the Flood Commission was able last year to induce Congress to authorize the United States engineers to make a survey and develop plans for the 17 storage reservoirs which the commission has recommended for the control of floods at Pittsburgh.

NORTH SIDE HOME DAMAGED BY FIRE

A three-story brick dwelling occupied by L. Hecks, 16 East Robinson street, North Side, was damaged by fire this morning. The damage was estimated at $100.

HIT BY CAB, VICTIM IS JAILED AS DRUNK

George Rebectak, 66, of 2221 Sarah street, after being struck by a taxicab at Carsen and South Twenty-third streets, last night was lodged in the South Side police station on a charge of drunkenness. Emanuel Rosenson, 22, driver of the cab, who took the injured man to St. Joseph's Hospital after the accident, was released. Rebectak suffered minor injuries, it is said.

Grise Hotel Wrecking Case Held Over

After hearing two police lieutenants and four patrolmen tell of how they raided the Grise Hotel, Eleventh street, some weeks ago, the police trial board held the case over until next week. The five officers are not before the board to answer any charge, but to assist the police heads in fixing the responsibility for $13,101 damage done to the hotel during the raid, as is claimed by Oliver Grise.

The officers are Lieuts. Philip Marmo, John Schnurr and Patrolmen Daniel Owens, William R. Kessler, Joseph P. Lynch and George Rasimus. None of the officers admitted taking part in wrecking the establishment and no testimony was offered by Grise to show the police had wrecked the place. The five policemen were arrested on warrants sworn out by Grise and now are under bond pending the hearing, which is to be held after the police heads have fixed the responsibility.

The testimony of two young women arrested in the hotel was not made public, although it is said they admitted going to the hotel to meet two men, who were arrested with them. The police officers stated that they had seized intoxicating liquor in the hotel.

PRESCRIPTION WRONG, DRUG STORE MUST PAY

MERCER, Pa., Dec. 1.—A clerk's mistake in filling a prescription resulted in a verdict for $2,875 in behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lyon against the Foulke Cut Rate Drug store, of Greenville, in the local court. The plaintiffs testified they had become violently ill.

SUE DEATH CAR DRIVER AS JAIL TERM BEGINS

As Raymond Rahn, 130 South Fairmount avenue, today began serving a two-year sentence, after having pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter, he was notified that a $50,000 damage suit had been brought against him by the 10 children of the late Martin Lydon, 1465 Nixon street, who died of injuries suffered when struck by Rahn's automobile.

Rahn was sentenced yesterday 'n Criminal Court to serve the time in the county jail. Lydon was an electric welder for the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

FIND CLAIRTON MAN GUILTY

Mike Spirosko, of Clairton, sold a "money-making machine" to Mrs. Mary Kusnir, 212 Sycamore street, Blair, for $1,538, her life savings from taking in washing, a jury found yesterday in Criminal Court in returning a verdict of guilty of larceny.

Mrs. Kusnir said when she opened the machine she found only a bottle of medicine that smelled vile. Spirosko had been a roomer with her and had obtained washing for her to do.

Visiting Judge Samuel E. Shull, of Monroe county, imposing a sentence of 18 months to three years in the penitentiary, expressed regret that he was unable to give Spirosko a longer sentence.

RAP PROPOSED BRIDGE SITE

Representatives of the Chartiers Board of Trade, Twenty-eighth Ward, formally protested yesterday to the County Commissioners against the location of the proposed Ferry street bridge. At a recent meeting of the board of trade, its members opposed the present plans for the span. The representatives of the trade body who met with the Commissioners offered a set of plans for the bridge as substitutes to the ones already mapped out and asked that they be adopted.

The Commissioners took no action, but informed the representatives that a meeting with the trade body would be held at a later date and the affair thrashed out.

"I Used Plantabbs On One," She Writes

"The plants on which I used Plantabbs grew fine all last winter, while those on which I didn't were affected by the dry furnace heat and didn't do nearly as well. The picture enclosed shows the difference between two of my begonias, one of which was fed Plantabbs while the other was not."

This is a part of a letter received from a well-known local lady. The begonias she mentioned are shown above.

Thousands of folks are now feeding their plants one Plantabb each week, with the result that they grow wonderfully well even in winter. These little tablets, though odorless and inexpensive, are very powerful, and never fail to improve ferns, begonias, geraniums and other potted plants.

Valuable Book FREE!

Your Plants

A 32-page book, profusely illustrated and containing a wealth of valuable information, has just been prepared for users of Plantabbs. In it, Mr. F. F. Rockwell, nationally famous authority, tells how to keep your potted plants and flowers from withering and turning brown in winter, how and when to water, when to repot, how to take cuttings, how to fertilize, what to do when insect pests attack, and a hundred-and-one other helpful things.

You can get this remarkable new book by purchasing from your florist, druggist or seed dealer, one 50c package or two 25c packages of Plantabbs. When you reach home, empty the tablets into another container and mail the empty carton to us. Mr. Rockwell's book will be sent to you immediately, without any cost to you whatever. Mrs. Fiske for Humane Cause, Agreeing With Inge, Who Says Animals Think Man Is Devil

By GEORGE SEIBEL

THE first time I met Mrs. Fiske she was playing Paul Heyse's "Mary of Magdala" and Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler" in Pittsburgh, and the occasion was a Sunday morning breakfast at the Hotel Schenley. The weather was raw, yet the windows of the room were wide open when I arrived. Mrs. Fiske explained:

GEORGE SEIBEL

"Those pigeons on the cornice looked so cold and hungry, I leave the window open so they can come in and eat the crumbs I scatter over the hearth. They know me now and depend on me."

Sure enough, there were three or four contented pigeons walking sedately up and down in front of the fireplace, picking up morsels of bread as if that were the logical place to find a dinner for birds.

That incident is the key to the supreme interest of Mrs. Fisk'e life off the stage. Mistress Page, who is so intent on revenge in "The Merry Wives of Windsor," is the most ardent of humanitarians off the stage. Even her letter-heads betray this interest. There is a picture of a trapped animal, and a quotation from Edwin Markham:

"Ladies, are the furs you wear
Worth the hell of this despair?"

Mrs. Fiske is interested in many things—she is a student of Theosophy, of Socialism, of everything that promises to pierce the veil of the future or bring amelioration to the struggle of the present. But her whole heart is in the movement to teach man humanity toward dumb animals. She quoted Col. Robert G. Ingersoll, who said: "The general attitude has been without intelligence, without justice, without mercy." She lamented that our lives are built upon the misery and destruction of millions of other lives. "It is the great tragedy of the world," she said.

"How about war," I asked her, "and the wanton destruction of millions of human lives?"

"That, too, should be outlawed and abolished," she answered. "But war is waged by intelligent beings—at least they think they are intelligent—against one another. The nation that goes to war invites and insures its own punishment. They ought to know better; if they are Christians they ought to act more in accordance with their Master's words. But the poor animals cannot defend themselves against our shocking and barbarous war upon them. We kill them for food, for clothing, for sport, for mere wanton pride in killing. We kill them, and torture them before killing, to minister to our vanity as well as to provide dainties for our table. Some historian has written a book called 'The Martyrdom of Man,' in which he tells of man's inhumanity to his own kind."

"Winwood Reade," I interposed. "It's the book that inspired Wells to write his Outline of History."

"Yes," said Mrs. Fiske, "but man's inhumanity to man, which makes countless thousands mourn, is nothing as compared with man's inhumanity to the helpless creatures that are at his mercy—who have no language to plead for kindness and justice—who render us innumerable services we could not hire any human servants to perform. The horse, the dog, the birds devouring insect pests, are man's best friends. And how he treats them! Neglect would be a greater kindness."

"Will education ever eradicate this ape-and-tiger spirit?"

"Don't slander the ape and the tiger. They never exhibit wanton malice and cruelty. As for man, I am reminded of what Dean Inge said. If the animals were to draw a picture to show their idea of God, every picture might be different. But if they were to draw a picture of the Devil, they would all paint him as a big white man."

Then she proceeded to fold circulars of the "American Humane Association" to enclose in some of her letters. That's what Mrs. George Page does when she's not having tea with Mrs. Francis Ford in Windsor.

WILLIAM HODGE HERE SOON

"Two Girls Wanted," the comedy coming to the Nixon next week, tells how two sisters from a small New England town—one a pert, attractive youngster of 17, and the other slightly older—go to New York and surmount the obstacles that block their path to success.

The mystery comedy, "Straight Thru the Door," is the eighth play that William Hodge has written and starred in since he achieved national fame and popularity in "The Man from Home," by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson. In "Straight Thru the Door" he will appear at the Alvin next week. There will be matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

Seats go on sale today in the Pitt for the engagement of Alice Brady in "The Ark" next week. "The Ark" is a new "behind the scenes" idea in plays, dealing with the inner workings of an evangelistic group who barnstorm through the country arousing religious fervor for financial gain.

Appearing as the headliner on the Keith-Albee vaudeville program in the Davis next week will be Joe Frisco, novelty dancer.

The vaudeville feature in the Harris next week will be Gordon Kibbler and his 17-piece recording orchestra, the biggest act that has ever played in the Diamond street house.

The feature vaudeville attraction in the Sheridan Square for the first half of next week is Banjo-Land with Loretta Dennison and her six expert banjoists, in a novel singing, dancing and musical offering.

RICH REALTOR FOUND SHOT

By Universal Service.

ELGIN, Ill., Dec. 1.—Authorities are trying to clear away the mystery surrounding the shooting of Otto Fass, wealthy Chicago real estate dealer, found unconscious at the wheel of his automobile near the Medinah Country Club, on the outskirts of Elgin, yesterday.

A bullet wound was in his head. He was clad in evening clothes. Regaining consciousness, he said that he had shot himself.

Terrible skin now lovely and clear

"AFTER three months of regular treatment," writes Miss A., "I now have the clear complexion I used to dream about and long for. Only the girl who has suffered as I did, with continual eruptions on my face just when I wanted to look my best, can know how I felt. I feel I owe a lifelong debt of gratitude to the friend who told me the best thing to do. There's nothing like it. I tried everything and I know. Lotions and salves help but they don't get at the root of the trouble. Like most skin troubles mine were signs of poison in the body. Nujol cleared those all out in three months. I took a tablespoonful every night. Never missed once. I've got my reward now."

Not Like Medicine

Nujol is a natural substance unlike anything else. Contains no drugs or medicine. Harmless and pure.

Every corner druggist has Nujol. Get the genuine. Perfected by the famous Chemical Products Division of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Don't be satisfied unless you get the Nujol bottle with the label on the back which you can read right through the bottle. Start this safe beauty treatment tonight. Don't delay a minute.

Women of Stage -:- Coming Soon -:- To Our Theaters

Nydia Westman, star of "2 Girls Wanted," at the Nixon next week.

Lelia McGuire, with Leon Errol's "Your's Truly," to be in Pittsburgh December 12.

Roberta Beatty, member of the cast of "The Love Call," a future attraction here.

Francesca Hill, of "Straight Thru the Door," coming to the Alvin next week.

Director's Protege Sets Travel Record

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 30.—The motion picture capital boasts a host of young people who have crowded many exciting experiences into their travels in various parts of the world, but there are few girls, even in this city of interesting personalities, who possess a cosmopolitan background approaching that of Winifred Laurance, script editor for John Barrymore's company at the United Artists Studio.

Miss Laurance, a protege of Slav Tourjansky, director of Barrymore's new picture, "Tempest," a story of the Russian revolution, is a real cosmopolite. She is half English and half Russian, was born in Japan, has been all over the world and speaks several languages as fluently as the natives of the countries in which she has lived.

Her mother is Russian and her father English. They were residing in Japan, where her father represented a European commercial firm, when Winifred was born. Since then the young woman has been in many different lands with her parents, who now are in Europe. The Laurances were in Petrograd at the outbreak of the revolution and left Russia when the Soviet came into power. Miss Laurance has vivid recollections of those hectic times and her knowledge of Russia and Russian customs is proving invaluable to her in handling the script for "Tempest."

Miss Laurance's linguistic abilities cover Russian, French, German, Japanese and English and she knows a smattering of Chinese and other tongues. She has plenty of opportunity on the Barrymore sets to keep in practice on her languages.

Will As 'Municipal Presidente' Sped Over Border

By Universal Service.

LAREDO, Tex., Dec. 1.—As "municipal presidente of Beverly Hills" Will Rogers, famous cowboy humorist, was allowed immediate entry to Mexico yesterday.

Rogers, who is going to Mexico City to get first hand information on the cheap method used in the Southern Republic to weed out presidential candidates, was being put "through the mill" by a Mexican immigration agent when an American customs officer nudged the Mexican and whispered a few words into his ear.

"Ah. Senor Rogers, municipal presidente of Beverly Hills," said the Mexican, grinning. "Welcome to Mexico and may your visit be a pleasant one."

"I hope he means that," Rogers said to a fellow passenger.

M'CORMACK HERE FOR RECITAL

This evening in Syria Mosque John McCormack will give a recital under the local management of James A. Bortz. Mr. McCormack has not sung here in several years. This will be his last recital before Christmas, as he leaves for Europe to spend the holidays with his family. He returns in January to make a southern tour. Assisting artists tonight are Lauri Kennedy, cellist, and Edwin Schneider, accompanist.

The program includes Sonata (Allegro-Grave-Vivace), Sammartini, Mr. Kennedy. "Since First I Saw Your Face" (old English, 1600), Thomas Ford; "Enjoy the Sweet Elysian Groves" (Alceste), Handel; Allerseelen, Strauss; "The Fairy Story by the Fire," Merikanto; "Desolation (from the Chinese," A. D. 700), Bantock; "Panis Angelicus" (with cello and piano obligato), Franck, Mr. McCormack. Sarabande, Bourree I Bourree II (from suite in C for cello), Bach, Mr. Kennedy. Irish folk songs, "Has Sorrow Thy Young Days Shaded?" "The Short Cut to the Roses," "The Snowy Breasted Pearl," Mr. McCormack. "Old Irish Air," Arr. by Dr. J. F. Larchet; Hungarian Rhapsody, Popper, Mr. Kennedy. "When Dew Is Falling," Edwin Schneider; "Bird Songs at Eventide," Eric Coates; "Now Sleeps the Crimson Petal," Quilter; "The Quest," Montague F. Phillips; Mr. McCormack.

Plumpness Asset For This Film Actress

Babe London, who never has had an anti-fat clause in her contract, because plumpness always has been one way of earning her pay check, has been selected by Director Edward Sutherland to play the important part of the strong woman in the Paramount-Christie picture, "Tillie's Punctured Romance."

The strong woman is the "amorous amazon" with whom W. C. Fields gets entangled during the thickest part of the plot. The role is described in Monte Brice's scenario as a girl "with a voice of gold and an arm of iron." Miss London has played in many Christie comedies during the past six years, but more recently has been making personal appearances in vaudeville.

YALE PUPPETEERS TO BE HERE FRIDAY

The Yale Puppeteers from Dr. Baker's Little Theater of Yale University will present a program in the Carnegie Lecture Hall tomorrow night. The program will include "Pyramus and Thisbe," from "Midsummer Nights' Dream" and a Japanese fantasy. The performance will be a benefit for the campus endowment fund of the Pennsylvania College for Women.

To End Severe Cough Quickly, Try This

For real results, this old home-made remedy beats them all. Easily prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous home-made remedy. The immediate relief given is almost like magic. It is easily prepared, and there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and disappear. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Raymond Hatton Back In Crook Portrayal

Before it wa discovered that Raymond Hatton was a top notch comedian, he was recognized in Hollywood as one of the greatest interpreters of crook characterizations in the motion picture business.

In his next comedy with Wallace Beery, Hatton will again appear as a slippery crook, but this time the comedy element will be stressed. The two comedians are now sandpapering their finger tips for scenes in the first sequence of their next Paramount production, "Partners in Crime." They recently completed "Now We're In the Air" for Paramount. Actual work on the new comedy will start within a week.

American Actress To Play Siren For Murnau

By Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 1.—With all the foreign vamps getting the best breaks in pictures, it is interesting to note that F. W. Murnau, a foreign director, selects Mary Duncan, an American girl, for the siren in "The Four Devils."

Mary Duncan, who was a sensation in "The Shanghai Gesture" as Poppy, the girl who had no morals, has been at the Fox studio for some months without any very important role.

Miss Duncan's part is one of the best and with Herr Murnau handling the megaphone, she has a big opportunity for screen recognition. Flora Finch, who, like the proverbial brook, seems to go on and on in the movies, doing her stuff in a consistently satisfactory manner, has one of the important roles—(not a vamp). Now there is talk that Movietone will be utilized in certain circus scenes where a little vocal realism will not go amiss.

SPECIAL ARBUCKLE SHOW FOR CHILDREN

Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle will be featured at a special show for children to be given in the Aldine Saturday morning. The show will begin at 10 o'clock. The former movie star will do some of the comedy stunts that won him fame on the screen. He also will present a box of candy to each child who enters the theater. In addition to Arbuckle's appearance, other features on the current bill also will be offered.

KRUSHINSKY BROTHERS' ORCHESTRA AT SANDERS

Steubenville Honors Baron Von Steuben

STEUBENVILLE, O., Dec. 1.—Steubenville today joined scores of other cities throughout the nation in honoring the memory of Frederick William Augustus Baron Von Steuben, Prussian soldier, regarded by many as the savior of the American revolution.

Although Steubenville was named for the baron 129 years ago today, the sesquicentennial of his arrival in America to lend his sword and military genius to Washington, marks the first organized tribute ever paid him in this city.

Steps to make Steuben Day an annual event and possible holiday here have been taken by the Chamber of Commerce, which was in charge of the celebration.

The city was decorated with flags and in all the public and parochial schools patriotic exercises were held.

A community program will be held tonight, at which Senator Simeon D. Fess will deliver an address on Steuben's life and career. Congressman Frank Murphy will speak and five students, representing high and junior high schools, will read prize essays on Von Steuben and the founding of Steubenville.

Although Steubenville bears the name of the great soldier, Von Steuben never visited this city so far as history records.

Fort Steuben was built in 1776 and occupied through the following year. In 1790 it was destroyed by fire and was never restored.

The city of Steubenville was founded seven years after the fort disappeared.

Baron Von Steuben lived and died in the County of Steuben, New York, after the war.

INDICT TROOPER FOR ALLEGED 3RD DEGREE

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 1—Leonard Keiszek, state policeman, attached to the Millsboro barracks, was indicted by the Greene county grand jury on a charge of assault and battery growing out of alleged use of third-degree methods.

J. M. Phillips, 21, of near Mapletown, avers he was repeatedly knocked down, his hair pulled and his leg twisted in an effort by Keiszek to compel him to confess complicity in a store robbery at Alicia six weeks ago.

Phillips alleges he was given the third degree after Keiszek took him into a room of the coal and iron police quarters at Nemacolin with no others present. He was later released from custody.

Shot At 12 Times She's Not Sure He Meant It

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Dec. 1—What constitutes intent was a moot question in Justice William Levis' court.

"I don't think he meant to shoot me," Mrs. Mandy Alford told the justice when Thomas Alford was arraigned charged with felonious assault and battery.

Police say Alford fired 12 times at his wife, seven of the bullets taking effect in her body. She was in the hospital two months. Alford was held for court.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches rub on good old Musterole.

Musterole relieves the congestion and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief. Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Hugged, She Pays Fine For Annoyer

"I'll pay his fine," said Mrs. Olive Stillwell, 412 Sandusky street, at the conclusion of a hearing in Morals Court, where she had testified that P. D. Baker, Parnassus, had hugged her in her auto in Federal street last night. "He was drunk, and I think he has suffered enough," said Mrs. Stillwell.

Baker had suffered, for Charles Stillwell, hearing his wife scream, hurried to the auto from a nearby store, and finding Baker in the auto, beat him severely. Baker had nine stitches placed in wounds on his head and face at Allegheny General Hospital and then was locked up.

Magistrate A. D. Brandon imposed a fine of $10.

DROPS DEAD ON STREET CAR

Stricken with apoplexy, R. C. Comley, 54, of 1935 Lithgow avenue, died this morning while riding to work on a Perrysville avenue street car. According to the conductor, Comley boarded the car at Wilson avenue. Five minutes later he noticed Comley slumped in his seat. The body was removed to the morgue.

FALLING SIGNBOARD DAMAGES FOUR AUTOS

Four automobiles were slightly damaged early this morning when a large signboard was blown from the roof of a two-story building at 419 Fourth avenue. Firemen from No. 2 Engine Company cleared the street after the accident.

If Over-Fat
Try this easy way
To Lose It

Do it for beauty's sake, for new health and fitness. If you have tried the hard ways without success, learn what this pleasant way can do.

Some twenty years ago research men discovered a cause of excess fat. It lies in lack of certain elements which turn food into fuel and energy, rather than into fat. They found and widely tested a way to combat that cause.

Then that method was embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. The formula is given in every box, also the reasons for results. Users know what they are taking, and why.

Marmola has been used for 20 years—millions of boxes of it. Users have told others the results. That is one reason why excess fat has become almost the exception.

Abnormal exercise or diet is not advised, though moderation helps. Users of Marmola simply take four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal. They know why it comes down—in a natural way—so they have no fear of harm.

Try this modern method, which so many have employed for so long. Watch the results for a little while and judge for yourself what they mean to you. Do this now. Go order a box today.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out he will get them at once from his jobber.

COOLIDGE TO BE ON RADIO

President Calvin Coolidge will be heard through the NBC Red Radio Network, including WCAE, tomorrow at 2:30 p. m., when he will speak at the dedication of the New Mexico State tablet of red sandstone, 320 feet up in the Washington Monument, Washington, which will be under the auspices of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Other speakers to be heard include Senators A. A. Jones and Samuel G. Bratton and Representative John Morrow, all of New Mexico; Mrs. Alfred Brosseau, president general of the D. A. R.; Mrs. William H. Pope, representing R. C. Dillon, the governor of New Mexico, and Mrs. Rhett Goode, past chaplain general of the D. A. R. The United States Marine Band Orchestra will participate.

TO PRESENT NEW TRAFFIC PLAN

A plan to develop and popularize alternate traffic routes in Pittsburgh, sponsored by Gen. Albert J. Logan, will be presented to the Better Traffic Committee of this city at a meeting to be held in the Council chamber of the City-County Building this afternoon.

Gen. Logan, who is the chairman of the committee, proposes three steps in a comprehensive program to develop these routes, relieving traffic congestion on the main arteries and making it possible for motorists to take short cuts on routes which are now little used and on some of which there are no street car lines.

RASH BOTHERED LITTLE GIRL

On Face. Itched and Burned. Cuticura Heals.

"My little girl's face broke out with a rash that bothered her for about a month. It itched and burned and she used to scratch her face terribly at times. She was very restless and would wake up in the night and cry, keeping me awake.

"I tried different remedies but they did not do any good. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. I purchased more and in about three weeks she was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Mary Csiga, R. 1., Box 59, Camillus, N. Y.

Nothing quicker or safer than Cuticura Soap and Ointment for skin troubles that itch and burn.

POLICE RADIO CRIME WARNINGS O. K.'D

CAN BROADCAST IN NIGHT, RULING

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 1—(AP.)—Crime information may be broadcast by state police station, WPAW, at any time during the night, under a modified order of the National Radio Commission, Maj. C. M. Wilhelm, deputy superintendent of the police, announced today.

The commission's original order for clearing certain wave bands, effective today, prohibited the police from broadcasting during the night. The department presented its case to the commission, pointing out that in the past the broadcasting of news of crimes frequently had led to speedy apprehension of the criminals and asked that it be permitted to continue this function as a protective measure for the residents of Pennsylvania.

DEATH ROLL

Alfred B. Harlow.

Alfred B. Harlow, Pittsburgh architect, who designed Carnegie Institute and most of the Carnegie libraries in the Pittsburgh district, will be buried today from his home at 257 Beaver street, Sewickley. He died in his home Tuesday.

Mr. Harlow, born in Middleborough, Mass., studied architecture in Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He came to Pittsburgh in 1894 after winning the national competition for the design of Carnegie Institute. He was the organizer and member of the firm of Alden, Harlow & Jones, formerly Alden & Harlow.

Among the buildings designed by Mr. Harlow are the Farmers National Bank, the Federal Reserve Bank, the Peoples Savings and Trust Company, the South Hills High School, the Fox Chapel Country Club, the Carnegie Building and the homes of R. B. and W. L. Mellon.

He was a fellow of the American Institute of Architects, a former member of the Pittsburgh Arts Commission, a former memeber of the executive committee of the Pittsburgh Archaeological Club, a member of the board of governors of the Pittsburgh Club and a member of the Edgeworth and Allegheny Country clubs. He attended St. Stephen's Protestant Episcopal Church, Sewickley.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Dunham Harlow, and a son, Alfred Gibbs Harlow of Sewickley; a daughter, Mrs. Walter Erwin Johnson of Minneapolis, and two grandchildren.

Anthony Schaffer.

Anthony Schaffer, 62, 2229 Jane street, for 17 years a deputy coroner and elevator operator at the morgue, died yesterday in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Hazel Carnahan, with whom he lived.

Mr. Schaffer was stricken with apoplexy last Saturday while at work. He formerly was a millman and was well known in the South Side, where he had lived practically his entire life. Mr. Schaffer was an appointee of County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, a life-long friend. Schaffer's wife died several years ago. Besides his daughter, he leaves a son, Roy W. Schaffer, a city motorcycle patrolman.

S. S. Momyer.

S. S. Momyer, 50, formerly of Smithton, Pa., died Tuesday in Greensburg. He was born in Smithton and lived all his life in Westmoreland county. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Minnie N. Momyer; two daughters, Audith and Helen, and a son, James, all at home. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at his late residence, near Greensburg.

Mrs. John H. Mudge.

Mrs. Nettie J. Mudge, 63, died Tuesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Bessie Corbin, 3805 Howley street. She was a life-long resident of the Lawrenceville district, and was a member of the Forty-third Street Presbyterian Church, the Mothers' Club of the church and the Dames of Malta, Sisterhood Chapter No. 270. She leaves her husband, John H. Mudge; a daughter; two sons, John L. and Ernest Mudge, and three grandchildren.

CHICAGO HEALTH HEAD 'FIRED'

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—Herman N. Bundeson was ousted by Mayor William Hale Thompson yesterday as commissioner of health. He will be succeeded by Dr. Arnold Henry Kegel.

In a message to the City Council, the Mayor said:

"By virtue of the power and authority conferred on me by law, I hereby appoint Dr. Arnold Henry Kegel commissioner of public health to succeed Dr. Herman N. Bundeson, whose term of office has expired, and I respectfully request concurrence of your honorable body in the appointment."

LADY BEAVERBROOK, WIFE OF NOTED PUBLISHER, DIES

LONDON, Dec. 1—(AP.)—Lady Beaverbrook, wife of Baron Beaverbrook, London newspaper publisher, died at 5 o'clock this morning after an illness which ended in heart failure.

Lady Beaverbrook was Miss Gladys Drury, daughter of the late Gen. Charles William Drury, of Halifax, Nova Scotia. She married Baron Beaverbrook, then William Maxwell Aitken, in 1906.

FAYETTE SCHOOLS GUARD AGAINST DIPHTHERIA

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 1—A diphtheria clinic will be held Saturday at the East Huntingdon township high school. Eight cases of the disease have been reported. A toxin-anti-toxin inoculation of children will be made.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Discover for yourself this intriguing country, beloved by early explorers

SCENES that have changed but little since the time of the early explorers, fascinate today's visitor to the Gulf Coast. The haunting romance of history fills the soft Southern air. In experience only, however, it is old. In its hotels and living accommodations, its civic developments, its facilities for sport and recreation, its people—the Gulf Coast is thoroughly modern and progressive. Golf is played over some of the finest courses in America. Fishing is a veritable delight. And there's tennis, horseback-riding, boating, hunting and many other sports, all enjoyed under ideal conditions.

First Pictures of the New Ford Car

Get complete details
TOMORROW
at Ford salesrooms

FOR SEVERAL years we have been working on the new Ford car. For weeks and months you have been hearing rumors about it. For the past few days you have been reading some of the details of it in the newspapers.

Whatever you do tomorrow, take at least fifteen minutes to get the full story of this new automobile.

You will realize then that it is an entirely new and different Ford car, designed and created to meet modern conditions—a car that brings you more beauty, speed, quiet, comfort, safety, economy and stamina than you ever thought possible in a low-price car.

Automobile history will be made tomorrow, for the new Ford is not only new in appearance and performance . . . it is new in mechanical design. Many features of it are exclusive Ford developments. Some are wholly new in automobile practice. Its low price is a reflection of manufacturing improvements and economies that are as epoch-making as the car itself.

Nineteen years of experience in building 15,000,000 automobiles are behind the new Ford car and have counted in its making. Resources unmatched in the motor car industry are its heritage and its birthright.

The Ford policy of owning the source of raw materials, of making virtually every part, of doing business at a small profit per car, has cut many dollars off the price you would ordinarily have to pay for a car like this.

So we say to you—learn about this new Ford car tomorrow. Compare it with any other car in the light-car field for beauty of line—for comfort—for speed—for quick acceleration—for flexibility in traffic . . . for steadiness at all speeds . . . for power on the hills . . . for economy and low cost of up-keep . . . for its sturdy ability to stand up under countless thousands of miles of service.

Then you will know why tomorrow will be remembered as one of the greatest days in the entire history of the automobile industry. . . . Then you will know why the new Ford car will be your car.

Ann, Lecturing Georgie, Becomes Very Angry and Learns About Bill

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Ann and Georgie Hastings, sisters, live together at Mrs. O'Leary's boarding house. Ann, the elder, works in a factory, and Georgie in an insurance office. Ann is proud of her sister's good looks and charming manners. She thinks it would be a good thing if Georgie married Bill Warren, who has no money, but who is madly in love with Georgie. Bill shows Ann the engagement ring he has bought for Georgie. A strange young man drives Georgie home in a smart car, and Ann hears her planning to meet him the next day. She pleads with her sister not to make chance acquaintances and speaks enthusiastically about Bill Warren. The same evening Georgie refuses Bill's offer of marriage. Ann is furious when she hears about it. Georgie resents being bossed and Ann wonders how she could best safeguard her sister. Ann goes to a party with Jimmy McCormick, a department head in the factory, and incurs a jealous girl's enmity. She gets a shock when she looks across the dance floor and sees her sister with Ernest Brooks, the young man she had promised not to see. She meets him and begs him not to continue seeing Georgie, but he only laughs at her. Ann goes home, hoping against hope that Georgie will finally see that her happiness lies with marriage to Bill.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"WELL, I'm going to go out with him as often as I want, so you're wasting your breath. I do like him. He's an artist—draws things for magazines and advertisements—and he's going to take me to his studio some day, and he's a lot more fun than the kind of men you think I ought to like."

"Fun, yes, but you can't trust a man like that, Georgie, darling, listen to me, please! You mustn't make any mistake. It would be so easy to. Oh, Georgie, why can't you see that a boy like Bill Warren is worth ten of that jazz hound with his studio and his flask. Honestly, dear, I know what I'm talking about!"

Georgie's hands were clenched. She was trembling.

"You leave me alone," she said shrilly.

"Don't!" Ann begged. "Georgie, don't! People will hear you!"

"I don't care if they hear or not. I'm not going to be told to do this and that, and bossed around as if I were a child. You haven't got any right to tell me where to get off, have you? I earn my own living, don't I?"

"Georgie, Georgie!" Ann pleaded, but now that the torrent was loosed, it was no use trying to stop it.

"I won't stop talking. I've wanted to say these things for a long time, and I'm going to say them all now. You've been trying to make me do things your way, and you don't realize I've got the right to live as I like. It isn't any business of yours. And besides you've got an awful nerve to criticize me, when I saw you out in the hall tonight with that smart-aleck. I suppose that was all right because it was you!"

Ann's face was very white. "I'm not going to explain—you wouldn't listen to me reasonably, Georgie," she said. "It isn't that I want to boss your life, but I do want you to be happy, and you're going to mess up things if you go around with a fast gang. Oh, darling, before it's too late, while he still loves you, why don't you marry Bill?"

"Marry Bill!" Georgie sneered. Her anger seemed to rise now to a point where she had lost all control. "Do you think I'd throw myself away on Bill Warren? Listen! The way you talk sounds to me as if you had a crush on him yourself. Go and get him! I'll make you a gift of him! You two would be wonderful together!"

There was a biting rancor in her voice, though her wild-looking eyes showed that she scarcely knew what she was saying.

But something seemed to stab Ann at that last outburst of bitterness. She felt faint, and all at once sobs rose up chokingly in her throat. She turned away quickly, and went out into the hall and stood there for a long time in silence, trying to control herself.

She thought she could hear Georgie weeping softly inside the room now. A clock ticked in the lower hall. A bed creaked as someone turned restlessly. No doubt the sounds of their voices had carried, and the next morning half the house would know they had quarreled.

Quarreled! Really quarreled. It was the first time it had ever happened. They had had disputes, little moments of meaningless anger, but never anything like this in its intensity, its determination, its desire to inflict hurt.

Ann had fought back the desire to sob her heart out, but a depression of spirit that was bitterer to bear because she had no means of relieving the ache of it weighed her down.

She stood there for a long time, almost as if in a trance, thinking and yet hot thinking. When at last she opened the door, though the light was still on, Georgie lay, her head on the pillow, slumbering already.

She looked so young and innocent, so wilful, with the tear stains still on her cheeks. What a child she was! And in spite of her selfishness, her carelessness, even her cruelty, she could atone for these things with true kindness and great generosity. She would have deep remorse for what had happened this night. Knowing that, Ann could not help forgiving her.

And automatically, as from long habit, she stooped and began to pick up Georgie's scattered things and arrange them on a chair. Then she, too, undressed, turned off the light and settled down in bed. But she could not win sleep quite so easily as Georgie.

She had certainly lost and lost badly. If anything, her opposition had only decided Georgie more strongly in her own mind to go her own way without advice or hindrance.

Once more Ann's thoughts turned to Bill Warren. She could picture his good-natured face, with its wrinkled, frowning forehead, its serious, honest eyes, its cheerfulness, its harmless, man's vanity.

Suddenly she began to smile, and her smile was one of tenderness. Then abruptly she remembered that last insult Georgie had flung at her in the fullness of her rage. Ann and Bill Warren—what was it that made her heart leap at the thought, made her feel guilty and confused, happy and unhappy?

Was she really blind? Was she urging Bill's case so much only because in her heart of hearts he seemed to her ideal? But it couldn't be that—she was very clear about him. She felt she knew even his smallest faults. No, it was a matter of sober reasoning that had made her wish to see Georgie married to Bill Warren.

She fell asleep at last. In the morning, for once, Georgie was up before her, and out of the room before she could speak. Ann went off to work. That noon, at lunch, as she came out of the gates, she found Bill Warren waiting to see her.

CHAPTER XI.

SHE hadn't seen Bill for more than a week, not since the night in fact when he had come to propose to Georgie.

Seeing him now, and remembering how she had thought about him last night, she felt herself redden. But Bill didn't notice.

"Let's eat together again," he announced in his offhand way.

"All right, Bill. How've you been?"

"Oh, so, so."

He was silent, and she thought he looked a little downcast. In the cafeteria, she kept looking at his head, noticing how well-shaped it was, with its crisp hair and frank eyes. She noticed his hands, how capable they were and masculine, and yet kind. She noticed the obstinacy of his chin, the little serious way he had of thinking hard with his knuckles bunched against his brow.

She had noticed these things many times before, but now they seemed to be alive with a new significance, a new and tender meaning. Bill, downcast—she longed for the privilege of comforting him, yes, even of mothering him.

She knew with wise instinct how easy it would be for her to manage Bill, to guide him, without ever letting him know that he was being guided.

So once again the new thought stole across the borders of her mind. . . .

But it was Bill himself who shattered it. "Ann," he said suddenly, "what am I going to do about Georgie?"

"I don't know, Bill."

His voice was quite dry and hoarse. He was gripping the edge of the table so tightly with one hand that the fingers of it grew white.

"I'm so crazy about her I can't even think about anyone else. And she doesn't care a hoot about me. I know that. No use kidding myself. . . . She doesn't, does she?"

He asked the question with abruptness, denying all his surety, begging for a grain of comfort. Ann could hardly meet his eyes because her own were swimming.

"She doesn't know her mind yet, Bill—that's all. She's only a kid still."

"Couldn't you say something to her? Couldn't you make her realize how I care?"

Ah, if he knew how much she

ROMOLA STANDS BY HER FATHER

LOYAL TO FINISH

Born in his first marriage, Romola Remus is at her father's side as his trial for the murder of his second wife goes on in Cincinnati. "I'll stay with you and see this through, no matter how long it takes," she said.

HELPS WITH EXPENSES

The one-time rum baron has fallen on scant days and Romola, a talented musician, has been filling nightly engagements at the Hollywood Barn, a Chicago cabaret, to obtain money necessary to finance her father's defense.

NIGHT RIDER GANG ROBS 2 MORE

The "night riders" staged two holdups early today, moving their activities from the North Side to the Lawrenceville and East End districts, while a lone robber continued to defy the police in the North Side.

The three "night riders" drove, in their automobile, overtook John Brogan, of 228 Fifty-seventh street, who was walking in Butler street, near Fifty-seventh street, shortly after 1 o'clock. Two of them, both armed, stepped to the pavement and took Brogan's watch, valued at $25, and $7 and jumped back into their car. A third man sat at the wheel during the robbery.

Twenty minutes later three holdup men, believed to be the same ones that robbed Brogan, halted Howard Wittner of 845 Jancey street, at Euclid avenue and Black street. He was robbed of $54, a fountain pen and a charge account ticket for a gasoline company. The robbers proceeded about their work in a manner similar to those in Brogan's case, two stepping to the sidewalk while their companion remained in the machine at the wheel.

A lone robber, believed to be the same one that robbed the River Avenue Gasoline Service Station in Sandusky street a few nights ago, last night robbed the North Side Motor Company, 104 West North avenue, and escaped with $35.

This is the third time within six months that the automobile concern has been held up. The robbery last night took place while crowds of theater patrons were passing. Earl Viney, 19, of 1332 Reddour street, and Riley Merida, 22, a Negro of 1542 Cliff street, employes, were backed into a corner, while the robber took the money from the cash register.

A sneak thief stole jewelry valued at $400 from the apartment of Mrs. Jeanette MacKenzie, at Federal and Erie streets last night, North Side police say. The thief climbed the fire escape to the third floor, jimmied a window and climbed into the bedroom during the absence of Mrs. MacKenzie.

Mrs. Nellie Jennings, 32, wife of Motorcycle Patrolman Arthur T. Jennings of 900 Montooth street, routed a Negro prowler early yesterday when she fired a revolver at a man she saw climbing the porch roof of her home. The robber escaped. The man is believed to have been struck by a bullet. Four small children witnessed their mother shoot at the prowler from a bedroom window.

Then Schiffman came back to enter an appeal from the award. Mrs. Schiffman made it all up with him—and returned the $6,000,000.

LEWIS LIKES MOSCOW

MOSCSOW, Dec. 1.—(INS.)—Sinclair Lewis, American author, who made "Main Street" and "Babbit" household words and aroused controversy among the American clergy by his novel, "Elmer Gantry," settled down in Moscow today for an indefinite stay. He plans to write another book while living here.

"The semi-Asiatic atmosphere is slightly bewildering, but I know I shall like it," said Lewis. "I expected to be struck by a stray bullet, but I only slipped on the icy sidewalks."

Lewis was guest at a banquet by the American colony last night.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Dec. 1.—"Billy" Sunday has accepted a six weeks' evangelistic engagement here to begin September 16, 1928. He held a meeting here in the fall of 1912, when more than 6,000 converts "hit the sawdust trail."

JOB HALTS SALE OF "SLAVE"

By Universal Service.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Dec. 1.—Employment has saved A. C. Maddox, World War veteran, from 12 months of "slavery."

His family was on the verge of starvation and, unable to obtain work, Maddox recently announced that at noon yesterday he would auction himself into 12 months of "slavery." The only condition of his "sale" was that his "owner" would provide the necessities of life for his children and Mrs. Maddox.

The "sale" was to have been held on the Tarrant County Court House steps.

A few hours before the "sale," Maddox's plight became known to several charitable organizations and the Fort Worth School Board was induced to give him employment.

"Slavery" to Maddox, he said, was preferable to seeing his children and wife do without food and clothing.

OPEN SEASON ON CROOKS

The holiday season is an open season on crooks. Magistrate George H. England in Central Police Court today announced that workhouse terms would be imposed on all crooks that come before him.

Joseph Doline, 28, no home, accused of stealing wire from a service truck, drew a 30-day sentence and James McCoy, 25, Monongahela, accused with steering drunks, went up to keep Doline company.

At 78, Ohio Man Takes "Mail-Order" Bride

CARROLLTON, O., Dec. 1.—Charles Wesley Justis, 78, took unto himself his third wife here last week, it was learned today. And the then Mrs. Clara Rose, 75, likewise took her third trip to the altar. They married each other.

Justis is the second husband the bride obtained through a matrimonial agency. He selected her from among five "applicants."

Mrs. Justis has resided in Leesville, near here, for almost 50 years. During her early career here she conducted a millinery store but upon her marriage to Benjamin F. Rose in 1897 she quit business. Rose, whom she met through a matrimonial bureau, was killed last year in a fall from a hay wagon. She has no children.

Mr. Justis, who in future will reside at his bride's home in Leesville, is a retired business man from Pecos, Tex.

When the "Limited" stopped in Leesville to allow Mr. Justis to meet his bride-to-be and bring her to the marriage license bureau here, he admitted that among the four "unsuccessful applicants for his hand, heart and worldly possession, there was at least one who would have made his marriage like unto that of "Daddy" Browning and "Peaches" of African honking gander notoriety.

But, being a deacon in the Baptist Church is incompatible with the dancing "Daddy," and, anyway, Mr. Justis said, "Those December and June weddings are unnatural." And so, with less than an hour's personal acquaintance with his bride, they entered a machine and were driven here, where, after the license was procured, they were married by the Rev. W. S. Rowe, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church.

Friends of the bride in Leesville, where she plays the Methodist Church organ, are planning a great celebration when the newlyweds return from a wedding journey.

Ann, Lecturing Georgie, Becomes Very Angry and Learns About Bill had tried to do that very thing!

"Perhaps, Bill, you ought to see her more," she said at last. "You shouldn't give up."

"She threw me down so hard last time I haven't had the nerve to go back. Honestly, I haven't. I made her sore without meaning to, and she told me she didn't care if I never came around again. I've tried to stay away, hoping she'd call me up, but I can't stand it much more. I'd rather be dead than go through another week like the last one!"

His lip twitched, and suddenly he looked away. Then Ann's dream vanished into thin air. If he cared this much, how could she ever hope for a minute to be anything to him more than a shadow?

Well, she could go on as she had begun. She would try her best to make these two people, whom she cared for most, realize what each had to offer the other. It was useless to say anything further to Georgie. It only antagonized her, and fortified her in her resolution to go her own heedless way.

But Ann could help Bill, could encourage him, make opportunities for him.

"Why don't you come around tonight, Bill? Why don't you come to see her?"

"I will," he said. Then suddenly he reached for her hand and pressed it. "Say, Ann, there aren't many girls as nice as you. I guess one of the nicest things about Georgie is her sister!"

Though he had spoken impersonally, Ann's heart leaped, but her voice was rather curt when she spoke. She had made it so for fear it would suddenly tremble.

That night at Mrs. Leary's, there was no sign of Georgie at all. Mrs. Leary confessed she had not called up, and she had left no message to explain her absence. In spite of herself Ann was worried.

She sat looking out of the window, and she was relieved when Bill Warren arrived. He had brought some flowers and a box of not very expensive candy, though Ann was certain it had cost him more than he could afford.

His face fell when he learned that Georgie was not even home yet. However, he sat down to wait with Ann.

It grew dark. Ann found a pack of pinochle cards in the living room, and played a two-handed game. Bill grew more cheerful, laughed proudly at his own prowess, and Ann was content to watch him. But now and then her eyes strayed towards the window, though she was careful not to let Bill see her looking.

The evening went swiftly. Long before it was gone, Bill had ruthlessly opened the candy he had brought for Georgie and insisted on giving it to Ann.

Then all at once Ann started. She had seen a familiar sport roadster drive up, and halt before the arc-light. And this time Bill had caught her look and jumped to his feet.

Through the window they saw Georgie, her head pillowed on Ernest Brooks' arm, shake herself, and laughingly reach down and pick up her slippers. She had danced all evening, apparently.

Ernest Brooks caught her, and seemed to hold her in his arms as he fitted the pumps back on her feet. Then he lifted her out to the sidewalk, and followed. They ran up the steps together.

Ann met Bill's gaze. He looked white and unhappy. They stood waiting, but the door was not opened for another minute or two. Georgie was in the vestibule with Ernest Brooks, saying good-night to him.

The next moment the door itself was opened, and Georgie stepped into the room. She gave a start at the sight of Bill and Ann facing her, and her hand went up absently to her disheveled hair.

But the memory of last night's quarrel was still strong in her, it was plain, and her mouth drew down mutinously after one flying glance at Ann.

She gave a short, harsh laugh. "Well, well, have you taken my advice already?" she asked. "You and Bill—that's what I call a pretty picture!"

Bill did not seem to have heard what she said. He looked as if he were almost out of his head with jealousy and pain. He caught her arm.

"Listen here, Georgie," he said hoarsely, "why are you treating me like this? Why aren't you even giving me a chance?"

"I don't care if I never see you again," Georgie said vindictively, but Ann knew that the remark was directed less at Bill than at her.

He released her and stepped back. "Do you really mean that?"

Georgie looked as if she were going to cry. But she managed to say:

"Yes, I do!"

"All right, then!" Bill's voice had become equally bitter. "Then we'll say goodby right now! If that's the way you feel I don't want to see you ever again, either!"

Georgie gave a mocking laugh and ran up the stairs. Bill looked helplessly at Ann.

"What am I going to do?" he asked in a whisper. "I guess this is the end for us. But I'm going to miss her, I'll feel pretty lonely. Lonely—yes, and blue." His hand was trembling. All at once he seemed to stare at Ann as if seeing her for the first time. "Look here," he asked, "would you be willing to go out with me now and then?"

ANN'S SECOND LETTER.

Here is Ann's second letter to me, written after Georgie's dismissal of Bill Warren.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My sister and I have had our first quarrel. You don't know how it hurt me.

I have tried to convince her that she should marry Bill, but she won't listen. He is such a fine young man, Miss Fairfax. Would it be wrong if I went out with him once in a while, now Georgie won't? I don't want him to be just alone and so unhappy.

ANN.

I love Bill, Miss Fairfax. I must tell you this.

And here is my reply:

Dear Little Ann:

By all means, go out with Bill. You have been setting yourself aside for your sister, but there is no need for further sacrifice. Everyone has a right to happiness.

BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

CHAPTER XII.

ANN did not know what she said to Bill, standing there in the dimness of Mrs. O'Leary's parlor, where one bulb was vainly attempting to dispel the gloom.

Bill Warren had asked her if he could see her, if she'd go out with him "now and then." Her heart was beating violently. She forgot Georgie and Georgie's problems in the sudden burning desire that had been latent in her all along.

Bill was unhappy, he had turned to her for comfort. Nothing else mattered. She thought of how she wanted to shield him, help him, be kind to him. She thought of these things with a sudden singing rapture.

Yet all she said was a mechanical "All right, Bill." How could she ever say what lay in her heart? Or how could she dare let him see what she felt?

Georgie had gone, vanished up the stairs, careless of what she had done. Georgie was rapidly growing different, breaking away indeed from Ann. In her fight to live her life the way she chose, she was using ruthless methods.

Now Bill was going. He muttered something about calling her up in a day or so, and stumbled out into the darkness. Her heart followed him, suffering for and with him. She would make him happy, she would, she would!

Then she climbed the stairs to her room. Georgie was in bed already, but she was not sleeping this time, she was only pretending to. Her eyes were closed, but the lashes fluttered faintly.

As she looked down at her sister, suddenly Ann seemed to come to her senses. She knew now that she loved Bill as much as he loved Georgie. She loved him with all her soul. But Bill—Bill ought to marry Georgie. It would be safety for Georgie, true happiness, the one desirable thing.

Memories of That White and Crimson Drawing Room Are Recalled

DID I remember Lillian Underwood's white and crimson drawing-room?

The question from her lips as she was showing me the big, top floor, hotel apartment into which she meant to move from her tiny, shabby third-floor suite, brought such a flood of memories to me that all the answer I could make her was to echo the word "Remember!" with emphasis. Before I could speak again Philip Veritzen struck in with equal stressing of the word.

"Remember! My dear Lillian, who could ever forget that room?" he asked, his words invested with the tinge of theatricalism which is always his. But I found nothing exaggerated in the exclamation. To me the memory of it was as vivid as its glowing reality had been, when as Dicky's bride, Lillian, my husband's friend, entertained me there.

I loved the memory of that room now, but I remembered that when I first saw it, I loathed it and tried to smother my very real admiration for it by telling myself that it was garish, flamboyant and all the other unpleasant adjectives I could evolve. Of course I had realized long since that my first aversion to the room was rooted in the jealous dislike of Lillian which had been mine in those early days when I had not known the reason for the high affectionate fealty Dicky gave her, nor realized the sacrifice she once had made to protect him from the consequences of an innocent action, for the misunderstanding of which she herself was to blame.

It had taken but a short time for that jealous dislike of mine to vanish, and for me to realize that I never had known a real friend before I met Lillian Underwood. Her wonderful white and crimson drawingroom and her brown-toned library had become sanctuaries to me, and Lillian herself no more deeply than I mourned the necessity of giving up the apartment and storing her furniture, a necessity brought on by the housing situation following the war, and her own long illness.

Between that time and the present year of Marion Morton's absence in school and her mother's sojourn at the old-fashioned hotel in which we were standing, both had made their home with us when Lillian was not traveling. It was an arrangement which we both loved, but I shared her realization that Marion, coming home from school for her holidays and vacations, needed the background of a real home of her own, and I rejoiced for Lillian as I visualized the beautiful setting of her lovely child which her taste and judgment would make of the large and sunny apartment.

So completely had her mention of that memory-laden room taken me back into the past that I did not realize Mr. Veritzen was speaking to me, until Lillian tapped me smartly on the arm.

"Come out of the trance, Madge!" she admonished. "Mentioning that drawing room was like making a hypnotic pass over you. Here's Phil saying pretty things to you, and getting also a fishy stare in return."

"I'm so sorry," I stammered. "I—didn't—hear—"

"I was asking you only why I never had seen you in that white and crimson drawing room in the old days," Mr. Veritzen said suavely. "I know that I never should have forgotten the picture you must have made against that background."

"Yes, it was some tintype," Lillian agreed. "Take your bow, Madge, it isn't often a poor woman gets a nifty like that. But I'm not going to waste any more of your time. We'll be getting along. All right, Bert." She held out a coin to the bellboy, and with a smile at his fervent thanks led the way out of the suite, I, miserably conscious that my cheeks were flaming with embarrassment, following with Philip Veritzen, who appeared to be losing no opportunity of sounding the personal note, when usually he is the soul of discretion and courtesy.

All you need is hot water and you have a healthful, delicious cocoa that the children will want to drink.

Make it in the cup!

Just put this new instant cocoa in a cup, add hot water and stir. That's all you need to do.

No tiresome cooking—no danger of its boiling over if unwatched. No bothering about whether you have milk. No "skin" can form. No pans to wash afterwards.

This new, instant cocoa is made by the makers of Peter's famous Milk Chocolate. It is a delicious blend, richer and creamier than any cocoa you've ever tasted before. Try a tin of this ready-to-serve cocoa today. At your grocer's.

PETER'S MILK COCOA

OLEOMARGARINE

Start the day right with GOOD LUCK

In your breakfast

The typical American breakfast invariably includes hot toast, hot muffins or some hot bread, all of which depend on a spread to make them truly delicious. Jelke GOOD LUCK Margarine is just the spread to give delicate charm of flavor to hot toast and hot breads of all kinds. It retains its color and fragrance when exposed to heat, and lends exquisite flavor. Best of all, its cost is small. Ask your grocer for it tomorrow!

Chinese Chef a Knowing Man

IT IS said that there are 2,000 recipes in China, and that a good Chinese cook is supposed to know them all and not to repeat a dish more than once a month.

"Love Me Long"

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A QUAINT love ballad of other days, reads:

"Love me little, love me long,
Is the burden of my song."

The same refrain is repeated in one of Herrick's poems written 200 years ago:

"You say to me-ward your affection's strong;
Pray love me little, so you love me long."

Modern girls may well consider the philosophy expressed by these songs of the heart. You may store up joy for the future, and also avoid a heart-break if you will but study the lasting qualities of the devotion that prompts Dick to swear undying love for you by the light of the harvest moon, and causes Jack to concentrate on his job with silent, grim determination to make good for your sake.

Love that is seemingly as tense and forcible as a tornado, may pass by as quickly as a tornado, leaving destruction in its wake. Sometimes mild, gentle affection, lasts longer and blesses like warmth of sunshine.

In a letter she prefers not to have printed, Betty asks me: "Will you please explain the strange changeableness of one of the young men of the neighborhood, who took a liking to me?"

It seems Tom was introduced to Betty at the club one evening about a year ago and asked to see her home. He told her, the first evening of their acquaintance, that he loved her with all his heart.

After that every evening and nearly every noon hour found Tom seeking out Betty for lunch, for a trip to the movies, to escort her to a dance.

He brought her flowers and candy. He paid her most extravagant compliments, which she thoroughly enjoyed. He took her to see his parents.

Then came a Sunday afternoon when Tom made an appointment as usual.

"I waited and waited," writes Betty. "But he never showed up. He had taken another girl out. He goes with her all the time. Well, that's the end of him. I never want to see him again.

"He seemed so much in love with me. Is there any way I could win him back?"

No wonder Betty is puzzled. What is the answer to this riddle of ardent devotion suddenly cooling off or transferring its enthusiasm to another object?

Was Tom insincere from the first?

"Isn't he cheating the other girl just as he cheated me?" asks Betty.

I wouldn't put it that way, Betty. Tom, doubtless, intended to play the game fairly. But there are as many kinds of love as there are kinds of men. You can often judge the man by the quality of his love.

A young man may suddenly, impulsively, enkindle a flame of overpowering feeling. For a time the image of a pretty face or the sweet way of a girl may possess his every thought and dream. Then, suddenly as it began, this flame may burn itself out.

Another type of man has more emotional control. If he loves a girl, he may quietly study her for awhile. He will establish, if he can, a fine friendship, hoping time will deepen the bond between them and prove its suitability. This man may not prove an ardent lover at first. Rather, he will be a dependable friend. Because he feels the responsibility of love he will wait until he is sure before he speaks. Or he may remain silent until he is able to support the girl he loves as his wife.

"Love that's closest kept, burns most of all," wrote wise Shakespeare. And he added: "They love least, that let men know their love."

On the other hand there are many instances of men who from the first, loved deeply, ardently, unchangingly, just The One Woman.

A certain famous English general fell in love at first sight.

"I did but see her passing by,
But yet I'll love her 'till I die."

He won his lady. And when, finally he was stricken, he died happy because she held his hand in hers.

Yes, love exists, fortunately for us all. It often happens that a young man of light, changeable, emotions, finding the One Woman, henceforth never wavers.

If the young man you meet this evening, murmurs "I love you," under the spell of moonlight or soft music, these words may mean eternal devotion. And they may mean a mood of a moment or a day. So, wait. Give love time to prove itself deep, sincere, unchanging before you build your hopes on the promise it offers.

Perhaps the happiest girl of all is she who marries a friend and is blessed by a life-time of love that follows the admonition of the old refrain: "Love me little, love me long!"

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Friday, December 2.

Trust in thine own untried capacity as thou wouldst trust in God Himself.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

ALTHOUGH this day will be a particularly lively one, it may not be read as one furthering progress. While Mercury creates a stir, Saturn and "the Lights" in adverse positions lend their influence to retard, obstruct and circumvent.

It is a time for those in employment to be careful not to invite censure or criticism from those in authority. Letters, publishing and professional matters may not suffer the baleful influences.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year in which there may be delays and obstructions in certain directions, especially in labor, industry and employment. Affairs of a mercantile, professional or literary nature may be more successful.

A child born on this day should be versatile and clever, particularly in literary or professional lines. But it may have many uphill journeys, especially if placed in the employment of others.

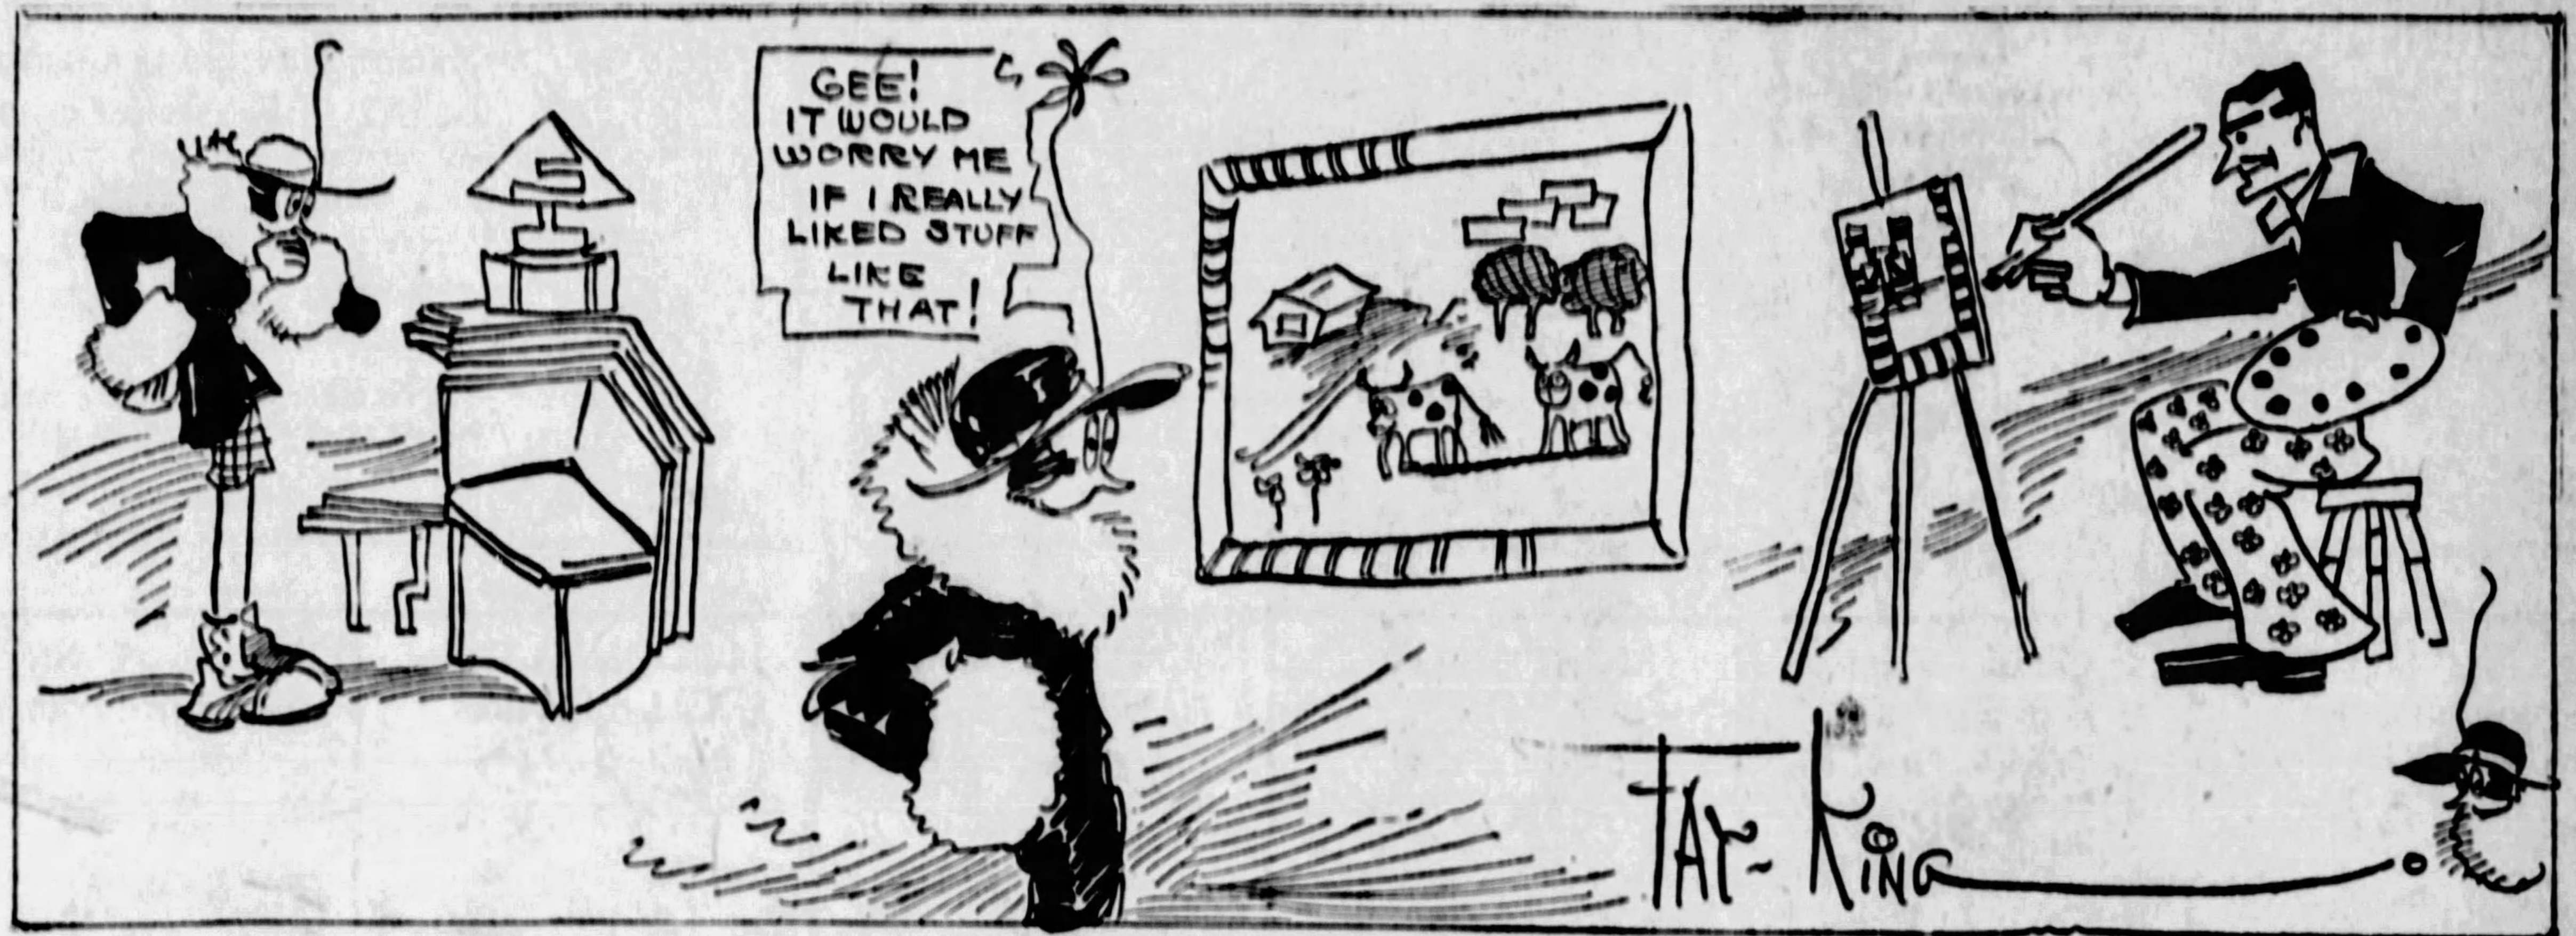
Fay King Likens 'New Art' to Lunatics' Work



GEE! IT WOULD WORRY ME IF I REALLY LIKED STUFF LIKE THAT!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING.

ONCE a long time ago I visited an insane asylum.

It was very sad to see the unfortunates in this refuge and I was shown pictures they had made.

Realizing that one should always humor crazy people, I praised the pictures and other work they had done and they were well pleased! But I was almost bursting into tears!

Only the other day this experience came back to me vividly.

I was strolling through a brightly lighted gallery of a large store in which was a display of a "new adventure" in art, furniture and decorations!

It was when I heard a woman praising one of the "crazy" pictures—which if she is sane she could not possibly admire,—that I was so vividly reminded of the time I was viewing things very much like these in another, much sadder, place!

It was not a "new adventure" into works of this kind for me.

If these artists do this sort of thing in the healthy spirit of fun, or in the way of a prank to fool people, it's funny. But if they are really fooling themselves it is very sad—to say the least!

These artists needn't take my word for it. I advise them to visit an asylum. And they will find that their work is not only not new, but not as grotesque as some they will see there.

But I would advise them not to take any of their work along, or they may have more difficulty getting out than they have getting in.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

HELEN ROWLAND

ISN'T woman wonderful?

She has proved that she can fly an aeroplane nearly across the ocean with one hand—and hang onto her vanity case and her lipstick with the other.

* * *

That she can wear a skirt short enough to show her knees—and yet have a head long enough to earn her own living.

That she can manage a political campaign with one hand—and run a husband with the other.

* * *

That she can handle a high-powered motor car with a strong arm, a quick eye and a cool, clear head—and still manage to look like a fragile, delicate flower in a pink tulle evening gown.

That she can swim the Channel, shoot Big Game, boss a business or win a scholarship—and still follow a man's dance-steps around a ballroom as meekly, meltingly and gracefully as a mid-Victorian clinging vine.

That she can play a corking game of golf—and yet be a fool in the love game!

* * *

And that is where woman falls down! A man's weakness may be in his head, his vanity or his fighting arm. But a woman's weakness is always in her HEART!

Love affects a woman like hashish. It makes her head dizzy, her eyes see double and her imagination work overtime. It makes her lose complete control of her steering-gear.

Why is it that a girl who knows all the rules of every other game, doesn't know enough to keep out of the rough in the love-game?

* * *

Why is it that a woman who is cool-headed enough to guide a twin-six through heavy traffic, gets so dizzy when a man makes love to her that she can't see the danger signals?

Why will a girl, who can take every trick at cards with a poker-face, always lose the first trick in love, by showing her hand?

Why will a woman, who can drive a good hard business bargain, accept seconds and lightweights and imitations in return for real love?

* * *

Because, bless her heart, she is STILL one-hundred per cent woman! And the moment her heart starts working, her common sense and will-power go on a strike!

Business success, careers and adventure are all just side-lines and avocations to a woman. Her one vital interest in life is her heart-interest!

Woman's Big Game is the LOVE-GAME—in which the stakes are happiness!

Yet it is the only game in which she seems to have lost her head, her skill and her championship, and to be handing all the laurels to men!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland, M.D.

U.S. Senator from New York

Frightening Children Is Bad Practice.

NOTHING can be more damaging to effort and to happiness than fear. It is paralyzing to vigor. It is undetermining to health. Fear is death dealing.

DR. COPELAND

The immediae reward for living a righteous life is that it fosters fearlessness. The righteous man can look the world in the eye; cheerful and unafraid.

Worry and fear are first cousins. They belong to the same deadly breed.

To worry over business, domestic concerns or anything else is to benumb the nervous system and to lessen efficiency. How foolish it is!

The last resort of a parent should be the effort to rule the child by fear. That is no way to punish or to control the child.

I read a dreadful story the other day. It related to two parents who locked their 3-year-old daughter in a clothes closet. Not heeding the cries of the child, when the door was finally opened the unhappy baby was found dead. She had been strangled to death by a coachwhip snake.

This is almost too dreadful to repeat. It makes me shudder every time I think of it. It is terrible to think of any parent attempting to punish a child by frightening it.

Children should not be thrust into dark places with the deliberate idea of frightening them. As a matter of fact, children should be taught that there is nothing about darkness to cause fear. By gentle methods they may be brought to regard the darkness exactly as they do the light. To make darkness a fearsome thing is a great mistake.

It seems almost a judgment upon the parents of the strangled child that she was killed in that terrible way. They were trying to frighten her into submission by imprisonment in a dark closet. In that case the life of the child was a sacrifice to the stupidity of the parents. To strangle the spirit of a child by repeated frightenings is almost as bad.

If the one human experience which is productive of most of our miseries were to be destroyed, we should not need to go far to find it. Fear is that experience. Would that it could be rooted out of the world.

In every way possible cultivate fearlessness in the hearts of your children and in your own heart.

Better appetite, greater happiness, greater usefulness and longer life are the rewards of fearlessness. Cultivate the spirit of faith.

VARE BOOSTED, PINCHOT SLAPPED IN SPEECHES

FRIENDS HONOR PATTERSON AT DINNER

In the battle to oust William S. Vare from the United States Senate the American people face the greatest crisis in the history of the Constitution, Senator David A. Reed, who is leading the fight for Vare, told his audience last night at the testimonial dinner to Judge-elect Frank P. Patterson in the William Penn Hotel.

"The question is bigger than any individual," he said. "The whole independence of Pennsylvania and her sister states is at stake. The question is whether a state has the right to choose its own representatives or the Senate has the right to veto that choice and say that the people of that state do not know their own mind. The answer to that question will be the most important since the Dred Scott decision."

The attack upon Vare is caused, the Senator charged, "by jealousy and hatred of Pennsylvania and her prosperity." State Senator M. G. Leslie, another speaker, placed a large part of the blame on the shoulders of former Gov. Gifford Pinchot.

PINCHOT SLAPPED

He paid his compliments to Pinchot by describing him as "one of the greatest of hypocrites and publicity seekers who belches every day on any subject in order to keep his name on the first pages of the newspapers."

Whatever might happen out in "the wild and woolly"—as he termed it—no set of candidates for a statewide office could conduct an intensive campaign in Pennsylvania for less money than Pinchot, Pepper and Vare spent in last year's primary, Senator Leslie said, adding that Pinchot spent personally more than the others.

Former Lieutenant Governor Edward E. Biedleman, unsuccessful running mate of Vare at the last primary, and the Rev. Father L. A. O'Connell, were other speakers. Judge-elect Elder W. Marshall presented Patterson with a watch on behalf of the latter's friends. Joseph H. Bialas, chairman, introduced Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, toastmaster. The Rev. Dr. John Ray Ewers pronounced the invocation.

In accepting the watch, Judge Patterson outlined his conception of the ideal judge, speaking of the prohibition laws in this way:

"The personal beliefs and feelings of a judge, needless to say, must not enter into his decisions. While he might not approve of certain sumptuary legislation, he must follow where the finger of the law points. He must see that such laws are not used as weapons of fanaticism. He must see that they are not used to justify unwarranted searches and seizures and violations of rights. He must see that the sanctity of the home is protected."

APPEALS BANK RECORD CASE

Joseph R. Gaussa, county employe, today filed an appeal with the Supreme Court from the decision of Judge A. B. Reid, who ordered the Potter Title and Trust Company to produce Gaussa's bank record in the audit of County Controller C. C. McGovern. The latter charged that Gaussa deposited and paid out money in his own name.

7 NEW POLICE OFFICERS

A new captain, two lieutenants, four sergeants and one city detective have been added to the personnel of the police department to fill vacancies recently created, according to an announcement yesterday by Director of Public Safety James M. Clark.

City Detective James H. Hoey will succeed Capt. Anthony Forrester, discharged from the police bureau on charges incident to primary election riots. Capt. Hoey will take charge of the Downtown and hill districts at nights.

Patrolmen C. E. Moser and Frank Shrine were appointed lieutenants. Shine will fill the place of Lieut. Earl Means, also discharged in connection with election riots. Joseph Jackson, a former detective, was appointed a city detective to fill a vacancy created by the retirement of John Capp.

Patrolman John McCullough, Samuel White, William Greehan and Frank Goebeler were appointed sergeants.

Major appointments in the bureau of fire follow: battalion chief, Martin J. Loebig; captains, Delose Hardey and Alexander Reed. They will fill vacancies created by retirements.

BURNS FATAL TO CHILD IN HAMPTON TOWNSHIP

Lillian May Smith, 18 months, died in her home in Gibsonia road, Hampton township, today of burns suffered last Saturday when she fell into a tub of hot water in which her mother was about to bathe her.

COUNTY REFUSES TO MAINTAIN CITY SPANS

"The splendid spirit of co-operation between city and county officials," theme of many impassioned campaign speeches, vanished into thin air today when Mayor Charles H. Kline received notice that the County Commissioners did not intend to take over the maintenance of the Manchester, Tenth Street and Twenty-second Street Bridges, still owned by the city.

Unless the commissioners change their decision, about $250,000 will have to be added to the city budget to take care of the bridges, according to estimates made today in the office of Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang. The news came as a complete surprise to city officials.

The decision was made, according to a letter received by the Mayor, because the heavy county improvement program made it impossible to accept any additional liabilities.

WIFE WOULDN'T COOK, HE SEEKS DIVORCE

His wife would not cook his evening meals and, to add insult to injury, she struck him repeatedly, Kenneth Nuttall, 1614 Braddock avenue, Swissvale, testified in his divorce action against Georgetta G. Nuttall in Common Pleas Court. And, he added, there was much quarreling because she refused to have children.

HER UMBRELLA FOILS THIEF

Sticking her umbrella between the legs of a fleeing Negro, Josephine Lygeia, Bellefield apartments, saved the purse of her companion, Stella Temon, 1643 Denniston avenue, as the highwayman made an effort to escape after holding them up in Fisk street late last night.

The girls, leaving the home of a friend, were attacked by the Negro, who took Miss Temon's purse, which contained $41. He knocked her to the ground. Miss Lygeia struck with her umbrella and when the Negro ran she tripped him.

PREVENTS RIVER SUICIDE

While poised on a pier of the Thirtieth Street Bridge in readiness to end his life, police say, with a leap into the Allegheny River below, John Benetsky, 64, homeless and jobless, was overpowered and rescued yesterday afternoon by Israel Sundy, 29, of 132 Forty-fourth street.

Sundy told police he saw the man climb out on the pier while crossing the bridge. Sundy raced to the spot, climbed over the railing and subdued Benetsky. Benetsky was arrested, charged with being a suspicious person.

A Smile

That charms with gloriously clear teeth, now yours

THAT off-color teeth can be given dazzling whiteness quickly is now a proved dental fact.

It's been found that dingy teeth come simply from a film that forms on teeth. A stubborn film old-type dentifrices did not successfully remove. That's why brushing failed you.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you can feel that film now—a sort of slippery coating. Beneath it are the white teeth you envy.

It keeps your smile unattractive because it absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc. It invites tooth decay, gum troubles and pyorrhea because it breeds bacteria.

Now, in a new-type dentifrice called Pepsodent, a scientific combatant has been found. Leading dentists widely urge it. All druggists have it. Works wonders on dingy teeth. 10-day test will be sent for coupon if you wish.

PITT PANTHERS TO FACE POWERFUL ALUMNI ELEVEN

Morley Drury Will Now Recite, "There Ain't No Santa Claus"

★ SUN-TELEGRAPH ★ SPORTS ★

Columbia Grads Asked to Seek Sport Stars

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Graduates are urged by the current issue of the Columbia Alumni News to persuade athletes to attend the university.

"Yale, Princeton and Harvard men are not above such tactics, and all three universities enjoy a good reputation—and good football teams," says the paper.

"The average old grad elevates his eyebrows at such an uncouth notion, but we fail to see anything wrong in persuading a football player to enroll in Columbia, provided he is a good, clean and intelligent young fellow who doesn't expect to have his way paid for him simply because he can play football.

"A winning eleven, honestly recruited, is a credit to any university."

The paper blames the "disastrous" football season on failure of alumni to try to get athletes to attend the university.

N. Y. U. DROPS PENN STATE AND NEBRASKA

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(INS.)—New York University athletic authorities announced today that Nebraska and Penn State would not be on its football schedule for 1928, Missouri and Georgetown getting the vacated dates. The former will play in New York on November 17 and the latter here on November 3.

NOTRE DAME CAPTAIN ACCEPTS KERR'S BID

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 1.—(INS.)—Capt. Smith, star Notre Dame guard, has notified Andy Kerr that he is willing to join the all-Eastern football team which will meet a picked Pacific Coast team in a charity game in San Francisco on December 26. Kerr, who is coach at Washington and Jefferson, is assembling the Eastern players.

Test Certain For Varsity

By JESS CARVER.

THE Golden Panthers of Pitt, undefeated in nine games and at present being primed for a post-season struggle in the Rose Bowl of Pasadena with Standard's Cardinals, will be tested in a practice game a week from Saturday with a team, which, had it been gathered together three years ago as a varsity machine, would have been one of the greatest of all time.

This eleven, to be composed of former Pitt stars, will still possess a tremendous amount of power and kick, and will be a sturdy defensive outfit. The only thing that will handicap the boys will be lack of drill and condition, though as most of the players selected have been engaged in active coaching during the past season, the physical shape of the team will be pretty good.

Take a look at the following list of players, from which the Alumni's lineup will be selected:

Ends—Williams, Lee Frank, Sauer, McMillin, Jordan.

Tackles—Chase, Wissinger, Harmon, Stein.

Guards—Linn, Hangartner, Sack, Seidelson, Templeton.

Centers—Bowser, Peck.

Backs—Davies, Gustafson, Hewitt, Irwin, Colonna, Schaler, Brown.

No admission will be charged for the game.

TUNNEY TO HUNT DEER IN PENNSYLVANIA WOODS

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Dec. 1.—(UP.)—The deer of Pennsylvania are to be honored by allowing themselves to be shot at by Gene Tunney, world's heavyweight boxing champion. Tunney, according to George Ransberry, who maintains a hunting camp in the Poconos near here, will arrive in Pennsylvania to hunt deer tomorrow.

While training for his first fight with Jack Dempsey, in which he won the title, Tunney trained at Stroudsburg.

HAVING passed their apprentice days of serving the Enoch Rauh Club as a preliminary attraction, the Sumer Somermans will step out into fast company for the first time tonight when they open their home P. & O. League schedule against St. Catherines at Columbus Temple.

Three years of successful basketball have won for the Somermans a large legion of supporters and tonight will likely find a capacity house at Columbus Temple for their inaugural battle.

Councilman James F. Malone has accepted an invitation to toss up the first ball tonight. The councilman has followed the activities of the Somermans for several years and is one of the staunchest supporters of the club.

IN MEETING the St. Catherines quintet in their opener, the Somermans face one of the best teams enrolled in the P. & O. League. The Beechview passers, fresh from their well-earned victory over the Goldensons, will be out to add the Columbus Temple passers to their list of victims.

Two Beechview boys who will bear watching are Al Mancuso, former South Hills High star, and Vincent Burns, star center of the team. This pair stood out in the battle with the Goldensons Tuesday night and if they continue the same style of play, St. Catherines has an excellent chance of downing the Hill district team.

THE Unity Fraternity team of Connellsville, one of the few clubs to defeat the Five Horsemen of Uniontown in a series last year, is back this winter with a strong aggregation that includes such well-known stars as J. O. Huntsman, John Marlin, Howard Stuckeman, Berry, Pillette and several other lesser lights.

The Cokers last year won the Fayette county championship and they hope to retain their laurels this winter.

Sandlot Football

By TOM BIRKS.

ON Saturday the championship of the Allegheny Valley will be settled when the Burns team of New Kensington meets the Springdale Amicus at the Parnassus High School grounds. This game is the annual classic of the independent gridiron and always plays to a capacity crowd. Despit the fact that Burns is still in the unbeaten class, plenty of fans around the district feel that Amicus will be able to defeat its biggest rival.

North Side C. M. C. and the Hazelwood Ryans will make another effort on Saturday to get that game, billed as another elimination and a city championship struggle, out of the way at Duquesne University grounds.

Then McKeesport fans will see another real battle when Buck Weaver takes his Carrick Olds to Cycler Park to play off that tie game of last Saturday. That was a real battle and with fandom divided upon the outcome of the game on a good day a real battle should result.

IOWA ELECTS BROWN

IOWA CITY, Ia., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The University of Iowa, for the fourth consecutive time, will have a football team led by a lineman. Richard M. Brown of Cedar Rapids was chosen captain of the 1928 team at the annual football dinner last night.

Brown has played center through every game of his two years on the varsity team.

THREE BOXING SHOWS CARDED TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK,
Sun-Telegraph Sports Editor.

THREE boxing shows will draw out the mitt fans of the Pittsburgh district tonight. Two of them are pro offerings and one a big amateur affair.

Willie Davies of Charleroi, state flyweight champion, meets Luis Carpentero of Columbus, a Filipino, in the 10-round main bout of the weekly show at McKeesport, and Tug Phillips of Fayette City and Jackie Murray, Negro welterweight of the Hill, will meet in the main bout of the first show of the new Carnegie A. C., in Moose Hall, Carnegie.

The Homewood Baseball Club of the Allegheny County League holds a benefit amateur boxing show in the Penn Armory, East End, to erase a deficit of close to $1,000 hanging over from the last season.

Another Filipino, Juanita Perez Valdez of Youngstown, boxes Eddie Myers of McKeesport in the semi-final of the Tube City show; Bernie Noonan of Jeannette and Joe Todd of Donora box the second bout and Jack Dillion and Bruno Scalla meet in the opener.

Marty McHale of McKeesport and Jimmy Prescott of Carnegie will box the semi-final of the Carnegie show, with Jackie Rodgers and Young Sayers in the second bout and Kid Onions and George Ross in the opener.

The program for the Homewood club's amateur show follows: 125-pound class, H. Titus, Willow Club, vs. William Zurick, unattached, and Lenny Stark, Rankin, vs. L. Payne, Superior A. A.; 126-pound class, Walter Southward, unattached, vs. H. Johnson, unattached; A. Andrucci, Willow Club, vs. Tom Harris, St. John's Lyceum; Scott Dele, unattached, vs. Sam Rossi, Braddock Library, and S. Trozo, unattached vs. A. Polefko, Duquesne; 147-pound class, Ed Hebner, Clairton, vs. Bob Smoller, unattached; 112-pound class, Mickey Werbanic, Willow Club, vs. Matt Callegher, Fifteenth Ward Republican Club.

Tony Canzoneri and Ignacio Fernandez, the Filipino, box the main bout in Madison Square Garden, New York, tonight, Fernandez taking the place of Bud Taylor, who has been suspended for canceling the match.

Marco Polo of McKees Rocks and Kid Crutchfield, Negro heavyweight of the Hill, have been matched for the semi-final on the all-heavyweight card at Motor Square Garden next Monday night to be headed by a meeting between the veteran Battling Levinsky and the youthful Emmett Rocco of Ellwood City. Stanley Simmons of Lawrenceville and Jack O'Connell of Bellaire, O., will clash in the second event and the opener will bring together Joe Archer of Johnstown and Ray Crawford of McKeesport.

Roleaux Saguero, the Cuban southpaw light-heavyweight, and Chuck Burns of San Antonio box over the 10-round route in Chicago tonight.

Reed Brown has been named the coach and manager of the Pittsburgh Lyceum amateur boxing team and would like to add a number of new candidates to the squad. Workouts are held Tuesday and Thursday evenings in the Lyceum gym. A boxing and wrestling smoker will be held at the Lyceum Sunday afternoon.

FIGHT RESULTS

At Philadelphia—Jack Gross won by technical knockout over Homer Smith, 5 rounds; Harry Martone won by technical knockout over Frank Monahan, 5 rounds; Joe Lill knocked out Tony Youkonis, 3 rounds; Lew Seitzer knocked out Jimmy McDonough, 2 rounds; Ricardo Romano defeated Will Matthews, 6 rounds.

At Meadville, Pa.—Johnny Ryan defeated Freddie Vincent, 10 rounds; Danny McAleer defeated Guy Errell, 6 rounds.

At San Francisco—Johnny Preston knocked out Billy Adams, 6 rounds; Pablo Dano defeated Frankie Murray, 8 rounds; Marcel Thuru defeated George Brazelton, 6 rounds.

At New York—Dominick Petrone defeated Johnny Green, 10 rounds; Terry Ruth won by technical knockout over Joe Ferrentino, 3 rounds.

At El Rio—Danny Flores defeated Dick Chang, Chinese flyweight, 4 rounds.

NEVER HAD CHANCE

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Frankie Schoell, the Buffalo boxer, has been fighting nine years. In that time he has fought the best lads the promoters have been able to dig up for him. Yet Frankie has been unable to coax the champion of his division into giving him a crack at the title. Frankie tips the beams at 147 pounds and has had to do his work among the heavier boys.

Trojans Were Robbed, Warner Says

BEST IN PITTSBURGH THURSDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1927

SPORT COMMENT
by JAMES J. LONG

IN THE reported threat of George Barnshaw, right-hand pitching ace of the Baltimore International League Club, to retire from baseball next season, some diamond followers believe they see a strategic move aimed to force Owner Jack Dunn to abandon his practice of forcing star Oriole players to remain in their minor league berths until they are figuratively gray.

It is suspected that Barnshaw hopes, by threatening to retire, to compel Dunn to sell him to one of the big league clubs that are willing to pay a fancy price for him.

AS in the cases of other Baltimore luminaries in recent years, Dunn has refused to listen to any offers for his star pitcher, as well as for Outfielder Dick Porter, who also is adjudged ripe for the big show, but it is thought that if the Oriole owner begins to fear that he may lose Barnshaw by retirement and thus get nothing for him, he would speedily consent to sell him to a major league club and thus give the right-hander his deserved chance to "go up."

The Barnshaw case is just one more argument in favor of the draft rule and against the no-draft or modified-draft systems.

IT may appear all right from the viewpoint of the Baltimore fans for Dunn to keep his star players until he won seven pennants in succession, as he did from 1919 to 1925, inclusive, but is grossly unfair to the players, and all on account of the absence of draft.

This for the reason that it robs a minor league player of a chance to advance in his profession.

If there were a rule permitting the drafting of any one player from each club in the Class AA Leagues, as was formerly the case, the owner of a club would not dare to refuse to sell a player, as he would be running the risk of losing him in the draft for a much smaller price.

WITHOUT such a draft rule, the owner knows he is safe, and he can keep the player indefinitely.

The injustice to the player lies in the fact that he is forced to remain in the "thickets" and play for a minor league salary, whereas, if he were allowed to advance to the majors he could rise in his profession and command a much larger pay check.

Neither is it fair to the major league club owners to have practically all of the "double A" players exempt from draft, as club owners who are willing to sell athletes of promise, are given a chance to hold up the major league moguls and demand for their men prices that are not at all in proportion to the gamble that the buyer takes on the players' making good in the fast set.

If these men could be obtained for a nominal sum in the draft, the minor league owners, rather than run the risk of losing them in the lottery,

DANNY SHAY, SHOT, AT POINT OF DEATH

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 1.—(INS.)—Physicians at General Hospital here today expressed the belief that Danipl (Danny) C. Shay, former manager of the Kansas City Blues of the American Association, would not live through the day. Shay was found shot through the head in his room at a hotel last night. He had not regained consciousness.

Police were investigating the circumstances. Indications pointed to an attempt at suicide. Shay played shortstop on the New York Giants team 20 years ago.

Shay was tried and acquitted here several years ago on a charge of murder in connection with shooting a Negro bartender.

LOCAL GRID REFEREES TO BANQUET NEXT WEEK

The annual dinner of the Pittsburgh Chapter of the Eastern Intercollegiate Football Referees Association will be held next Wednesday night at the P. A. A.

Dan Dougherty is president and John Egan is vice president of the local organization. Cal Boister, secretary-treasurer, Heinie Blum and John Egan are in charge of the big event which will be attended by members of the Pittsburgh chapter and many friends.

GRID CARD FULL

LEXINGTON, Va., Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Washington and Lee's football schedule calls for games with Kentucky at Lexington, Ky., October 13; with West Virginia at Charleston or Huntington, October 20, and with Princeton at Princeton, November 10. North Carolina State replaces Maryland on the schedule.

POP, BACK ON COAST, PRAISES PITT

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—(INS.)—Glenn (Pop) Warner, whose Stanford Cardinals meet Pittsburgh in a post-season game at Pasadena on January 2, was back from the East today, where he watched the Panthers in action against Penn State. Warner said that Pittsburgh was the best team he has seen perform this year, and he, by the way, was among those present at the Notre Dame-Southern California game at Chicago Saturday.

Warner is among those who believe that the much talked of decision of John Schommer, the umpire of the Irish-Trojan game, deprived Southern California of a victory.

"I was watching the play closely," Warner said, "for if the play succeeded it meant a touchdown. I was positive that I saw Riley, the Notre Dame quarterback, catch the ball and start to run with it. Hibbs and Sunders hit him while he was in motion. The ball fell out of his arms and rolled out of bounds in the end zone.

"After a mad scramble a U. S. C. man fell on the ball. In my opinion

HERMAN BUDDEMEYER writes in to say he can see no reason for a squawk about the Cuyler deal. Anyway, he argues, criticism won't undo the deal now. Shrewdly he argues that Adams and Scott available for work are far more valuable to the Pirates than Cuyler on the bench.

HAVEY BOYLE.

Those who thought that Cuyler was a good man note with interest the great change in attitude of National League managers. Thus, where once it was announced during the Cuyler epidemic that only one team was interested in him, the latest bulletin says that only New York and St. Louis declined to make offers for Cuyler in the negotiations which went on before the Cubs landed him.

BILL WYMAN, who is public relations counsel for the Sheridan Square Theater (public relations counsel sounds more hifalutin' than just press agent), writes in to say he thinks Al Schacht and Nick Altrock,

Pirate, Bruin Icemen Renew Feud Tonight

By CARL W. SHATTO.

ASSAULT in the first period, aggravated assault in the second stanza, and assault with intent to kill in the third and final canto—that's the program to which Pittsburgh and Boston hockey teams have adhered in the past and that's likely to be the bill of fare when the ancient and honorable ice rivals renew warfare in a National League game at Duquesne Garden at 8:30 this evening.

In the good old days of the amateurs, when Pittsburgh victories were as common as divorces, the Steel City skaters used to divide their dirty looks between Boston and Cleveland foemen. Since Cleveland has faded from the hockey picture, however, the Pirates have been able to concentrate on the Bruins, and the Hub bruisers never have failed to meet all obligations promptly, with interest somewhat higher than the usual rate.

It may be that a few solid thumps administered by Boston's experts in thumping will do the Bucs much good. Their record of five defeats in five starts, not matched by any other club in the league, would indicate that what the Cleghorn icemen need is not a coach, but attention by a sleeping sickness expert.

If the Pirates are to win tonight, they will have to play better hockey than they have played at any time this season. Last season Boston finished second only to Ottawa and this year the Bruins loom as a club of championship caliber that knows where it is going. Three victories and one defeat is the proud record of the Hub sextet to date and just to show that they are well primed for the Pittsburgh invasion the Bears humiliated the Montreal Maroons, 4-0, last Tuesday night. And Montreal

TWO STARS OF DUKES' FLOOR SQUAD IN PRACTICE

GEORGE (GANZY) BENEDICT

Former star of the Duquesne Fink's Lafayettes of the County League, who is one of the outstanding candidates for a forward position on the Duquesne University basketball team. He was a member of the Dukes' football squad during the season just closed. Coach Chick Davies has cut the Dukes' squad to a working basis after two weeks of practice. The season opens with a game against Wittenberg at home, December 16.

CAPT. JERRY REICH

Another forward of the Dukes. Along with Joe Vernon, center, and Jock Rosenberg, guard, Capt. Reich comprises the veteran material left from last season. Roy O'Donovan and Johnny Serbin, forwards, and DeMaria and Schrading, guards, have been lost by graduation.

Night School Students Barred From Sports

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Track athletes attending extension schools or night courses in colleges and universities will be barred from intercollegiate competition under an amendment to be placed before the annual convention of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America March 3. Exact wording of the amendment to the amateur code, governing 40 colleges of the association, has been left to the advisory committee, Chairman Gustavus T. Kirby announced today.

BIG LEAGUE CARDS SET AT MEET HERE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

THE Pirates, champions of the National League, will jump off in 1928 against the Cardinals in St. Louis, it was learned this afternoon when the schedule committees of the National and American leagues finished their work at the William Penn Hotel.

The major league races will start on Wednesday, April 11, and will close Sunday, September 30. The opening and closing dates are somewhat earlier than those of last season.

As soon as the meeting ended the committees gave out the opening day dates as follows:

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Pittsburgh at St. Louis, Chicago at Cincinnati, Boston at New York, Philadelphia at Brooklyn.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Cleveland at Chicago, St. Louis at Detroit, New York at Philadelphia, Washington at Boston.

A new record for speed in drafting the two playing charts was accomplished in the most harmonious schedule meeting ever held by the major league committees.

As usual, President John A. Heydler of the National League and Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pirates, made up the National League committee. Dreyfuss is noted for his quick work on the charts and Heydler also is a master hand at this work. Each committee expressed pleasure in getting the task completed so quickly. The work was begun yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Heydler announced that the committees decided on a new departure in making the entire schedule public. Under the new arrangement the playing cards will be published early in January. Heretofore they have been held up until February, the later date being unsatisfacory for several reasons.

E. S. Barnard, new president of the American League, and William Harridge, secretary of that organization, represented their league. Harridge has been familiar with this work for many years. Harvey Trayband, secretary to President Heydler, also assisted.

GREENSBURG HI W. P. I. A. L. CHAMPION

By just nine points, or a touchdown and field goal, Greensburg High School's crack football team rode into the 1927 W. P. I. A. L. gridiron championship last night. The Westmoreland county eleven was proclaimed champs by the Point Scoring Committee of the league after a lengthy meeting at the Fort Pitt Hotel last evening.

Abiding by their decision to award the annual trophy to the team selected by the committee, the Syracuse Alumni Association of Pittsburgh will tender the famed Syracuse Cup to the Greensburgers.

Greensburg was selected over Clairton High by a fairly narrow margin. It was the first time in the history of the W. P. I. A. L. that the grid title has been awarded on a point basis, in previous years the leading teams having battled through one or two post season games, eliminating one another, the team surviving being crowned champions. The officials of the league desired to end all football by the Saturday after Thanksgiving, so decided upon the point score basis for determining their title holder.

Greensburg's total was 139 points. Clairton, with 130, was second. Then came the Jeannette eleven with 127; dark horse Har-Brack fourth with 125; New Castle fifth with 118 and then, in sixth place, came Johnny Reed's forgotten North Braddock team with 103 and a fraction. Westinghouse, City League champs, were placed seventh and last with 102.

The selection of Greensburg will meet with popular approval except in sections like Jeannette and Clairton, where the school teams played through hard schedules in fine fashion, escaping undefeated and downing other strong elevens by impressive scores.

THREE PERFECT MARKS

The undefeated and untied elevens, aside from Greensburg, were Jeannette and Clairton. New Castle finished untied, and undefeated in league play, but lost a single game to an outside team from Youngstown.

Har-Brack, with the exception of a tie game with Parnassus, had a great record for the year, as did North Braddock. Westinghouse, the team that had to play Wilkinsburg last week in order to get in the required number of W. P. I. A. L. games, five, and then was held to a scoreless tie, did not have near as strong a mark as it was at first supposed would be presented by the Silver Lakers.

The point scoring system is worked out in the following manner—Each team is awarded 100 points for a victory, 50 points for a tie and then is given 10 points for any triumph recorded by a team previously defeated by itself. Five points are awarded for a tie in the same case. The points are then totaled and divided by the number of league games played.

FORDHAM ELECTS SMITH

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(INS.)—John Smith, of Providence, R. I., Fordham tackle, will captain the Maroon eleven next season.

CUBS TO HELP BUCS TRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The Chicago Cubs will start preparations for bringing a National League championship to the North Side park February 12, when batterymen are to leave for the Catalina Island, Cal., training camp. The pitchers and catchers will reach the island three days later.

The Cubs' offices announced today that the California training season will be concluded with a four-game series against the Pittsburgh Pirates at Los Angeles March 29, 30, 31 and April 1. The team then will entrain for Kansas City, where four games will be played with the American Association club, starting April 5.

Local Handball Stars to Form League

Four local amateur organizations sponsoring handball are scheduled to hold a meeting in room 709 of the Chamber of Commerce Building Saturday afternoon for the purpose of organizing a league composed of all teams using four-wall courts.

According to the advance information, Pittsburgh Athletic Association, Downtown Y. M. C. A., Webster Hall and Young Men's Hebrew Association will be members of the circuit. All matches will be scheduled for Saturday afternoon.

Grange Rates Welch Outstanding Back

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—In picking his all-American football team, announced here today, Harold (Red) Grange, former all-America football star at the University of Illinois, rates Gibby Welch, captain of the Pitt Panthers, the outstanding back of the season. The selections follow:

Why Did You Buy LIFE INSURANCE?

Your foresight, your desire to protect and care for your dependents prompted you to take out Life Insurance. But, will your insurance protect them? Consider these facts:

—Over 90% of all life insurance is paid to widows and other heirs in lump-sum amounts. In 1926, this amounted to $400,000,000.

—Of lump-sum life insurance payments of $5,000 and over, 95% is consumed or dissipated in from 5 to 7 years.

—It is from life insurance proceeds, received by inexperienced beneficiaries, that a large percentage of speculative promotions are financed.

Is your insurance payable in a lump sum? Will the 7-year period find your dependents penniless?

This is a serious question. How can you best conserve your estate?

never has been regarded as a push-over for any man's hockey club.

Much has been written regarding the Pirates' weak defense (and justly so), but to the impartial observer it would appear that the 1-0 defeat the Bucs suffered in their last engagement, with the New York Americans, is no great tribute to the Pirate offense. In five games the Bucs have scored exactly three goals. If Cleghorn can uncover a defense that will make such scoring look like a victory stride he should be arrested for outdoing Ponzi.

Sammy Rothschild, new Pittsburgh star, who showed in fine form against the Americans, probably will be in the forward line when the Pirates take to the ice tonight.

President Horace Townsend of the locals attached the first fine of the season and took the first drastic step to get the Bucs out of their rut when he slapped a $200 fine on Micky McGuire and indefinitely suspended that gentleman yesterday.

baseball comedians, are great comic artists. "You can quote me on this," says Mr. Wyman, "but as a special favor don't mention the fact that these two boys are going to be at the Sheridan Square the last three days of this week."

It is a pleasure to hear from Mr. Wyman. Some feared that after he had been elected justice of the peace of Thornburg he might be a little up-stage. He won on a fine platform. He was for the workingman, the full dinner pail, the clean bal- ing is the picture of the servant-boy good roads. On international questions he told the electorate of Thornburg that if elected justice of the peace he would work for the outlawing of war; wanted the Chinese to be allowed to settle their own internal affairs; stood for a big merchant marine, and stood for the brotherhood of man. Thornburg will never regret having selected Justice Wyman.

GIBBY WELCH, Pitt football captain, approached Charley Doyle at the luncheon given by the Chamber of Commerce to honor the Pitt football team. "Hello, Havey," said Capt. Welch to Mr. Doyle and Mr. Doyle put an ominous hand on a bulging hip and in that accent peculiar to Sharon, Pa., said: "When you say that, suh, smile."

WASH-JEFF GRID CARD FILLED

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 1.—Coach Andy Kerr of Washington and Jefferson made it known today that the Presidents could have filled their football schedule for 1928 with a host of teams of high rating, had they had places to book the institutions wanting games. Among the outstanding elevens asking to be placed on the Red and Black card were Georgetown, Detroit and Western Maryland. Detroit, met for several seasons, a few years ago, asked Kerr's men to go to the City of Straits for a contest on one of several dates either in October or November. Georgetown made the same proposition for a contest either at Washington or at Washington, D. C.

All the requests were declined by W. & J., as the Presidents' schedule is already very heavy and the remaining dates will be filled with contests of a lighter character. Pitt, West Virginia, Carnegie Tech, Fordham, Lafayette and Bucknell are all booked for next season, giving the Presidents one of the toughest cards ever arranged.

AS it is, some of them are not above holding up the big clubs for huge sums for these players, and then, if the purchased pastimers fail to make the big league grade the major magnates who paid large amounts for them are compelled to sell them back to the minors for only a fraction of the sums they paid for them.

But without considering the way the major league owners are held up, the strongest argument in favor of a general draft is that the absence of a draft prevents a player of ability from advancing to the majors, where he can double, or treble his salary, if he happens to be in the employ of an owner like Dunn, who refuses to sell.

Probably we shall hear some more talk about the restoration of the full draft where it is not now operative when the minor leagues hold their annual convention in Dallas, Tex., next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. And it is equally probable that there will be the same old result—the larger minor leagues refusing to consent to any change in the present restricted regulations.

WHETHER Barnshaw is trying to bluff Dunn into selling him, or really intends to retire, he is probably actuated in either case by the fate of previous Baltimore stars for whom the big league clubs repeatedly made offers but whom Dunn persistently refused to sell.

Thomas Holmes points out that Bob Grove, southpaw pitcher of the Athletics, is the only one among the high-priced stars finally sold to the majors by Dunn, who really had enough ability left to make a respectable showing after his belated arrival in the big show.

Jack Bentley, Merwin Jacobson and Joe Boley all failed to live up to their early reputations after reaching the main tent, because Dunn had held them in the minors so long that they had passed their peaks before they got a chance to try for the big money. They had to spend their best years working for minor league salaries. Is that fair?

Corporation Heads Should Get Known; Ford's Example.

By B. C. FORBES

AMERICA this week is having a unique demonstration of the value of personality in business. Henry Ford has made himself so dramatic a figure that everything he says and does is blazoned in the newspapers no matter how directly it advertises his product.

Do you imagine for a moment that, without the personality of Henry Ford, his car would ever have hypnotized newspapers and magazines into showering upon it so much priceless publicity? Even Barnum could not command a tenth of the volume of free advertising Henry Ford is eagerly accorded. Had there been no such playing-up of the new Ford product in news columns, the Ford Motor Company doubtless would have felt compelled to spend millions in preliminary advertising.

Why have the newspapers "fallen" for so much free Ford advertising?

Because Henry has succeeded in making himself and all his doings interesting news, news very widely read, judged by the keenness of editors to get it.

HEREIN lies an invaluable suggestion for other large business enterprises.

Every great corporation should strive to dramatize, so to speak, the man at its head—have his personality interpreted to the public in such a way that the public would get a favorable conception of the organization because of its conception of its head.

HUMAN beings are always more interested in human beings than in corporations. And it is perhaps significant that the majority of American corporations that have attained conspicuous success have been headed by men whose names became synonymous with their companies, men whose personalities caught the imagination of the public and made an impression upon their minds.

THE United States Steel Corporation first had the benefit of the glamor of the original J. P. Morgan's name and fame. Later Judge Gary personified the mammoth corporation. And in time the judge's reputation became one of the corporation's most valuable assets. Now it will be the duty of James A. Farrell to give the people opportunity to get well acquainted with him.

Charles M. Schwab has been the Bethlehem Steel Company, in the eyes of the public, for the last 20 years. Such a hold did Mr. Schwab get on the public mind that it still pictures Bethlehem Steel as the handiwork of Mr. Schwab and nobody else, whereas the fact is that for several years Eugene G. Grace has been the dynamic force guiding the company's operations. Mr. Schwab has done his best to get the public to recognize this, but without much success thus far.

RECALL what Rockefeller became in oil, Carnegie in steel, Morgan in banking. Their names and personalities wrought miracles in acquainting the public with their business activities. It was the extraordinary personality of John H. Patterson that did more than anything else to make his cash register so well known. Of late years, George Eastman, the man, has proved an invaluable asset to his huge enterprise.

GENERAL MOTORS has been handicapped in this respect. Pierre Du Pont, its chairman, has in him the makings of a most attractive public figure, but he very much dislikes being in the limelight. President Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., is similarly constituted. Moreover, his nose is so constantly applied to the grindstone that he hasn't the time necessary for handling publicity and public relations in a personal way—accessibility to the representatives of the public, the press, is essential to the process. But now that the various units of the corporation have been licked into shape, Mr. Sloan may make opportunity to give the people a better chance to know him.

C. A. COFFIN shrank from public contact, but his successor, Owen D. Young, immediately changed that policy because, as he then told me, the public is entitled to know about the men directing the affairs of enterprises in which thousands and thousands of people invest their savings.

W. R. Hearst early succeeded in projecting his vigorous personality upon the public's imagination. The largest real estate business in New York is done by a man whose personality has been his greatest asset, Joseph P. Day. For years the American Telephone Company was Theodore N. Vail. The most successful British man of the present generation was a vivid, unique personality, Lord Leverhulme, the Sunlight soap king.

MORE and more it becomes essential that mammoth corporations stand well in the public's esteem if they hope to avoid trouble. One very important step towards this end is the suggestion here given.

MARKET PRICES VARY; RAILS STRONG

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—Confused price movements characterized today's stock market, which was featured by the strength of the railroad shares. Raising of the call money rate from 4 to 4½ per cent, coincident with the calling of about $25,000,000 in loans, and predictions of a substantial increase in brokers' loans in the weekly Federal Reserve report to be issued after the close of the market, were believed to be responsible for much of the selling. The ticker again fell 15 minutes behind the market by early afternoon.

Publication of the Ford price list, which is reported to be from $150 to nearly $200 below corresponding models of its chief competitor, brought some fresh selling into General Motors, but offerings were fairly well absorbed. Dodge Bros. and Hudson also were subjected to pressure, but Nash and Hupp recorded substantial gains.

Profit-taking brought about sharp recessions in Montgomery-Ward, Radio Corporation and National Biscuit, all of which have been featured in the recent advance. On the other hand, International Nickel, Postum and Westinghouse Electric started a new forward movement, selling 2 to 3 points higher. U. S. Steel common was in rather free supply, but held within a point or so of last night's close.

Atchison and Delaware & Hudson, each of which advanced 4 points, were the bright spots of the railroad group. Wabash moved up more than 2 points on expectations of heavily increased traffic from the Ford plants. "Soo" common attained a new peak price for the year.

In the foreign exchange market, sterling cables duplicated the year's high of $4.88 and Swedish kroner advanced to a new peak at 26.97 cents.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—(AP.)—The cotton market opened steady today at a decline of 4 points to an advance of 2 points. A little selling on the easier showing of Liverpool was absorbed by continuation of the covering noted on the rallies yesterday, while there also seemed to be some trade buying.

The market showed net advances of 7 to 10 points shortly after the opening, but demand was less active than yesterday, and prices eased back within a point or two of yesterday's closing figures by the end of the first hour under realizing or renewed liquidating.

A private crop report placed the yield at 12,830,000 bales, compared with an end-October report of 12,600,000 bales.

Private cables said some continental and Bombay buying in Liverpool on expectations of bullish crop estimates had been supplied by London and Manchester liquidation.

Offerings attracted by the early advance proved sufficient to carry prices a shade under yesterday's closing quotations, but the market firmed up again on renewed covering and trade buying. January advanced from 19.07c to 19.23c, making net gains of about 9 to 13 points on the active positions, and prices were within a point or two of the best at midday. Another private crop report was published, placing the yield at 12,856,000 bales.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Second Liberties Coming In.

More than $145,000,000 of Second Liberty Loan bonds have been redeemed since November 15, the Treasury announced. This leaves only $151,000,000 of the bonds outstanding out of the original war-time issue of $3,807,000,000. Several hundred million dollars will be borrowed by the Treasury on November 15, it is understood, to retire maturing Treasury notes. Bond redemptions have depleted Treasury funds, since only about $419,000,000 was borrowed November 15 to pay off the bondholders.

A. G. W. I. Earnings Decline.

Net income of Atlantic Gulf and West Indies steamship lines for the first nine months of 1927, declined to $165,526, equal to $1.21 a share on the 5 per cent preferred, from $413,426 or $4.15 a share on the preferred in the corresponding 1926 period.

Aggregate Rail Net Lower.

Aggregate net operating income of the first 61 railroads to report October earnings amounted to $106,314,000, a decrease of 5.2 per cent under the $111,514,000 reported by the same number in October last year. Their net for September was $107,565,000. October gross revenues were $582,000,000, a decline of 4.5 per cent.

Tin Plate Prices Reduced.

The American Sheet and Tin Plate Company has opened its books for first quarter business on tin plate, quoting $5.35 per base box, Pittsburgh, as compared with the official price for the past quarter of $5.50. New sheet price schedules have not been announced as yet. In tin plate sales have been made as low as $5.25 during the quarter just ended.

Long Bell Passes Dividend.

Long Bell Lumber Company has passed the quarterly dividend on the $1 cumulative Class A stock, due at this time.

Bee-Hive Coke Lower.

Bee-hive coke prices have dropped to as low as $2.50, due to suspensions on contracts which have created a surplus. One blast furnace is reported to have picked up a sizeable tonnage at $2.50 and $2.75.

U. S. Gold Stocks Lower.

Stocks of gold in the United States decreased $53,000,000 in November as a result of exportation of $13,000,000 of metal from New York and "earmarking" of $40,000,000 for foreign account, according to a monthly review by the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

Seminole Shows Decrease.

The Seminole area for 24 hours ended 7 a. m. Wednesday produced 421,515 barrels crude oil, compared with 429,577 barrels Tuesday.

Seek to Oust Sinclair-Doheny.

Members of the American Petroleum Institute are being circularized by a group opposing the re-election of H. F. Sinclair and E. L. Doheny to the directorate of that body, because of their connection with government oil lease scandals. The board of councillors meets in Chicago next week to act on their re-election.

Retiring Owens Preferred.

Owens Bottle Company will retire the remaining $2,440,450 of outstanding preferred stock on July 1, 1928, at $110 per share.

Another Motor Optimist.

Professor William B. Bailey, economist of the Travelers' Insurance Company, Hartford, Conn., forecasts the greatest sales of automobiles in this country in 1928. The activity in this industry, he asserts, will percolate down through other lines of business to make the next year one of continual prosperity. "I should not be surprised if the production of new cars next year passes all previous records."

American Railway Express.

Net income of American Railway Express Company for nine months of 1927 was $1,424,672, equal to $4.72 a share, against $1,430,327 or $4.58 a share in the corresponding 1926 period. Gross revenues were $209,242,945, compared with $214,613,392 a year ago.

Westinghouse Electric.

Westinghouse Electric bulged through to a new high for the year in response to reports of dissension in the directorate as to the man to be selected to fill the chairmanship made vacant by the death of Gen. Guy E. Tripp. At yesterday's meeting no action was taken on the matter. Rumors were afloat that Matthew C. Brush, president of the American International Corporation, had been approached by certain interests desiring to name him as chairman, but he denied the stories, as did Paul D. Cravath, acting chairman. Two powerful stockholding groups are reported to be at odds over the chairmanship, but these were not identified in the reports emanating from New York.

Pan-American Western.

E. L. Doheny, veteran oil man and president of the Pan-American Western Petroleum Company, does not entirely share the pessimism of most executives in that industry. While he sees little hope of an upward revision in crude or gasoline prices, he is inclined to regard the oil situation, generally, as "more or less healthy." While October earnings of Pan-American Western Petroleum Company were better than in that month last year, mainly due to lower expenses, President Doheny said that the results for 1927, as a whole, would be considerably below those of 1926. October showed a net profit before taxes of $210,549, as against a deficit of $43,219 for October, 1926. For the 10-month period ending October 31 net profits were $182,664, against $2,178,172 in 1926. "I think that the oil situation is more or less healthy," Mr. Doheny said. "It is obvious that we are producing more oil in California than the local market requires. However, the combined domestic consumption and the exports take care of a great proportion of the production. In fact, in some grades of oil drafts are now being made upon stocks. California exports of petroleum products, however, have a congested market in which to compete with the production of other regions."

October Wholesale Trade.

Wholesale trade declined 2.4 per cent in October from last year's level, the Federal Reserve Board announced. "Declines between September and October occurred in all the lines included in the index except meats, the largest declines being in sales of clothing and shoes. Compared with October a year ago, sales of groceries, dry goods, women's clothing, hardware and furniture declined, while those of meats, men's clothing, boots and shoes and drugs increased slightly."

Continental Can.

Notwithstanding the fact the estimated corn pack this year was only about 58 per cent of that of 1926 and the pack of peas was reduced about a third, 1927 earnings of Continental Can Company will show a substantial gain over 1926. Latest estimates place net for common at between $7 and $8—probably nearer the higher figure—a share on about 544,000 common shares now outstanding. This compares with $6.72 a share on 500,000 shares in 1926.

Radio Corporation.

Radio went into new high ground early, but the advance attracted a rather heavy volume of profit-taking under which the stock sagged back sharply. Shorts appeared to be confident of their bearish position on the stock, but bulls pointed to the reports that company's October and November sales were averaging better than $11,000,000 monthly, with prospect that the fourth quarter would show about $35,000,000 of business. Net earnings for the quarter are estimated at between $5,500,000 and $6,000,000, against $3,555,000 in the third quarter, which was a record, and $4,141,000 in the first nine months. If this estimate is realized the corporation's earnings this year will be between $9,000,000 and $10,000,000 net, which, on a basis of the lower figure, would exceed $6.50 a share on the 1,155,000 shares of common stock.

Packard Record Shipments.

Packard Motor Car Company November shipments established a new high record at 4,577 cars. The previous high mark was made last month when 4,354 cars were shipped.

Melon Prospects for 1928.

One broker says that while 1927 will establish a new high record in stock dividends, it will be surpassed by 1928. "I figure," he concluded, "there are at least 25 companies in a position to declare stock dividends, and many will do so before the end of next year."

Profit-Taking Puts Lone Star Down

Irregular price movements characterized the dealings on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today. The market showed a little more diversification of trading with a few issues a point higher and others, Lone Star among the latter, selling off on moderate profit-making.

New highs for current trading were registered by Harbison Walker Refractories and Pittsburgh Plate Glass. Westinghouse Electric was strong in reflection of an upturn in the shares on the New York Exchange.

Lone Star Gas was called upon to absorb some selling which forced the price back a little, but there was no pronounced weakness in the shares.

Standard Sanitary was under mild pressure in the early dealings as holders took advantage of yesterday's advance to dispose of stock bought at considerably lower prices. When this supply was absorbed, however, the stock resumed its upward movement and advanced to a position well above the top established Wednesday.

Small lots of Penn-Federal Corporation common were handled at figures close to the last previous close. Arkansas Gas and other fuels were quiet and practically unchanged.

For PEACE of MIND

EVERY man wants to prevent the dissipation—through ill-advised investments—of the life insurance which replaces his earning power. He can guard against this by establishing a trust. An insurance trust brings priceless peace of mind at small cost. Our charges as trustee do not start until the insurance proceeds are actually received, invested, and producing income.

Our trust officers will be glad to discuss this with you—in confidence, and without obligation.

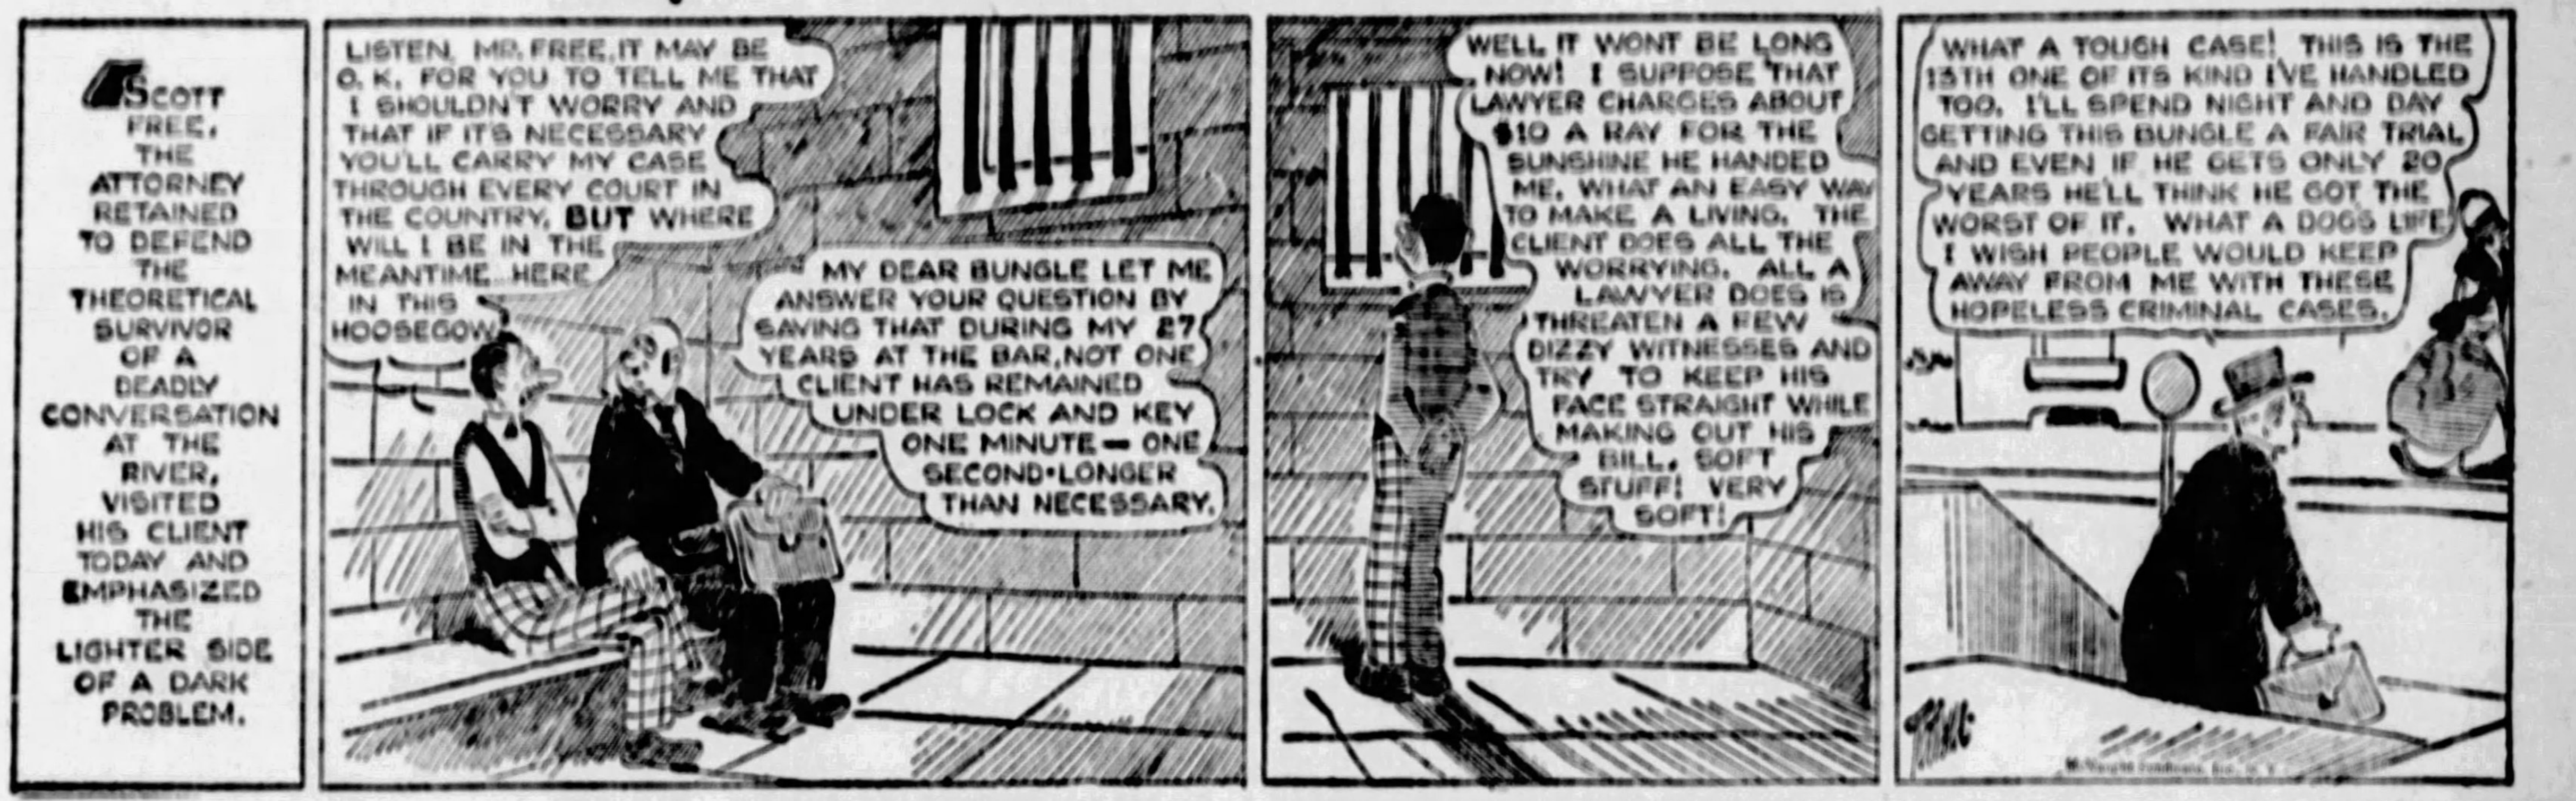
THE BUNGLE FAMILY

Optimist and Pessimist



SCOTT FREE, THE ATTORNEY RETAINED TO DEFEND THE THEORETICAL SURVIVOR OF A DEADLY CONVERSATION AT THE RIVER, VISITED HIS CLIENT TODAY AND EMPHASIZED THE LIGHTER SIDE OF A DARK PROBLEM.
LISTEN, MR. FREE, IT MAY BE O. K. FOR YOU TO TELL ME THAT I SHOULDN'T WORRY AND THAT IF IT'S NECESSARY YOU'LL CARRY MY CASE THROUGH EVERY COURT IN THE COUNTRY, BUT WHERE WILL I BE IN THE MEANTIME...HERE IN THIS HOOSEGOW.
MY DEAR BUNGLE LET ME ANSWER YOUR QUESTION BY SAYING THAT DURING MY 27 YEARS AT THE BAR, NOT ONE CLIENT HAS REMAINED UNDER LOCK AND KEY ONE MINUTE — ONE SECOND LONGER THAN NECESSARY.
WELL IT WONT BE LONG NOW! I SUPPOSE THAT LAWYER CHARGES ABOUT $10 A RAY FOR THE SUNSHINE HE HANDED ME. WHAT AN EASY WAY TO MAKE A LIVING. THE CLIENT DOES ALL THE WORRYING. ALL A LAWYER DOES IS THREATEN A FEW DIZZY WITNESSES AND TRY TO KEEP HIS FACE STRAIGHT WHILE MAKING OUT HIS BILL. SOFT STUFF! VERY SOFT!
WHAT A TOUGH CASE! THIS IS THE 13TH ONE OF ITS KIND I'VE HANDLED TOO. I'LL SPEND NIGHT AND DAY GETTING THIS BUNGLE A FAIR TRIAL AND EVEN IF HE GETS ONLY 20 YEARS HE'LL THINK HE GOT THE WORST OF IT. WHAT A DOG'S LIFE! I WISH PEOPLE WOULD KEEP AWAY FROM ME WITH THESE HOPELESS CRIMINAL CASES.

BUGS BAER Says

LIKE all other authorities on elusive statistics, we are thoroughly qualified to guess instead of reason.

That companionate marriage out in Kansas City seems to have jumped up a lot of hopeful recriminations. We don't know what a companionate marriage is, but that doesn't stop us from criticizing with a lavish grouch.

All that we know is that two young citizens got married in Kansas City. Then he went home to his folks and she went home to her mother.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

That happy ending seems to have enraged eighty million snoopers. It could have been worse, for she could have brought her mother home with her and he could have met the domestic offense with his papa, mamma, uncles and other shock troops.

It's even money that she would have gone home to her mother in a few weeks anyway. It seems that the young voters liked each other very consecutively and decided that a companionate marriage was right. If we knew what it was we could tell you what was wrong with it.

We do know that it was an experiment and that the happy students left each other at the altar. They will not see each other for the next 10 years and will meet accidentally as friends.

Which seems cheerfully official. Like a barber shaving himself, it's nobody's business but their own. They have solved the problem of making a honeymoon outlast the bride's satin slippers.

We have attended a few marriages in the last few months. We have seen the groom going down the aisle looking anxiously for a detour. We have seen the bride looking tearfully through the tulle mosquito netting and we have observed the best man full of the orange blossoms.

It is an unjust thing for any law to give a bride a life sentence for a first offense. Any marriage is an experiment and even a correct formula may be spoiled by poor ingredients.

The companionate marriage gives the contestants a few years to think things over. And there is too little mature judgment in these days of drug store introductions, telephone courtships, taxicab honeymoons and cafeteria wedding breakfasts.

Outside of the desire to remain friendly we see nothing radical in the Kansas City companionate marriage. The bride and groom shuffled up hand in hand, validated the double affirmative and signed on the dotted line. She has a wedding ring, he has a marriage summons and the mice are full of crumbs from the wedding cake.

Which may not be the orthodox happy ending. But it is a good beginning.

Speedy Trials of 164 in Vote Thefts Demanded

The November grand jury, in handing down indictments against 160 election board officials and four overseers on charges growing out of the September primary, has given another effective jolt to the practice of stealing elections, The men accused are not to be presumed to be guilty because of the indictments but the latter, nevertheless, are an evidence that the majesty of the law is mighty and reasonably prompt when once earnestly invoked.

At the time of the primary, when the boldness of election crooks was so pronounced that investigation revealed shocking corruption at the polls, The Sun-Telegraph stated that the place for those guilty was in jail. It repeats that statement now. Nothing is more detrimental to public morals than dishonest election practices. They not only cheat the honest voters directly but they open the way to the spread of vice by putting into office corruptible officials in spite of the opposition of decent citizens.

We repeat, the place for election thieves is in jail, and the speedier those of the 164 who have been indicted are put there, providing they are proven guilty, the better off the community will be. The public has been thoroughly aroused by the revelations following the primary and it will not tolerate anything that resembles "whitewash."

The grand jury has done its duty well, and prompt prosecutions as a result of its findings are demanded by the public. The district attorney has shown commendable willingness to do this and it is promised that trials will begin soon after the first of the year.

That is just what is needed and the matter should not be allowed to lag after they are begun. Trials for 164 persons are quite a job but they can be attended to if extraordinary methods are taken to care for such an extraordinary contingency. Wholesale theft of ballots should be—must be—followed by wholesale jailing of the thieves.

Shorten Span Between Election and Service

Something over 12 months ago, on November 8, 1926, Robert F. Wagner was elected Senator by the people of New York state.

In the New York Times an interviewer reports that "Senator Wagner is ready for his Washington task: for a year he has been studying the legislative topics that will occupy the Senate at the next session."

Senator Wagner all these 12 months has had nothing to do but sit around and wait and study legislative topics since November of last year. His first opportunity to actually serve the people who chose him will be when the next Congress meets, on December 5 of next month, 13 months after his election.

Has there been no Congress since he was elected? Oh, yes. Approximately one month after his election—namely, on December 6, 1926—Congress met and stayed in session until March 4 of this year. At that session, which passed much important legislation, New York was represented by the Senator whom Mr. Wagner had just defeated at the polls. This defeated candidate, along with 14 other "lame ducks" who had failed of re-election, went right on legislating for the country which had just said it wanted other men in the Senate.

If this system is not plain disregard of the people's will and barefaced violation of the first principle of democracy, how would you define it?

Let Congress pass Senator Norris' amendment to the Constitution abolishing these "lame duck" sessions by having the November-elected Congress meet the following January 4, instead of 13 months after being chosen.

This would mean that the terms of present legislators would expire on January 4, instead of March 4 as at present, a loss of two months' salary ($1,666.66) to each present Senator and Representative.

That is probably the reason why Nicholas Longworth, Speaker of the House, cynically reports:

"I do not find any real sentiment for the Norris resolution among House members."

There is another important reason why Mr. Longworth, head of the Republican steamroller in the House, does not want to do away with the "lame duck" session. At present it provides an additional unearned year of political supremacy for the party in power—a year AFTER that party has been repudiated by the people.

However Congress may be regarding "lame ducks," the people want them done away with. They cannot be defended by any legislator interested in the principles of democracy.

Edison Says Ride

Usefulness of the automobile as a means of transportation is obvious. That it has another value is pointed out by Thomas A. Edison, who finds time to make pithy observations now and then in spite of working 10 to 15 hours a day.

"The automobile," declares Edison, "has caused people to move, to stir themselves, to get out and away, to wake up to what is going on about them."

That, he thinks, is a very good thing. And the inventor, who at 80 attacks new problems with a zest undulled by years, knows that waking up to what is happening—and staying awake—keeps us from getting stale and rusty and old.

So Edison approves of motoring as a method of getting the eyes open. It has set to work the gray matter of hundreds of thousands of Americans, he says. The nation is fresher and more alert, no doubt, because so many of its citizens see what's doing in unfamiliar places.

Travel is bound to be broadening, of course. The automobile provides travel wholesale.

But how far is "travel" that will furnish something to see and think about? Not any farther than around the block or out the boulevard, if you go with intent to observe and get some profit from the jaunt.

As a matter of fact, you can travel and observe and think about what you see without leaving your chair, in books and newspapers and magazines. That's an idea for this time of year, when the motoring may be a trifle chilly.

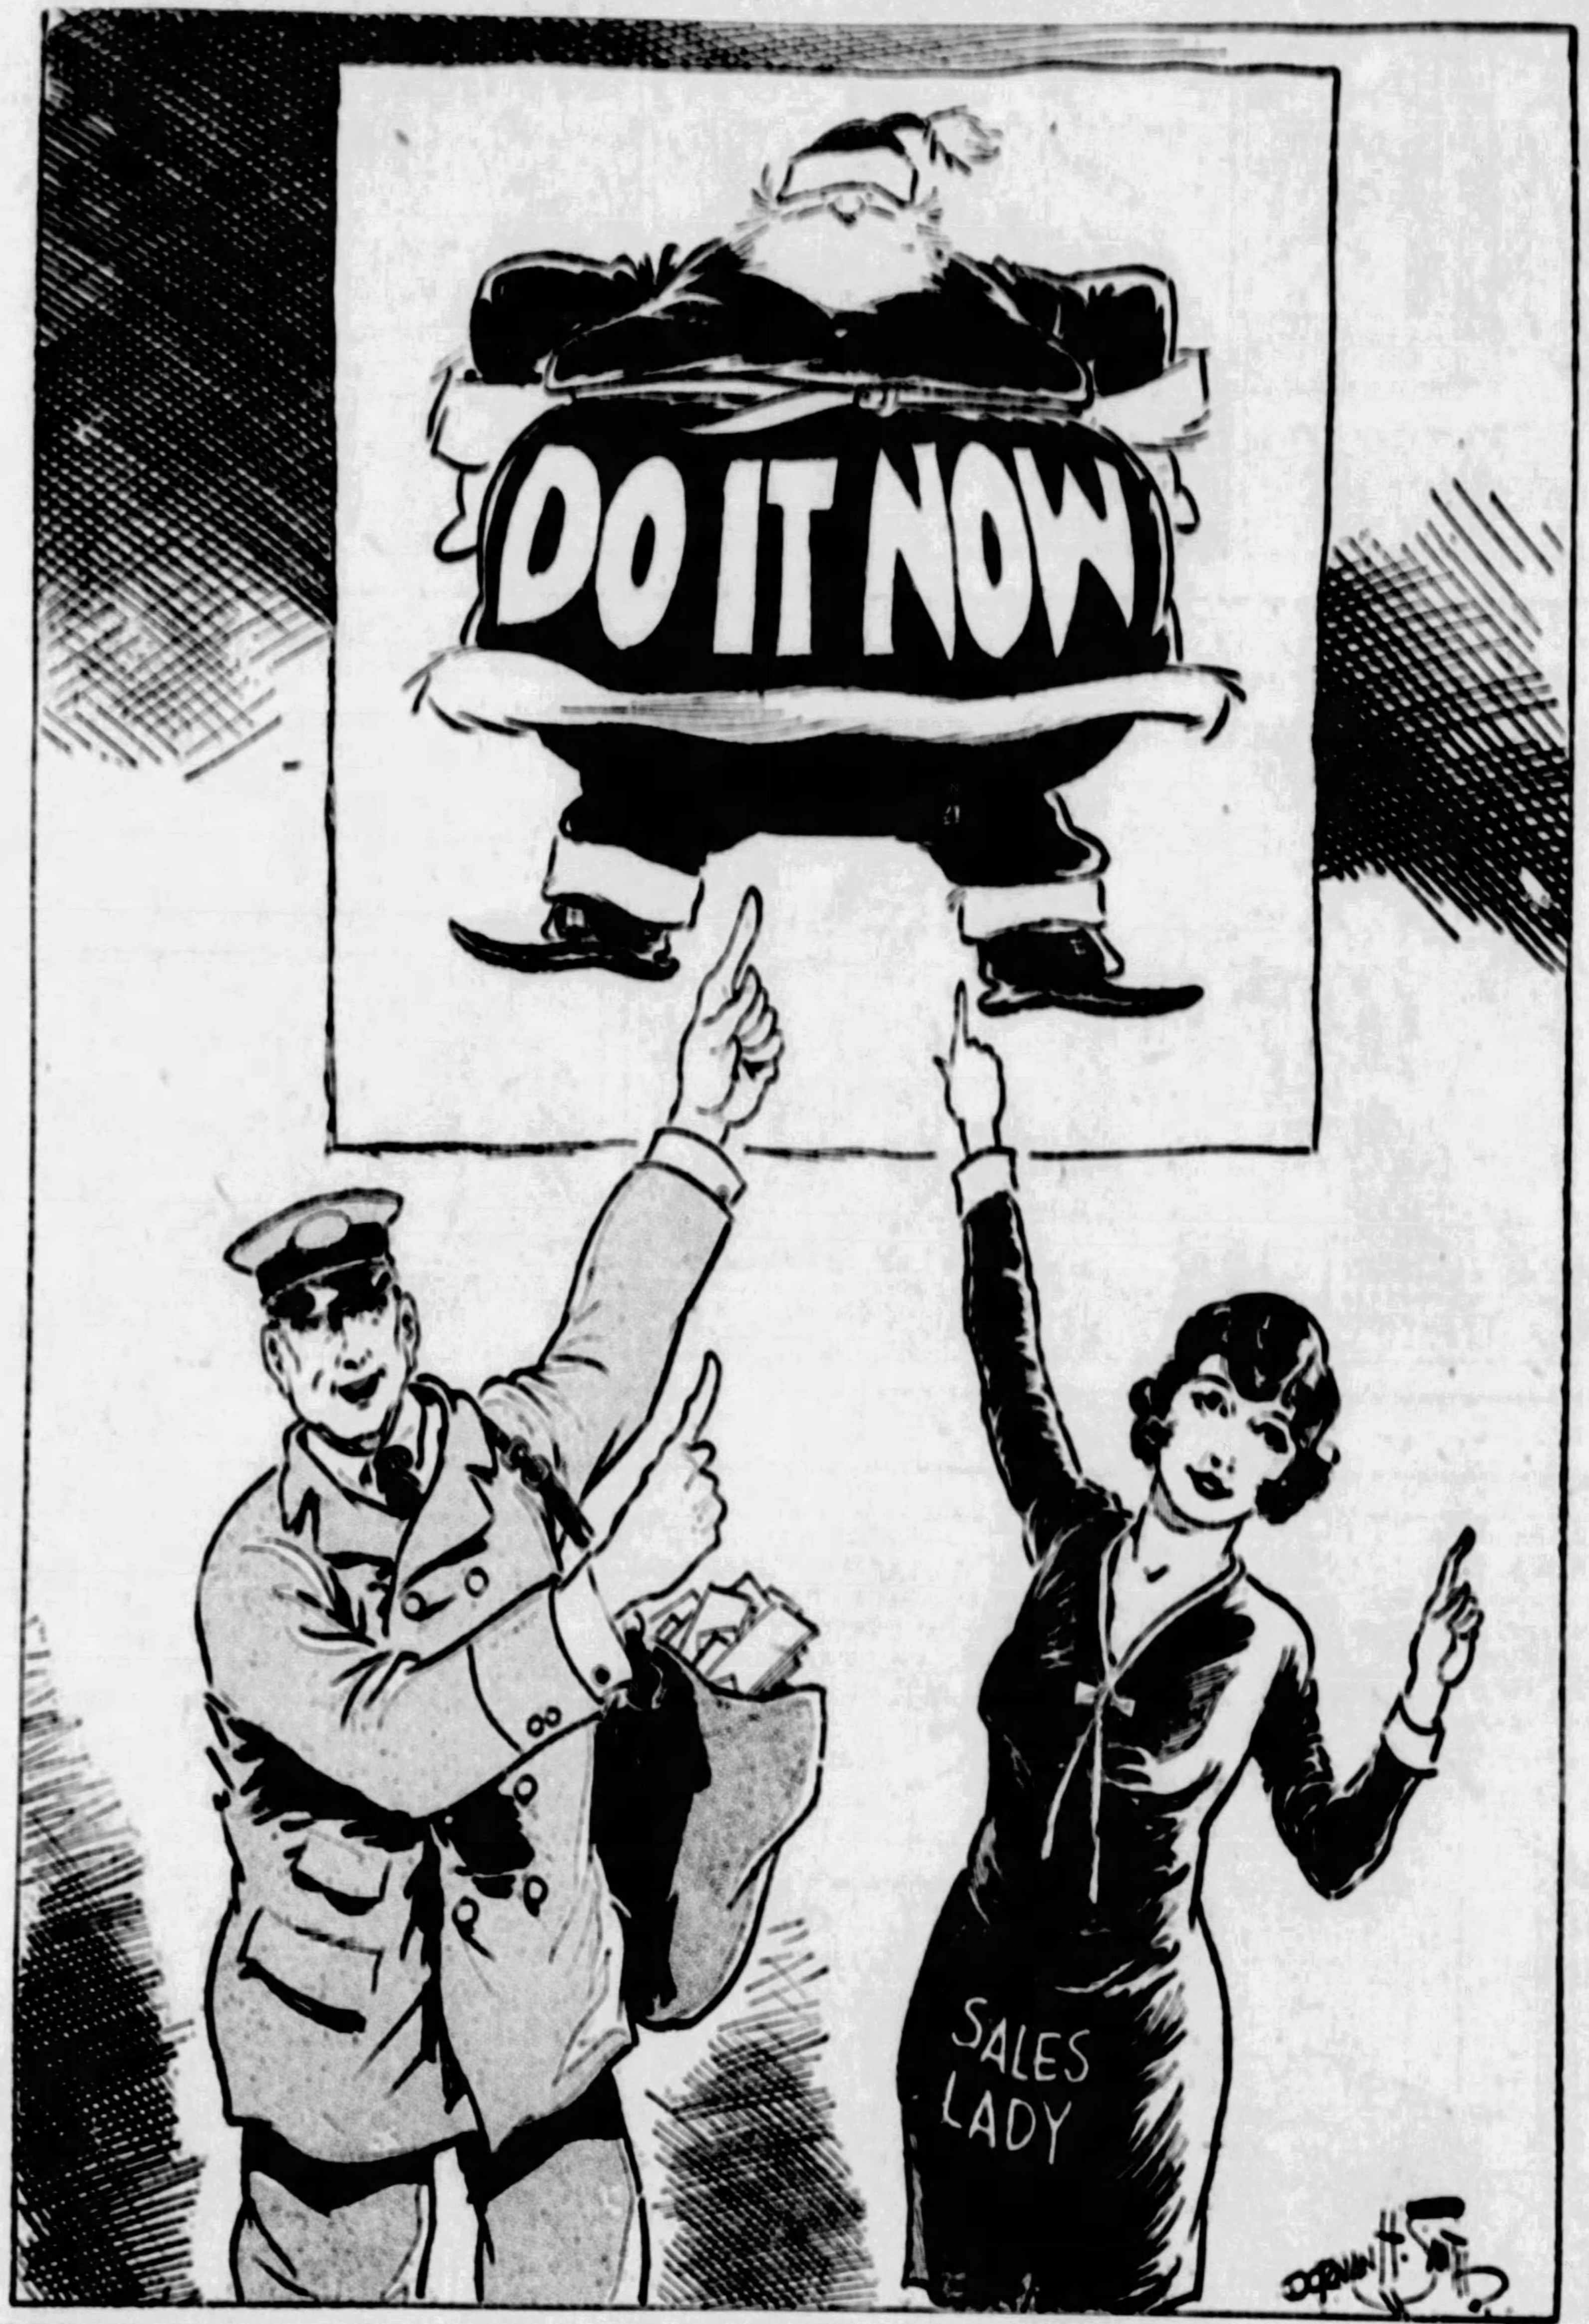
Spend It Here

Why Must U. S. Money Go Abroad?

Sir James William Leigh-Wood tells the British Empire Chamber of Commerce that the United States, destined to be the greatest lender, will be puzzled about collecting. Britain used to build railroads in South America and take wheat in pay. They lent money elsewhere and took goods in payment. We have a tariff that keeps out goods, don't want any more gold. How can they pay us?

The United States might spend some of the thousands of millions now lent abroad on home improvements—Mississippi and Colorado rivers, lakes to ocean, canals, highways, etc. Those investments would be paid back many times over.

HEY, YOU!!



Garrett P Serviss Says:

Mining for Heat

MR. HODSON, a British engineer from the Rand, assured the British Association at its last meeting that his calculations, based on his experience of deep digging, made it practically certain that man could run all his factories, drive all his cars, and do all his mechanical work by utilizing the interior heat of the earth—if only an economical way could be found to bore the necessary holes. He suggests two systems, one requiring a 30-mile-deep hole, the other a hole only five miles deep.

The late Camille Flammarion, the French astronomer, had a similar faith in the possibility of utilizing the earth's inside temperature, as well as an equally Jules Vernesque plan for getting at it. But we must not forget how many things bodied forth in amazing stories by the imagination of that wonderful dreamer, Verne, have turned into realities in our time, and this scheme of tapping the globe for heat and power may some time end in another amazing reality.

The heat is there, in unlimited quantity; of that there can be no doubt. It is heat derived not from combustion, but from gravitation. The material of the earth squeezes itself toward the center with such force that it is heated. Huge piles of grain become warmed within, partly from the effects of gravity pressure. It is stifling warm under a sand heap. The temperature at the bottom of deep wells is always higher than at the top. Steady pressure as well as sliding friction develops heat by transformation of energy. A great snow avalanche partly melts itself. From the foot of every large glacier a stream of ice-born water flows.

When the earth is bored anywhere, an average increase of temperature is found at the rate of about one degree Centigrade (1.8 Fah.) every hundred feet of descent. So, independent of "subterranean lakes of fire," the globe must contain an immense amount of self-created heat. If the average increase observed near the surface should continue at a uniform rate, the temperature would be 10,000 degrees at the depth of a hundred miles—more than enough to melt all substances known to us.

The existence of this subterranean store of heat has long been known; why, then, have engineers not long since made serious attempts to transfer it to the surface? For the same reason, it may be replied, that though man had seen birds fly for thousands of years, and had made feeble attempts to fly himself, he met with no success until less than 25 years ago, when two Americans flew over a North Carolina beach, and thus set the ball rolling so swiftly that half a dozen years later nations were fighting with aerial fleets in the clouds, and now men, and women too, "hop" across the Atlantic—some for humanity and some for fun, or money.

There is always a little secret spring in such things which, when touched—usually more or less by accident—opens a magic door to a new garden of marvels. Considerable promise may be found in the fact that in Italy already heat from subterranean sources in old volcanic regions is being industrially utilized. This is but a small and hesitating step in the wished-for direction; but so was the first Kitty-Hawk flying machine. Man's inventive energies have never in the world's history been so universally awake as they are at the present time. That fact is the best basis for hope.

The Eternal Feminine

THE huddled remains of Queen Maresankh III, of Egypt, have been found near the Great Pyramid by the Reisner expedition. She was the granddaughter of King Senefarn and died 4,500 years ago.

When the body was found the queen was sitting holding an ancient mirror in her hands. The only moral which adorns this tale is that human nature (feminine at least) doesn't change much.

Pay Attention to Health

ARE you bluffing yourself into believing that your health is better than it really is?

Because you have always been rugged, you are not paying sufficient attention to certain annoying symptoms.

You can tell by these symptoms that you have an advancing ailment but you conclude that you can throw it off someway as you have other things in the days when you were younger.

You ridicule the suggestions of your family that you consult a physician for examination.

You may be letting your trouble get a fatal grip on you.

Oft-recurring attacks mean something is wrong.

Consult a man who has the ability to properly diagnose your case.

Failure to do so is injustice to yourself, and your family.

Gems

THIS sapphire is a rare and lovely gem,
  A thing a princess might be proud to own,
And set within a shining diadem
  To lend its lustre to her royal throne.

This pearl is gleaming with the moon's own light,
  This diamond sparkling as the sun's bright ray;
The one could bring new beauty to the night,
  The other add fresh radiance to the day.

And yet the eye that looks beyond the glow
  And gleam of beauty, howsoever fair,
That seeks some deeper loveliness below
  The surface, finds new wonders there!

For pearl and sapphire were but sand and clay,
  The diamond was but dust once, long ago;
Who knows what splendors may evolve some day
  From this dull self that mocks our longings so?

PRO-BRITISH IGNORANCE—One New York schoolboy never heard of Admiral Dewey, but that's nothing—one Chicago schoolgirl never heard of Mrs. O'Leary's cow.

It costs $1,300,000,000 a year to keep American women beautiful, the amount being in excess of the interest on the public debt. But who's interested in the public debt when it comes to a beautiful woman?

New York Day by Day

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—There are no more luxurious gambling halls like Canfield's, Honest John Kelly's and others in the metropolis. These places were conducted in the manner of the exclusive club and gentility was strongly stressed.

A gentleman was supposed to take heavy losses with a smile. He came in full dress and top hat and while all liquor and food were free he was expected to use them as the true gentleman always does—sparingly.

There were never killings or cheap brawls. And the authorities merely winked at them, staging a raid only at long intervals to satisfy the reformers. The raids were tipped off in advance and law enforcers found men sitting about in deep cushioned chairs reading and playing solitaire.

When these places were permanently closed, gambling acquired a movable background. The gambling house runner favors the new method because he does not have to scatter protection money as he did in the old free and easy days.

He has portable equipment which can be moved with the precision of a circus. One night he may be occupying a flock of rooms in the top floor of a hotel in the Forties and the next he may be in a private apartment in the upper Seventies or a home in Greenwich Village.

His information is kept to himself until late in the afternoon, when he imparts it to trusty lieutenants—or "tip-off men" who spread the word where the night's high play will be staged. Only carefully selected "important money" men are in on this.

For the lesser fry or tin-horn gamblers the same process is employed. In the chophouses, cigar stores and other haunts the word is spread at 6 o'clock where dice and card games will hold forth for the evening.

Opium parlors for moneyed "hop heads" are conducted much in the same manner. Only they rarely take a chance in the city. Men who conduct them are said to rent isolated homes in remote villages—remaining only a week or so at a time in one and moving on to the others until they complete the circle. At one time several years ago it was said almost all of the shady hotels in the midtown Tenderloin had one floor devoted to slaves of the poppy. Frequent raids and prosecutions have driven the majority into the country.

Trained men attached to the Narcotic Squad can detect a drug addict with a passing glance. It may be something about his eyes, his complexion, his talk or gestures, but he is spotted, and once spotted he is trailed until the source of his supply is revealed. New York wages the most relentless of all wars on drug peddling. Most peddlers are addicts and have all the cunning that goes with the habit. Many have been watched for as long as three years before they were caught. It is estimated there are 600,000 drug addicts in Greater New York.

It is said that only the habitue of Chinatown is permitted to smoke opium there. It used to be any stranger on the loose with a "yen" could be piloted to a bunk without questioning.

I am told those gamblers known for their abstinence from liquor and having such a cool and collected calm in a great crisis are often steady drug users.

About the only sporty type of gamblers with checkered vests and such left are around the East Side stuss houses. They carry a gat. The suave uptown gambler is modest in dress and manner with an electric light complexion. One of the most famous always sits in a public place in the corner with his back to the wall. He takes no chances.

Oscar Shaw seems to have stepped into first place as the leading Broadway juvenile. He came to the stage by way of a Philadelphia brokerage office and has a teeth flashing smile that resembles a china store suddenly gone flooey.

The Machine

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

Aldous Huxley, grandson of the famous English scientist, says that modern machinery is running civilization. He claims that it will put democracy on the junk heap, scrap our school and crucify culture by mass production, and all sorts of things.

It is a relief to turn from this prophet of evil to the words of Secretary Davis at the National Labor Convention recently in Los Angeles. The Secretary said:

"We know that the machine destroyed human slavery. It transformed the worker into a man. It has been said that but for the invention of machinery we should have a few kings and a body of lords and their armed retainers bossing the world. It was the machine that wiped out feudalism, created democracy and handed the average man more luxuries than kings enjoyed 300 years ago."

There has always been an outcry from some high-brow source against the machine. Writers love to hark back to the good old days when mother wove the linsey-woolsey and the farmer plowed behind a team of oxen instead of using a tractor.

Some people always look back with a great deal of satisfaction to the days of mediaevalism.

The facts, however, are against them. Humanity is much better off since the advent of the machine than before. Time was when the laborers of the spinning towns in England rose up and destroyed the spinning machines because they were taking jobs away from laboring men.

Labor has learned better.

The machine puts certain people out of jobs, but it replaces them at better jobs.

Such wages as Henry Ford pays his workmen are unheard of in Europe, and the luxuries of an American home surpass the luxuries of the nobility abroad.

Instead of smothering culture the machine promotes it. It gives the laboring class more leisure time, and culture is the product of leisure.

The time will probably come when the machine will do all of the dirty work of humanity and leave men free for higher things.

Gasoline at 50 Cents

MEXICO reports a plan of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana to unite five of the greatest Mexican oil companies. Somebody ought to unite United States oil companies under government control and advice, to prevent reckless squandering of the nation's oil supplies.

Today's 22,000,000 automobile owners in the United States will be increased to 40,000,000 before many years. Unless something is done to protect the oil supply they will find themselves paying 50 cents a gallon and more for gasoline.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I Quit Lying, Because—

I USED to be an uncommonly successful liar.

I had one of those simple, confiding techniques that get by 99 times out of 100. I made lies serve a hundred useful purposes. I squirmed out of countless scrapes with lies. I wrapped myself in engaging falsehoods as in bright gypsy coats. I made life comfortable and safe and exciting and colorful with lies. If ever a liar made a good job of lying, I did.

And yet, I've cut out lying. I found I couldn't get by with it. And today I believe firmly that honesty is the best policy, and I'm doing my best to be honest.

Now, I suppose you're expecting to hear of some dazzling vision that awoke me to the beauty of honesty. I'm sorry to disappoint you, partner, but I'm not the kind of a girl that sees dazzling visions. I never could fall in love with morality just because it had a skin you love to touch. Righteousness is a plain matter of profit or loss to me, and I've got to be shown.

Nor did I cease my falsehoods because some terrible retribution fell on me. I was getting by 100 per cent when I decided to stop lying and, as far as I know, I might still be sitting pretty in the public eye if I had continued.

BUT I WOULDN'T BE SITTING PRETTY IN MY OWN EYE—AND THAT'S WHY I'M OFF LIES.

I discovered, at last, that though I could fool pretty nearly everyone else, I couldn't fool myself. I could never quite make myself believe my own lies. As far as I myself was concerned my performance was a complete flop.

All my success with the general public couldn't make up for that failure with myself. For, after all, I was the one who ultimately mattered to Me. I, Myself, was my final audience. If I didn't get over with myself I was certainly out of luck. And I wasn't getting over with myself.

Every time I lied, I double-crossed myself.

Every time I told a lie I, myself, walked out on Me.

There I was, making a coward and a clown out of Myself, spoiling life for Myself—and for what? Just to win a little protection or a little applause from a bunch of citizens, who, in the long run, didn't care a hoot for me. Profit and loss? Why, my lies were making me bankrupt. And I thought I'd been so smart. I wasn't smart at all. The most simple-minded moron, blurting out the naked truth, had it all over me when it came to intelligence.

OF ALL SILLY, FUTILE INDOOR SPORTS, CHEATING AT SOLITAIRE IS THE WORST. And I had been cheating at solitaire.

So I've cut out lying. And I'm being as honest as my double-jointed conscience will permit.

All of which, of course, won't interest you in the least unless you, too, happen to be a liar. But there's a slim chance that you are.
